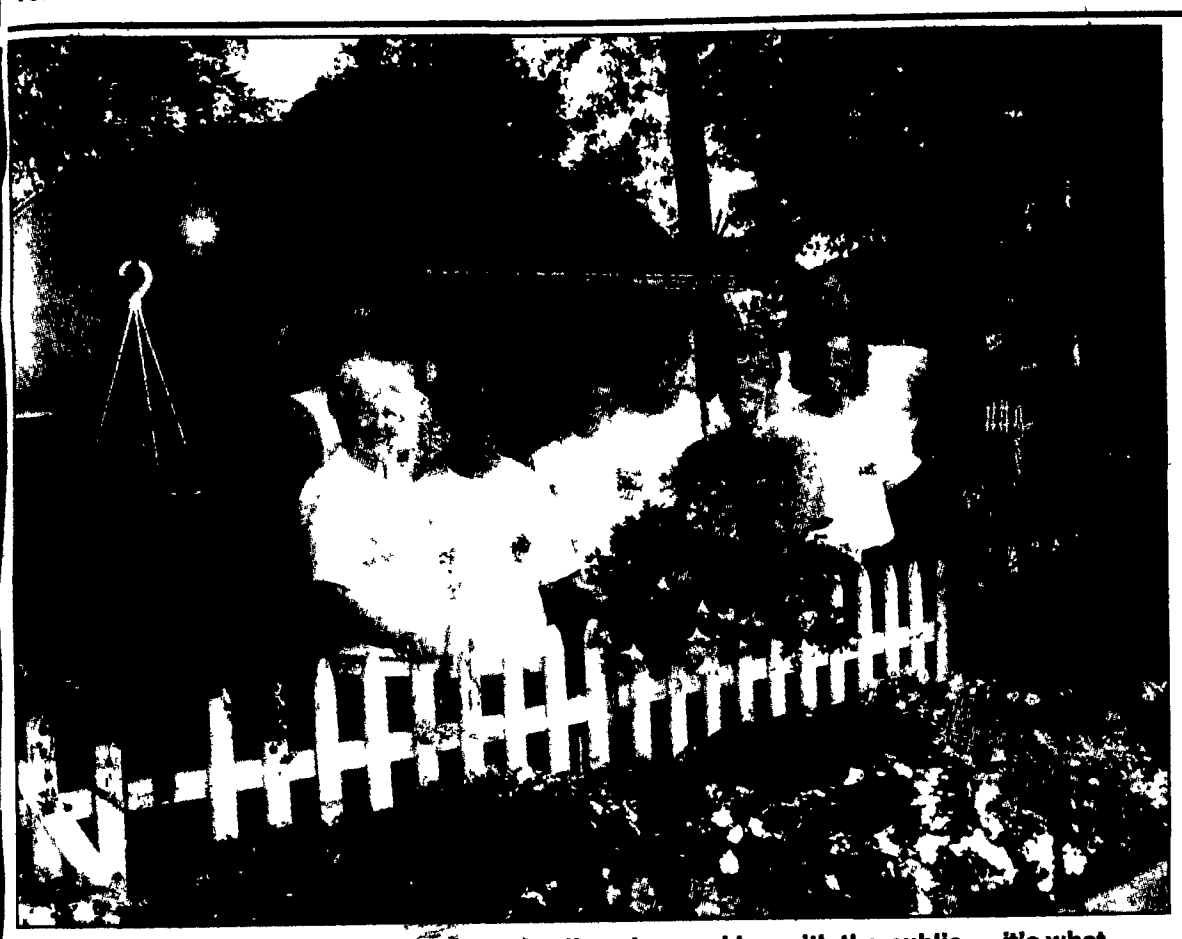
Vol. 44 No. 32 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, June 12, 1999 | $31.00 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy



All of the Rothenberger extended family enjoy working with the public — it's what their farm is all about. Merrymead, which includes a farm market and a retail flower and vegetable business, is what some would call an "entertainment farm." Pa. House Approves N.E. Dairy Compact Legislation 183-18

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state House of Representatives on Wednesday approved, 183-18, an amended version of proposed legislation that would authorize Pennsylvania to join the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, should the U.S. Congress reauthorize the Compact and the addition of Mid-Atlantic states.

The House action on Senate Bill 365 (S.B. 365) came quickly this week.

It followed on the heels of a press release made June 4 by Gov. Tom Ridge that stated his support of the state Legislature's efforts to enable Pennsylvania to join the Compact, with conditions.

Up until the Friday news release, the Ridge Administration had not been politically involved.

The conditions were not made specific, but according to various sources close to the issue, they dealt with deciding who should represent Pennsylvania to the Compact Commission.

On Thursday Tom Charles, a spokesperson in Gov. Ridge's press office, said, "The Ridge Administration continues to work with House and Senate leaders on the specific wording for Pennsylvania to join the Compact. We're hopeful the General Assembly will send a satisfactory bill to the governor shortly."

Charles said he could not say what specific measures were being sought by the Administration and Gov. Ridge.

Despite the House approval, and S.B. 365 apparently on track to being approved, there are House and Senate agricultural leaders who continue to hold "serious" reservations about the wisdom of pursuing Compact control of the dairy industry.

The main theme of concern is that small-herd, family run dairy

Growers Learn Importance Of Proper Conditions For Thinning, Protecting Trees From Deer Damage, At Orchard Tour

ANDY ANDREWS

BOYERTOWN (Berks Co.) — Thinning and protecting apple trees from the ravages of disease and deer, ensuring good fruit during a season full of unknowns, presents great challenges to orchard managers.

About 85 growers and agri-industry representatives found exactly how to use thinners properly and took home insight into protecting trees from deer and insect damage recently during the Penn State-sponsored Southeast Pennsylvania Fruit Growers Twilight Tour at Keim Orchards in Boyertown.

For thinners to work on apple trees, you need "a lot of real cloudy weather," said Dr. George Greene, Penn State Fruit Research and Extension Center, Biglerville. "You need cloudy weather three days in a row, and warm nights — then trees can be more easy to thin. Some will drop without thinner at all."

In a demonstration area, Greene said a commercial variety of thinner was demonstrated on several rows of 12-year-old Law Rome apple trees. Spray was applied mostly on May 21 this year at different rates. Five different treatments were applied, compared to one check.

At 10 parts per million (ppm), the thinner didn't take enough apples off, leaving some viable fruit in clusters. In areas where a higher dose, 15 ppm, there were "plenty of clusters here — too many," Greene said. At the low rate of 5 ppm, there was "still not enough thinning," said Greene. In another sampling at 10 ppm, "I still see some clusters with three or more," he told the tour group.

Using thinner can be both a sci-

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — For the first time in the history of the Holstein USA breed organization, a pair of brothers are national finalists competing for the title of distinguished junior member.

David and Matthew Day, sons of Curtis and Ann Day of Tri-Day Holsteins in rural Shippensburg, are both in the running for the national honor, with the winner to be announced at the Holstein USA convention, June 19-22, in Boise Idaho.

Both youth are to be flown to the Boise convention courtesy of the CATTLE: Compared to Tuesday, slaughter steers and heifers sold .50 higher. Demand was very good for the large supply of high-quality cattle, but buyers were more careful on the plainer types considering the wide spread between Select and Choice carcass values. Holstein steers traded .50-1.00 higher. Slaughter cows sold firm to .50 higher in active trading and slaughter bulls sold fully steady. Supply included 51 percent slaughter steers and 32 percent slaughter cows.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1195-1470 lbs 66.00-70.00, groups mostly 66.35-68.85. Choice 2-3 1105-1480 lbs 63.75-67.00, high dressing 1-2 up to 70.50; 1475-1625 lbs 61.50-64.00. Select and low Choice 2-3 1060-1525 lbs 61.00-64.50. Select 1-3 1000-1445 lbs 57.75-62.00.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers sold .50 to mostly 1.00 higher. Demand was good all week, especially for the high Choice and Prime quality cattle where the full advancement was noted. Fat cattle prices continue to improve on the coattails of the best dressed beef market in years, trading near 116.00 for Choice carcasses. The Western fat cattle market gained 1.00 live and 1.00-2.00 dressed at 67.00 and 104.00- 105.00. Area Holstein steers ended the week mostly 1.00 higher. Slaughter

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

In Chicago prices were 1 cent lower on extra large and large, mediums unchanged. In Boston prices were unchanged to 1 cent lower on all sizes. In other areas values were generally unchanged. Demand was mostly light to moderate with overall movement best where features were in progress or planned. Supplies were at least adequate to ample. The market tone was unsettled but usually no better than steady. Breaking stock supplies were at least sufficient for the light demand. Light type hens were ample for current slaughter needs.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
JUNE 09, 1999

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was irregularly light to good with buyer interest centered on a tight supply of 3 pound sizes. Other sizes were reported in a range of adequate to ample. Live supplies were about moderate; weights were trending lighter. DOA's as a result of hot humid weather varied, but were generally increasing. Conditions were expected to moderate starting today and tomorrow. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truckiot asking prices were unchanged at 55 to 67 cents. Trade sentiment was mostly steady. Boneless skinless breasts were irregularly available. Other items were in fairly good balance.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Jun 09, 1999
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY Wheat bids were narrowly mixed, today, with active harvest pressuring bids while damage is being found in some crops. Corn bids were slightly lower due to rainy forecasts in the Corn Belt areas and slowed export sales. Soybean bids were higher as traders position themselves ahead of Friday's USDA Supply/Demand report. Wheat mixed. Corn 1 to 3 cents lower. Sorghum 4 cents lower. Soybeans 2 to 7 cents higher. Harvest is moving north but some hail damage is being reported in some areas. Other places, good yields have been recorded. Export sales were quiet overnight for all commodities. Spring wheat planting is slightly behind normal due to recent wet conditions but the crop is approximately 90 percent completed. Corn planting is finished and rain is being forecast over the next few days in the Midwest. Export sales have slowed down, pressuring bids. Sharp gains were seen in bean pits again today as buyers square up be- fore Friday's USDA reports are released. Some expect World supply and demand figures to tighten. Planting progress is good but rains being forecast over the next few days would slow things down. Soybean meal was slightly higher again.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

ST. BASIL, JUNE 14.

RAISE THE JOLLY ROGER

"Tis well to sail when the south winds begin to blow," Aristotle told us. If June winds beckon, put the children into their life jackets and see if they can tell a pirate from a privateer. The lines were often blurred in history. Sir Francis Drake, for instance, was an official privateer for Queen Elizabeth, who wanted him to capture Spanish ships. Edward Teach, better known as the pirate Blackbeard for his dark, shaggy whiskers, shared his wealth with the governor of North Carolina. When Blackbeard started raiding Virginian ships, however, the governor of Virginia put a bloody end to it, in 1718, with a raiding crew of his own and Blackbeard's head as the booty.

No man can swim ashore and carry his baggage with him.

TIP OF THE WEEK

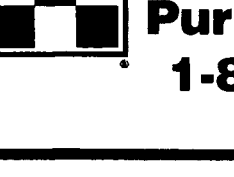
BROILED BLUEFISH

2 pounds bluefish fillets
4 large cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon chopped fresh rosemary leaves

Preheat broiler (or grill) with rack about 4 inches from the heat. Oil the broiler pan and place fish fillets skin-side down. Spread garlic over fish. Sprinkle with soy sauce and rosemary. Broil until center of fish is just firm when pressed gently, about 10 to 15 minutes depending on thickness of the fish. Cut into serving portions and serve hot.



Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

When it is hottest in June, it will be coldest the corresponding days in February.

Oh! St. Vitus (June 15), do not rain, so we may not want barley.

Occupation Of Highest Esteem

For farmers and those of us who are close to the farm or grew up on the farm, a favorite event is dipping into the bulk milk tank for ice-cold, fresh milk. Sonia Wasco, president Grand Heilman Photography and member of the Lancaster Chamber Agriculture committee says this was her experience, but she wonders about the stories she hears of how children today think milk comes from cardboard or plastic containers. And, they believe chocolate milk comes from brown cows.

To quote Sonia: "--the reality is that in this ever-growing world, fewer and fewer people have the same backgrounds (as farmers). When I was a child, one farmer produced enough food to care for 16 people. Today a farmer is responsible for more than 101 people in the U.S. and another 28 people abroad. All this means fewer children will have the same opportunity to know about life growing up on any kind of farm."

Not only does this fact make a less sympathetic population toward farming; it helps speed the use of farmland for development where the land can never be returned to production agriculture. In Southeast Pennsylvania down into Maryland, much of the land with the highest productivity rating has been covered with houses and shopping centers. If we don't preserve farmland and make it profitable to farm, we are in danger of having one big city that encompasses Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. We need to act now, if we are to keep the quality of life and the enhanced economic activity that comes when there are producing farms in the community.

To us, those who work the land have chosen the occupation of highest esteem. This will really be seen if our country ever finds itself in a food shortage brought on by a breakdown in the transportation system or for some other reason.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

To Look At Business Side 1

In a recent article written for the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders, Richard Waybright of Mason Dixon Farms, developed his version of "29 Steps to Successful Dairying." Although several of the steps involved important benchmark data specific to dairy farms, Mr. Waybright identified many steps that would apply to all types of farms.

Some of these steps include:

1 Set vision goals for your farm and family. Think 10 years into the future and dream.

2. Visit trend setting farms at least twice a year to share ideas.

3. Read everything you can get your hands on. Think outside the box and do not be afraid to be different.

4. New concepts are put into practice by people who allow themselves to ask the question, " Why do we do things this way?" an

At Business To Look Side 2

Some additional steps Richard Waybright, Mason Dixon Farms, identified in his article on "29 Steps to Successful Dairying" include:

1.A well planned concept that has a three to five year payback, will always catch the banker's approval. If your investment does not meet this pay back criteria, it is not worth it. To farm with a lesser plan should cause you to stop farming and invest in the stock market instead. Aim to farm profitably, then it is exciting and challenging and not so stressful.

2. Plan facilities to maximize labor input: a one person parlor for example.

3. Invest in buildings, equipment, quality animals and well trained, motivated people who can meet your three to five year pay back guidelines. and

4. Have a good record keeping system that allows you to measure progress. Compare your achievement with the top 10 percent of farmers in your commodity. Remember, if yours is just average, you are working for minimum wages and not much profit.

To Look At Business Side 3

In the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders article, other business steps identified by Richard Waybright of Mason Dixon Farms, Gettysburg, Pa. include:

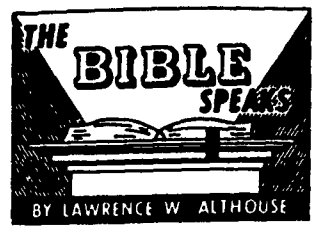
1. Pick the low hanging fruit first where there is the greatest profit potential; items with low investment and high returns.

2. Invest in items that pay a cash return. Do not buy land until you have your farming system working, then buy land with profits.

3. Determine what things you can do well, and then hire someone to do the other things that need to be done. 4. Take time off in order to recharge your optimism and enjoy life. 5. Select a mentor farmer and copy him or her. and

6. Get off dead center and move ahead with your plan. Nobody is going to do it for you, but there is a lot of good professional help if you are willing to take the lead. Take control of your destiny. Be happy and enjoy life. Your children will want to be farmers.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "If you have the courage to begin, you have the courage to succeed."



WHAT ARE WE DOING HERE?

June 13, 1999

Background Scripture:
Genesis 2:4-25
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 5:21-33

People sometimes tell me that because science and Genesis are in conflict, they either can't believe in science or they can't believe in Genesis, I usually reply, asking, "Which Genesis creation story?" For there are actually two different, conflicting stories in Genesis.

The first of these we looked at last week: Genesis 1 to 2:4a. The second story begins with Genesis 2:4b and runs through the end of the chapter at verse 25. If you regard these stories as objective scientific accounts of the creation of the universe, then you will have some problems that I believe are insoluble. If you regard them as two different stories that recount, not the scientific facts of creation, but the theological meaning of it, then you will not have to give up either science or Genesis.

Some people try to solve this by shuffling them together as if they were one, interspersing details in a way that avoids contradiction. But this is something which the original writer(s) of Genesis did not do. Obviously, if he had believed they could be put together, he would have done so. Instead he lets them stand, one after the other, glaringly different in detail, but theologically harmonious.

SIX DAYS/ONE DAY

How do they disagree in details? In story A, God creates the world in six days. In story B, the writer says simply, "In the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens . . ." (2:4b) and never indicates the passage of another day in the process.

In story A, the condition existing at the very beginning is that "the earth was without form and void and darkness was upon the face of the deep; and the Spirit of God was moving over the face of the waters" (1:2). In story B we have a quite different setting: ". . . when no plant of the field was in the earth and no herb of the field was yet sprung up . . . but a mist went up from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground — then the Lord formed man of dust from the ground" (2:5-7).

There is a definite day-by-day progression of creation in story A: light, Heaven, the Earth and Seas, vegetation, lights in the heavens, birds and water creatures, beasts of the earth, and man (male and female). In story B the creation of man begins the process, followed by the Garden of Eden, animals and finally woman. Try putting these in parallel columns; it just won't work. In story B, God creates woman sometime after man and the animals, taking a rib out of Adam to fashion her. In story A God creates male and female together.

FOREST AND TREES

If you need to make everything fit together nicely, then you have a considerable problem. But, if you can accept that the two stories, while widely divergent in their details, are no less harmonious in their meaning, then you can appreciate them as was intended. Unfortunately, all too often people become too bogged down in the details and miss the inspiration of these accounts, like not seeing the forest for the trees.

We also get caught up in debating whether Adam and Eve were historical persons or symbols for all human beings. The name Adam (who along with Eve is not even mentioned until Genesis 4) is a collective name, referring not to a specific individual, but to all mankind. The Hebrew word adham means "man" and is a play on the word adhamah, meaning "ground" (man was formed from the dust of the adhamah). Similarly, Eve (hawah or "life") is a collective name that refers to all women as "mother of all living" (Gen. 3:20).

What we are in danger of missing in these two stories is the purpose for which God created all humanity. The details are different in the stories, but there is a coherence in their meaning. In story A, God created man to "be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth and subdue it, and have dominion . . ." (1:28). In story B we are told, "The Lord God took the man and put him in the Garden of Eden to till it and keep it" (2:15).

So the purpose of the Genesis creation is not to give a blow-by-blow account of how God created the world, but why. And not to inquire into the personal lives of Adam and Eve, but to answer that eternal question, "What are we doing here?"

Rotary Member Pays $255 For Prize-Winning Berries

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Ten years of weeding, picking, and hoping culminated in a grand finale for Jimmy Mullen, Wakefield, on Wednesday.

The prize-winning two-quarts of berries topped $255 when auctioned at The Lancaster Rotary Club dinner following the competition.

Timothy Peters of Warfel Construction Company paid the hefty price as an investment to encourage young people in business endeavors. And, he said, "Because I'm hungry and in a charitable mood."

After Peters claimed the berries, he said that he was counting on his wife to bake him a strawberry pie.

Jimmy was ecstatic. He credits his win to "lots of TLC (tender loving care)," and with the roundup coinciding with peak picking time in the berry patch.

Jimmy arose at 5 a.m. to pick the Red Chief berry variety.

"Normally, I'm up much earlier to milk cows," the 18-year-old said of his job at Shady Birch Farms, Tanglewood.

"I think this is a great way to end my last 4-H year before heading off to Alfred State in New York," Jimmy said. He plans to study animal science and dairy herdsmanship.

A graduate of Solanco High School and the FFA, Jimmy has a plethora of ribbons for his many 4-H and FFA projects. He considers his most rewarding achievements were placing first in public speaking during state competition in 1995 and in raising the champion berries.

This year, first-time exhibitors' judging was separate from those with more experience.

First place in the first year's exhibitors division went to Dawn Winters, Manheim. Samuel Altdoerffer, Lancaster, paid $150 for them.

Second place in the senior division went to Kenton Bucher, Manheim. His older brother showed the grand champion berries several years ago. Kenton's younger brother Kristofer showed the second-place berries in the first-year exhibitor's division this year. Each of the Buchers care for 50 plants in the strawberry patch.

The most difficult job, according to the brothers, was to keep the birds from eating the berries before they were ripe for picking.

Kenton's berries sold for $115 to Rodney and Tracy Host, Lancaster. Kristopher's berries were purchased for $65 by D.L. Peters Construction (no relation to Timothy Peters).

The annual Strawberry Roundup sponsored by The Lancaster Rotary climaxed Jimmy Mullen's 10th and final year when his grand champion berries sold for $255. High bidder was Timothy Peters. Kenton Bucher's reserve champion berries sold for $115 to Rodney and Tracy Horst. From left are Kenton Bucher, Timothy Peters, Auctioneer Harold Keller, and Jimmy Mullen.

This year, auctioneer Harold Keller had help from his son in enticing higher bids from Rotary Club members. Other than the top winning berries, Rotary paid between $45 and $100 to eight first-time 4-H members and 11 veterans entering the annual roundup on June 9.

Berry patches do not produce berries the first year so that 4-H members need to wait two years before receiving berries for the rewards of their labors. To encourage first year members, The Rotary Club donates cash awards for well-kept record books.

Paul B. Zimmerman Inc.
WB95PZ Zimmerman Water Bowl
The Unlimited Water Supply For Your Cows!

Low maintenance noncorrosive Delrin valve is self cleaning & simple to operate!
Now you can give your cows the water they need to produce more milk. With the Zimmerman Water Bowl, you can do it at no extra cost!
The bowls are designed to comply with known federal and local requirements when installed properly.*
Cows are not designed to push a paddle when they need a drink. This unique watering system provides a continuous supply of fresh water in the way nature intended cows to drink. With a large capacity, fast recovery and a guarantee against breakage, the Zimmerman Water Bowl will revolutionize the way you water your herd.
*All bottom fill bowls require that approved back flow prevention devices be installed in potable water supply lines
Install in new or remodeled facilities or in most existing barns on manger or stall side!
• 12" in diameter & 8" deep.
• 3 gallon capacity- 6 times that of other bowls!
• Fast recovery- 3 gallons per minute at 40 psi.
• PVC construction- guaranteed unbreakable, inhibits bacterial growth.
• With nonrestrictive splash guard.
• Cleaner- water fill located at bottom.
• Bottom drain- for easy cleaning.
• Adjustable water level.
MORE WATER MEANS MORE MILK...NATURALLY!

Heavy duty steel clamp & mounting bracket totally supports bowl.

Two Coat Process!
Added Value With Our 2 Coat Process!
1 Five step metal preparation, including iron phosphate conversion coating, to enhance adhesion & prevent undercoat corrosion
2 Zinc rich epoxy powder undercoat

Dairy Farming Can Be Busy, Educational, And Simply Fun

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANSDALE (Montgomery Co.) — On a dairy in this northwest Philadelphia suburb, some days can be literally — well, swarming.

Merrymead Farm is filled with visitors on a daily basis — busloads of children from schools in center city Philadelphia and surrounding areas; tourists from New Jersey, New York, Maryland, and other states; and neighbors who simply want to treat themselves to some homemade ice cream and see the farm's many pets, including the biggest hog in the world.

In the midst of this, Merrymead still has to function as a dairy. Imagine hundreds of school kids walking from one of many education stations on the farm while milk trucks, tractors, delivery equipment, a street sweeper, and even golf-carts-turned-utility-vehicles try to mend their way through the farm.

Then it gets really hectic, in the fall season, when pick-your-own pumpkin visitors jump onto the hay wagon on a trip to the 40 acres devoted to ornamentals.

"We have to move equipment through here while there are strollers, grandparents with their kids, and to do it safely, that's a challenge," said Steve Quigley, Merrymead Farm general manager.

He was pointing to a heavily traveled area which connects various "educational stations" that help school kids learn what a working dairy farm is all about to the milking parlor and cow barn.

But all 18 members of the Rothenberger extended family enjoy working with the public — it's what their farm is all about.

Merrymead, which includes a farm market and a retail flower and vegetable business, is what some would call an "entertainment farm." But farm owner Maynard Rothenberger, who with his wife Betty Jean built the store in 1971, sees how essential "entertainment" farming can be.

Years ago, Maynard saw how important it was to justify the dairy in light of a changing community. Dairy farms were going out of business, replaced with development. Some of the most highly developed areas in Pennsylvania surround the 140-acre homestead near Lansdale.

Rothenberger knows this and tries to work it to the farm's — and the community's — advantage.

"We try to provide that balance," he said. "We want to be an asset to the community. The public will put up with the inconveniences this might cause if we remain in the community."

The Dairy of Distinction and Century Farm is where Rothenberger was raised. His parents, Oscar and Eva Rothenberger, sold the farm to Maynard and Betty Jean in 1965.

At the time, the Rothenbergers milked 35 cows. To be viable and profitable, Rothenbergers knew expansion was key. In the years since, they built the herd size to approximately 100 cows.

A key to the farm's growth was constructing a store that could take the milk and ice cream products and sell them directly to the public.

"We saw the potential there," said Maynard. "We observed what others had done."

In 1971, when the store was constructed, Maynard had seen the "writing on the wall, as far as commercial agriculture in the area was concerned," he said.

He looked at other farm stores and realized, to operate a store successfully, he had to move it a fair distance from the milking barn. The general public was simply not used to the sights and scents of modern agriculture. So a 250-foot milk pipeline was constructed underground, running from the milkhouse to the processing center connected to the retail store.

Along with that, the farm store founders had other ideas.

They would watch as people who came in for a few dips of ice cream would walk out and tour the calf hutches. The store evolved from a place for people to buy ice cream and look at how the farm grew, with new housing and equipment, to a modern-day farm market. The idea of providing a little education and entertainment for visitors took hold.

The farm store was expanded to include a deli, bakery, and other items for sale. Not long after, a retail flower business opened. Vegetables from the farm and surrounding areas were for sale.

With the many visitors, and with the Rothenbergers' intent to keep the farm orderly, clean, and neat, they purchased a street sweeper. About five years ago a son, Scott, painted the sweeper the colors of Holstein.

Other attractions were added since the store opened. They include Wilber, a 7-year-old Hampshire barrow, now weighing 1,150 pounds and what the Rothenbergers dub the world's heaviest hog; a large cage with Clarence, a 4-year-old peacock; a sheep and goat pen containing Suffolks and pygmy goats; Scooter, the rooster; and lots of other educational exhibits about how a dairy farm operates and the importance of milk in a nutritional diet.

Steve Quigley, farm general manager, said that, in a year, "tens of thousands" of children tour the farm from hundreds of schools in and around Philadelphia. In a single day, many busloads will appear.

"We show kids what cows eat," he said. "We show them the basics of milking a cow. We allow children to put their fingers in the pulsators."

Recently some kindergartners from Stanton Elementary in south Philadelphia toured the milking parlor. At the same time, kindergarten children from Spruance School in Oxford Circle, downtown Philadelphia, learned the benefits of milk products, from ice cream and cheese to whipping and sour cream.

Seth Epstein, a Spruance Elementary kindergartner, lifts the milk barbells. Kindergarten children from Spruance School in Oxford Circle, downtown Philadelphia, learned the benefits of milk products, from ice cream and cheese to whipping and sour cream.

Also, at one end of the parlor, an observation area allows visitors to watch the milking, at 3:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. The parlor consists of a double-6 herringbone, which feeds a pipe to the store itself.

Most milk is processed at the store, according to Quigley. The remainder is sold to Land O'Lakes Cooperative.

There are 10 different educational stations. They include baby calf hutches; a chicken coop, which describes how many eggs a hen will lay; a peacock in a cage; sheep and goats, which children can pet; the world champion Wilber the pig, declared the biggest pig in the world by the Guiness Book of Records, according to Quigley; the cow maternity barn; a heifer barn; the feed station for cows, how different groups are fed; the milking parlor; and the silos, with the holding station and feed room.

After the tour, the children are treated to ice cream.

Scott Rothenberger, Merrymead Farm manager, noted the dairy includes 100 milk cows with 80 replacements, all registered Holstein. The cows are housed them in freestalls. On DHIA, rolling herd average stood at 21,600 pounds with a low SCC — 96,000-98,000. The cows are fed a TMR.

Ventilation and sprinkler systems cool the cows in the summer.

Quigley noted the farm uses two exercise pastures. The manure is stored in 12-foot by 30-foot underground pits with enough capacity to spread twice a year.

The home farm totals 140 acres. In all, Merrymead farms 350 acres.

"We try to make the farm a visual show for people who visit," said Quigley. "We keep the barn clean. We show the children how we use ear tags, the head gates, and how cows are treated."

He said when the veterinarian, Dale Streams from the Quakertown Veterinary Clinic, arrives, children can see all the work he does on the cows. Also, for children it's an educational experience when the hoof trimmer appears.

The cows are generally more friendly because they are always being exposed to people, including the thousands of visitors each year.

Merrymead also operates a retail flower and vegetable business. Quigley said he often travels to Leola Produce Auction in Lancaster County three to four times each week to pick up seasonal items.

All these contribute to a successful dairy and farm market.

Maynard noted that there were few options.

way to grow," he said, "to expand in the area. Land was not an option. This was the only way to expand, in a business sense."

The township's restrictive ordinances have hampered what the dairy is allowed to do. According to Quigley, Merrymead needs to expand the store for storage area. They are using five trailers in the back of the store for items and equipment to operate the farm market. They also make use of an old hayloft for storage — making a proposed 15,000 square foot addition essential for their business.

Also, according to Quigley, the farm would like to have additional space to place tables for a breakfast and lunch area. And when customers stand in line for ice cream, there is little room in the 1,100-square-foot store for those wanting to buy other items — placing further restrictions on business growth.

Quigley remembered a time when 130 people stood in line for ice cream. The employees had to remove one table at a time to accommodate the customers.

No customer opposes the expansion, noted Quigley. A township meeting was conducted some time ago to take the opinions of landowners in the area. "No one came to the meeting to oppose it," said Quigley. "We can't understand it."

In order to expand, the township wants Merrymead Farm to write and sign a "covenant," or binding agreement — for reasons unexplained — that would hold Merrymead legally bound to future results of any business expansion. All this while other development in the area gets the green light.

Merrymead Farm has been a site for birthdays, weddings, all sorts of parties, Quigley noted. They've had photo shoots staged for various businesses, including a pharmaceutical company. "We've had company picnics, weddings — a lot of things."

No longer is Merrymead Farm simply a place to buy ice cream, noted Maynard Rothenberger. Farm visitors want to see how a working farm operates.

"We try to be a good representative of our industry," he said.

Ruth Dunswiler has hold of Scooter the rooster for children to see at Merrymead Farm.

With the many visitors, and with the Rothenbergers' intent to keep the farm orderly, clean, and neat, they purchased a street sweeper. About five years ago a son, Scott, painted the sweeper the colors of Holstein.

Children from Philadelphia kindgergarten classes look over Wilber the hog, a heavyset Hampshire crossbred barrow weighing 1,150 pounds. Merrmead says it's the heaviest hog in the world.

Celebrating Dairy Month

Guest Columnist: Sonia Wasco, president, Grant Heilman Photography, and member of The Lancaster Chamber Agriculture Committee

The warm summer months hold fond memories for me of growing up on a dairy farm. Two of my most favorite memories are dipping into the milk tank for ice-cold, fresh milk and making homemade ice cream in the evenings. I often sit and wonder about stories I now hear of how children think milk comes from cardboard or plastic containers. And, that they believe chocolate milk comes from brown cows

But the reality is that in this ever-growing world, fewer and fewer people have the same backgrounds. When I was a child, one farmer produced enough food to care for 16 people. Today, a farmer is responsible for more than 101 people in the U. S. and another 28 people abroad. All this means fewer children will have the same opportunity to know about life growing up on any kind of farm.

This year marks the third year for a cooperative effort between Oregon Dairy and The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry to bring life on a dairy farm to the public. In celebration of Dairy Month, Family Dairy Days will be held at Oregon Dairy June 15 through 17. Festivities begin at 11 a.m. each day and continue through 7 p.m. The three-day event has a history of hosting as many as 8,000 people.

Family Dairy Days is the perfect opportunity for everyone to learn about life on the farm. Oregon Dairy will open their Dairy Farm for tours. Visitors will be given a guided tour of the free-stall barn; seeing how cows spend their days, where they are milked, how they are washed, and even sample the final product of fresh milk, chocolate or white, and free ice cream cones. There are baby calves to pet and a live "A Day In The Life Of A Dairy Cow" display. The list of activities available to visitors goes on and on!

The Lancaster Chamber has gathered county businesses to put on a "show spectacular." Topping the list is none other than Lancaster County's Dairy Royalty. Our County Princess and Dairy Maids will be on hand to answer questions. Joining them will be exhibits from over a dozen businesses. There will be tractors to climb on, baby chicks to watch hatch from eggs, face painting, nutrition information, conservation and safety displays, and a coloring contest with awards in three age divisions and a free ice cream sundae coupon for all completed entrees. With any luck there might even be a new born, white-tailed deer fawn to capture everyone's attention!

So help us share our memories of life on a farm by joining us on June 15-17 at Oregon Dairy. For more information or directions, please contact Brent Landis, Chamber agriculture services coordinator, at (717) 397-3531.

Multitude Of Speakers To Address Global Soy Forum '99 Participants

URBANA, Ill. — John Stossel, ABC NEWS newsmagazine 20/20 correspondent, will be one of many distinguished speakers at the Global Soy Forum '99, Aug. 4-7 in Chicago.

Stossel, who is slated to speak on Saturday, Aug. 7, during the farewell event, is expected to address the importance of creating worldwide partnerships in relation to the future of food production. In addition, he will likely examine the health benefits of incorporating soy products into the food system.

After joining 20/20 in 1981, Stossel began doing one-hour prime time specials in which he investigates a wide range of consumer issues. He has won 19 Emmy awards and has been recognized five times for excellence in consumer reporting by the National Press Club.

As part of the Friday night gala event, Vice President Al Gore has been invited to speak. Besides Stossel and Gore, noted experts, scientists and producers from around the world will deliver presentations throughout; the conference.

Steve Sonka, director of the National Soybean Research Lab, University of Illinois, will speak on the future demand for soybean protein and oil. Cesar Belloso, a large-scale soybean farmer from Argentina, will speak on the subject of worldwide soybean production in the Americas.

And in order to address the world's problem of disease management, Jose Yorinori of Brazil and Terry Anderson of Canada will join fellow researcher Craig Grau of Wisconsin, who will represent the United States, as all three offer perspectives from their home countries.

In addition to the array of speakers at Global Soy Forum '99, a number of special events are planned for participants. A reception will be held at the Chicago Board of Trade, where tours and educational seminars will be offered. For those interested in the role of farm communications in the next century, a CyberFarm 2110 presentation will examine the role of the Internet, e-mail, and Global Positioning Systems (GPS) technology.

Finally, a trade show featuring exhibitors from around the world will be set up throughout the event showcasing planters, drills and other farm equipment. EMBRAPA, the Brazilian equivalent to USDA, will showcase the Brazilian soybean industry. Several other countries also will feature their respective industries.

Global Soy Forum '99 is being coordinated through the Soybean Research and Development Council and the National Soybean Research Laboratory at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Registration fees are $395. A discounted registration rate is available for farmers at $195, and is being accepted. For registration information, write Global Soy Forum '99, 1101 W. Peabody, Room 165, Urbana, Ill 61801, Call (217) 244-7384, or visit the web site at www.gsf99.uiuc.edu.

Lancaster's Youth Conservation School July 18-24

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — If you are between 14-16 years old and want to spend the summer doing something interesting, consider this year's Lancaster County Youth Conservation School, scheduled July 18-24 at the Northern Lancaster County Fish and Game Association.

Are you interested in the outdoors, fishing, hunting, and the environment? If so, the week-long resident camp allows youth to arrive on a Supday and leave the following Saturday, sleep in tents, and participate in all kinds of outdoor experiences.

Students will be introduced to the staff of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, Pennsylvania Fish Commission, the Pennsylvania Federated Sportsmen, Lancaster County Conservation District, and others involved in environmental and conservation work.

At the school you can learn fishing, shooting sports, working streamside on different improvement projects, and learn more about reptiles, other wildlife, orienteering, and more.

Overall cost per student of the camp comes to $90. All students are sponsored by a Lancaster County sportsman or conservation organization — so the final cost to each student is only $5.

Pesticide Twilight Meeting June 21

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Are you tired of sitting through the same old pesticide meetings every year? Are you tired of watching the same old slides and overheads? Do you always forget the names of the new pesticides by the time you're ready to spray?

Did you ever notice that no one ever mentions the cost of a new herbicide until they load it on your truck? Have you ever wanted to see for yourself how good an herbicide is before you have to buy 20 acres worth?

Well if any of these questions have crossed your mind in those mid-winter pesticide meetings, the ELANCO Adult Farmer Program has just what you need.

On Monday evening, June 21, the ELANCO Adult Farmer program will be hosting a pesticide twilight meeting at the Eugene Martin farm, one mile south of New Holland on Eastern School Road, at 7 p.m.

The meeting will take a look at various low-cost herbicide programs in the field and see how they compare. Roundup corn and soybeans will be featured as well as other post-emergent programs in corn, including new products such as Distinct and Aim.

Ed Starzec from Hardi sprayers will be on hand to talk about sprayer calibration and the latest in sprayer technology.

Farmers may also drop off their triple-rinsed pesticide containers for recycling. The meeting will be worth two core and two category credits. Some come out and get your pesticide points this summer. Then next winter when the show is flying you can take a nap in the comfort of your own couch rather than on a hard seat in a pesticide meeting.

The Serta Mattress Company is making a contribution to farmland preservation with a "Help Serta Save Our Farms" program that runs from May to October. The program includes billboard and newspaper advertising as well as $10 from each mattress and boxspring set sold by the Lancaster County Serta retailers. In the photo in front of one of the billboards are, Tom Stouffer; left, executive director of the Lancaster Farmland Trust, and Stuart Herr, president of the Serta Mattress Company.

Lancaster Farmland Trust, Serta Mattress Team Up To Save Farms

A commercial company not associated with agriculture has made the commitment to support farmland preservation through the Lancaster Farmland Trust. While the company does not have such ties to agriculture, the president of the company does.

Stuart W. Herr, president of Serta Mattress Company, told Lancaster Farming he has ties to the farm with an ancestral heritage back to Hans Herr. "I grew up on a farm and I own two farms," Herr said. "I'm not against development, I just think it should be managed. We chose the Farmland Trust to support the farmland preservation effort because they are a solid organization, and they don't depend on government money such as taxes, bonds or grants to get the job done. They use all private sector money, and they have already preserved 100 farms."

The Serta Mattress Company's Lancaster County retailers will donate $10 to Lancaster Farmland Trust for each mattress and boxspring set purchased in the county-wide drive running May to October. Herr recently kicked off the unique program with a $5,000 donation and expects the "Help Serta Save Our Farms" program will raise as much as $30,000 for the Trust's farm preservation efforts.

"Serta is delighted to support the Farmland Trust in its important and worthy preservation work," Herr said. "If we don't preserve farms here in Southeast Pennsylvania, we will go the way of the major cities with Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York all rolled into one. Farming is a way of life that brings with is a culture and strong religious ties that help give a positive spin to this area. I believe there are a lot of spiritual people in farming that bring a quality of life to the region."

Serta is also supporting the private-nonprofit partnering effort with outdoor and newspaper advertising.

Farmland Trust President John Schwartz said the Serta fundraising program is a unique partnership between a long-time area business and a key nonprofit--all on behalf of Lancaster County agriculture. "Serta has always been a good friend to our organization, and everyone here is looking forward to a successful drive," Schwartz said. "Now all Lancastrians can sleep better while they save precious Lancaster County farmland."

Mini Dairy Product Meetings Set

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Dairy producers who want to direct-market their own milk can attend a series of meetings next week to learn more about the Pladot Mini Dairy System.

Pladot, a metal works factory in Israel, offers a low-cost Mini Dairy that allows production of a wide range of pasteurized milk products for local markets. The system can process from 250-2,500 gallons of milk per day.

Product range includes whole and skim milk, a variety of cheeses, yogurt, butter, ice cream, sweet cream, and sour cream.

A meeting is scheduled Monday, June 14, at 7 p.m. at the Leola Family Restaurant. Another is scheduled Tuesday, June 15, at 7 p.m. at the Family House Restaurant in Mifflintown. Both educational meetings are free.

Pladot recently announced that Fisher & Thompson of Leola will be the local representative for the Pladot Mini Dairy.

Qualified engineers and technicians have manufactured and installed more than 250 milk processing systems in Israel and around the world, according to Pladot.

Lancaster's Youth Conservation School July 18-24

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — If you are between 14-16 years old and want to spend the summer doing something interesting, consider this year's Lancaster County Youth Conservation School, scheduled July 18-24 at the Northern Lancaster County Fish and Game Association.

Are you interested in the outdoors, fishing, hunting, and the environment? If so, the week-long resident camp allows youth to arrive on a Supday and leave the following Saturday, sleep in tents, and participate in all kinds of outdoor experiences.

Students will be introduced to the staff of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, Pennsylvania Fish Commission, the Pennsylvania Federated Sportsmen, Lancaster County Conservation District, and others involved in environmental and conservation work.

At the school you can learn fishing, shooting sports, working streamside on different improvement projects, and learn more about reptiles, other wildlife, orienteering, and more.

Overall cost per student of the camp comes to $90. All students are sponsored by a Lancaster County sportsman or conservation organization — so the final cost to each student is only $5.

Students from the county can meet for fun and learning. The school often helps students decide which environmental career they would like to pursue.

Pesticide Twilight Meeting June 21

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Are you tired of sitting through the same old pesticide meetings every year? Are you tired of watching the same old slides and overheads? Do you always forget the names of the new pesticides by the time you're ready to spray?

Did you ever notice that no one ever mentions the cost of a new herbicide until they load it on your truck? Have you ever wanted to see for yourself how good an herbicide is before you have to buy 20 acres worth?

Well if any of these questions have crossed your mind in those mid-winter pesticide meetings, the ELANCO Adult Farmer Program has just what you need.

On Monday evening, June 21, the ELANCO Adult Farmer program will be hosting a pesticide twilight meeting at the Eugene Martin farm, one mile south of New Holland on Eastern School Road, at 7 p.m.

The meeting will take a look at various low-cost herbicide programs in the field and see how they compare. Roundup corn and soybeans will be featured as well as other post-emergent programs in corn, including new products such as Distinct and Aim.

Ed Starzec from Hardi sprayers will be on hand to talk about sprayer calibration and the latest in sprayer technology.

Farmers may also drop off their triple-rinsed pesticide containers for recycling. The meeting will be worth two core and two category credits. Some come out and get your pesticide points this summer. Then next winter when the show is flying you can take a nap in the comfort of your own couch rather than on a hard seat in a pesticide meeting.

Day Brothers Are First Sibling DJM Finalists

Pa. Holstein Association in State College.)

Ann had been coach of the Cumberland County 4-H dairy judging teams, and also was a coach for the county's dairy bowl teams. She was coach of teams when her sons were members and the teams won two national championships.

Sarah Day, younger sister of David and Matthew, pre-dips teats to help with the evening milking. Note the sawdust bedding used on the center aisle. It helps with cow and worker comfort and makes cleanup easier for the Day family.

In 1993, she coached the junior division national champion team.

This past year, Matthew was a member of the Cornell team which won the national intercollegiate dairy cattle judging competitions. Matthew was sixth highest individual overall.

At the 1998 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show held in Harrisburg, the Cornell team with Matthew placed second, while Matthew was third highest overall.

At the York Holstein competition, Mathew was first in judging.

Both were home from college recently, David working with the 50-head milking string and the rest of the registered cattle, Mathew working an internship with Agway in sales and nutrition.

Matthew said one of his strong points at school has been dairy nutrition.

But Ann said the two boys are as different as night and day.

Matthew seems somewhat more outgoing and more apt to be involved with Holstein activities off the farm and among people, while David said he would just as soon be in the barn with the cows, or enjoying his free time outdoors.

They recently joked about the difference between the two when it comes to how much time it takes to milk the herd. Matthew said it takes him under two hours, whereas David tends to take a slower place, enjoying more the time spent with the cows.

It was David who bred the family's outstanding cow — Tri-Day Adeen, a national champion cow that had been sold, but died last year during emergency surgery.

While the Days don't have any daughters of Adeen, they have six full sisters.

In fact, Matthew is quick to note brother David's breeding and showring successes. David bred 16 animals that either won Junior All-American, or All-American honors (it is an award that recognizes show season successes).

David also showed nine to win All-American titles.

Of the 19 animals total of which he managed their breeding, David worked with three distinct cow families and received those recognitions.

Bendy-Brook Odyssey Favorite, purchased by David as an open 2-year-old at the 1991 Pennsylvania Holstein Convention sale in Reading, has since been classified as an Excellent-92.

After her first calf, David said she had some trouble keeping her pregnant. He decided that Starbuck would be a good sire, but given the scarcity and expense of Starbuck, he said he figured that a Starbuck son would be good.

He said he looked over Encore and he looked good.

Dave owns 25 registered Holsteins, while Matthew owns 28. The family herd is split between what Curtis and Ann own, and what the two boys own on the 120-acre farm the family purchsed in 1989.

Previously, the Days resided on Curtis's parents' — Roger and Lucille Day — small farm in Damascus, Maryland.

The boys were involved with the Maryland 4-H dairy activities and somewhat successful there, before the Maryland farm was sold and the entire family moved to Pennsylvania.

Roger and Lucille still help out around the farm.

It took some time for the boys to make local friends, as young transplants to the Shippensburg area. That they attended private high school in Maryland further reduced their contact with local youth.

(A long drive their parents made to take Matthew, until he was old enough to drive alone. Then Matthew drove himself and brother Dave until Matthew was graduated. Then Dave drove by himself.)

Rather than at public school, opportunities for the boys to meet local youth arose out of participating in a local baseball league, and through both playing varsity soccer at high school.

Most opportunities to meet people their age came through 4-H and Holstein Association events.

They said they met their two best friends — Heath Ocker and John Creek — through participating on the county dairy bowl team.

Through their activities they developed some of their own independent non-cow interests.

For example, Curtis doesn't hunt and David developed an interest. John Creek's father hunts and is a long-time cooperator with the Pennsylvania Game Commission. Creek's father helped David learn about and become involved with deer hunting.

While Matthew doesn't hunt, but has other interests.

The two are not competitive with each other. They explained that up until both being considered for the national Holstein DJM award, they really have never been in a situation where they were in competition with each other.

When one was playing soccer the other was done with soccer, etc.

"When we are showing (registered Holsteins) we have a sense of family," Matthew explained. "It was never me versus him."

They said the same has been true of the dairy bowl and cattle judging. In one case, they were a team, in the other, they rooted for each other.

The two said that they attribute much of their successes to their mother and father. "They're both self-motivated," Matthew said.

They also learned on their own not to give up on themselves right away.

"Once you get beat a couple of times, it's not hard to start picking yourself up," Matthew said.

Further, they said they have a strong relationship with their parents, developed through trust and openness.

The two have been allowed to participate in farm decision making for some time, they said, such as with David helping his father to make breeding decisions for the herd, in addition to David's own cattle.

"They give us a lot of trust," Matthew explained, "as long as we don't do anything to ruin that trust."

Last year, for example, their parents trusted them to take off on short notice twice to attend Holstein sales. One was in Canada (they went with a friend from Somerset County), and the other was near Pittsburgh.

They said the trust they earned is freedom.

But it works both ways. Because their parents can trust them, their parents also get some freedom.

"Dave and I can run everything here," Matthew said, which has allowed Curtis and Ann to take some vacation. He explained that the way the family works together and considers each other allows them to pick up and go to events, even on short notice.

For the future, Matthew said he is interested in pursuing a job in finance, perhaps in investment banking.

"I'm not sure I want to milk cows right away, but it is open to me, though I'm not going to come home right away (after college)."

David has more of a desire to return to the home farm, though not immediately.

He said his current plan is to graduate from college, work in farm finance, perhaps with a farm credit organization, and then either return to the home dairy, or to "a place hospitable to dairy farming and milking from a 1,000- to 2,000-cow herd."

They both said that the dairy curriculum at Cornell stresses the business aspects of dairying, and their studies have led them to believe that larger milking herds are the future.

"In the year 2001, the dairy farmer will be a businessman," Matthew said with a casual certainty.

He drew that conclusion not only from his college studies, but from what he's learned of the industry through various involvements, and from working off the farm in dairying for more than four years.

Matthew worked at Aurora Dairies as an assistant herdsman with its 800 milking herd, milking cows and helping with the dry cows. He also worked at Agway before, which helped lead to his internship.

He also has been balancing a checkbook for years.

These types of experiences and opportunities — to become involved, contribute, and to be allowed to make decisions (which means being allowed to fail) — have provided them with a sense of confidence that they can do things, and do them well.

While they acknowledge some "isolation" from the rest of society, they note that what they have received isn't widespread among their generation.

They said that, on a daily basis, the rest of the world's activities pretty well passes them by.

They have a television, but don't watch much. They get two channels, and no cable hookup.

If they want to see a movie, the rent a video cassette, or go to a theater.

"We're both pretty avid readers," David said. "I like (Tom) Clancey and stuff like that."

Last year, the two went through a Louis L'Amor phase, where they attempted to read every L'Amor saga they could get their hands on. They laughed about it, recently, but said they enjoyed it.

For those unfamiliar with L'Amor, he has written hundreds of paperback stories romancing the Old West, many of the stories carrying a common theme and characters — a tough, cowboy martyr, girl, horses and some bad guys.

For western buffs, the L'Amor series have been cult classics. ("Silverado" was a movie based on at least one of the novels.)

Going to a private school, being so immersed in the dairy industry, and growing up in a close-knit, mutually supportive family, the boys said that sometimes they felt and feel removed from society at large.

Though they said they quickly adjust to getting along with mainstream society when at college, some of the people they meet are strange to them, but there are some who seem to be normal-thinking people.

In their opinion, some of their non-agricultural peers have a warped sense of reality, because those youth get a sense of the real world from television and video games.

With recent national attention given to mentally misguided, if not abused, youth shooting classmates, teachers and others, the positiveness that the Day brothers eminate almost seems as though they are the ones not in touch with reality.

But they won't believe that for a minute.

According to the Day brothers, many of the youth their age have never been exposed to the work ethic, much less have had it be instilled in their personality.

During high school they got up at 4 a.m. to milk before going off to school. When they are home from college, the two take over milking.

Because school choice vouchers is such a controversial current political issue, the boys would seem to be poster boys for promoting the concept.

However, they noted that at their private high school, many of the classmates came from well-to-do families, and it didn't seem to make much difference.

The Day brothers instead said that parental expressions of love and concern, and having parents serve as positive role models seems much more important to raising healthy, emotionally stable, and inspired people than just sending children to a private school, or school of choice.

They have known troubled children of wealthy parents.

"Those (youth) never learned discipline. Their parents gave them everything, except attention and love," Matthew said.

"So they are basically 18-year-olds with the emotional capabilities of 12-year-olds."

They both said they know college peers who have the ability to achieve, and the knowledge of what needs to be done to achieve, but something is missing.

"A lot of kids know they have something to do, but they don't do it," Matthew said.

They said the Holstein showring has taught them that if the effort is put forth, there is usually a reward; and being on the dairy bowl team reinforced that if they don't study and do their homework, they don't get a reward.

ence and art form. With bright, sunny days, photosynthesis occurs and the plant stores carbohydrate reserves in the tree, allowing more clusters to remain viable.

Also, in many cases, the nights were too cool. According to Bill Keim, the mornings were "awfully cold," with temperatures ranging from 50-55 degrees. "It was too cold that night, too windy, too hard to predict the weather," he said. "That's not too good."

Keim wants to expand his use of thinners. He said a few years ago, trees in the orchard held "150 Romes to the tree, 15 inches around and three pounds each," it seemed, undesirable to most customers. "We don't ever want to see that again."

Keim, near Boyertown, is home to about 60 acres in orchard, including 45 acres of apples and 15 acres of peaches and nectarines, said Rick Keim. About a third of the orchard is growing Red Delicious, a third Stayman, and another third in Romes, Golds, Empires, and other varieties.

The orchard employs 10-15 part-time and mostly seasonal labor. Keim said about 98 percent of what the orchard grows is sold wholesale to supermarkets and farm markets.

For deer control, the Keims have tested lots of ideas.

"Almost any idea works some, but no idea is complete," Bill Keim told the group.

Last two years, according to Rick, the orchard planted 40-50 new trees. "A buck found every one of them," he said.

The Keims have used soaps. But the deer were still chewing on the trees. Rick Keim said that he obtained a commercial "garlic oil" scent, which was supposed to ward off deer. In fact, it worked like "salad dressing," he said, and the deer feasted.

Perimeter watch dogs "do have a place" in an orchard, he said, but the orchard doesn't want to be a kennel.

For Keim, "I believe the total answer to deer is complete restriction," he said. "Fence the whole thing in, using 10-foot high fence and gates — and you're done."

However, with a lot of acreage, if you let the gates open, the deer will enter. "But if they're in, they don't get out."

A grower from Morgantown who uses dogs spoke about the cost of the system, in his case about $5,000, but growers using dogs must understand "it's a commitment." A dog is aggressive, likes to roam, and they work independently of each other.

Bill Keim showed some work with cages around new plantings. But the problems are removing the cages at the right time, and the difficulties that can occur.

Brown Swiss, Ayrshire Breeders National Convention

FREDERICK, Md. — The national Brown Swiss and Ayrshire associations are to hold the first-ever national joint convention of the dairy breed organizations, July 14-17, at the Turf Valley Hotel and Conference Center, near Baltimore, Maryland.

The Maryland Brown Swiss Association and the Maryland Ayrshire Association are serving as host organizations for the event.

A joint convention logo was developed for the historic occasion, and the Turf Valley facility was selected for its accomodations, as well as its proximity to a spectrum of educational, entertaining and historical institutions, landmarks and sightseeing attractions.

The logo is in black, gold and red, and features the head profiles of both Brown Swiss and Ayrshire cows, black-eyed susans (Maryland's state flower), an outline of Maryland, and the Maryland state flag.

It is to be used for all convention promotional items, such as letterheads, advertising, etc.

Maryland's dairy community is proud of its heritage as well as its current accomplishments.

Its Brown Swiss and Ayrshire breeders have long been recognized for outstanding achievements in breed development, both in the show ring and in production.

According to a news release from the associations, because of the respective successes of the state organizations, "The idea to combine efforts and talents to cooperate on a joint convention was born. This project has gained momentum and support throughout the year from the industry, other state breed associations, and breeders, all realizing joint cooperation is a key factor to maintaining a strong position in the dairy industry as we approach the 21st century."

In 1989, Maryland served as the host state for the national conventions for the Brown Swiss and Ayrshire breed organizations.

"Ten years later, we have joined forces to roll out the red carpet for old and new friends, breeders and guests," according to the news release.

National convention co-chairpeople representing the Maryland Brown Swiss Association are Bill and Cindy Warner, while Martha Clark and Becky Long Chaney are co-chairpeople representing the Maryland Ayrshire Association.

A steering committee, comprised of members from both organizations, has been working to develop the groundwork for the convention.

Each association was to hold independent spring meetings, during which volunteers were sought to help with convention committees and duties.

While final details are still to come, some plans have been established.

Wednesday, July 14, the convention is to kick off with a "Joint Welcome Reception and Ceremony" featuring a genuine Maryland seafood buffet.

In addition to the special meal, other evening highlights are to include special political entertainment, Maryland dignitaries and representatives from the agriculture department.

Roger Archibold, a Phildelphia actor who specializes in doing a show in which he portrays Benjamin Franklin, is scheduled to be part of the opening event, is in line with the historical theme of the convention.

However, even prior to that, there are plans for pre-convention tours on July 13 to Washington, D.C. and Baltimore, as well as other sites of interest.

In addition to the special joint welcome ceremony and banquet, planned for the day on July 14 are a golf tournament, preliminary rounds in the dairy bowl competition, interviews of the Ayrshire princess and Brown Swiss ambassador candidates, and a youth pizza party and dance to music provided by a disc jockey.

The outline of activities for Thursday, July 15, includes a joint buffet breakfast, tours to Washington and Baltimore, and Ayrshire banquet, a fun acution, senior slide show presentations, crowning of the Ayrshire princess, a Brown Swiss banquet and presentation of the Brown Swiss ambassador program.

On Friday, July 16, there are to be separate breakfasts for youth, women, and men; motivational speakers; announcement of the Brown Swiss youth achievement winner; Ayrshire outstanding youth winner; the final rounds of the dairy bowl competitions; the national Brown Swiss annual meeting and awards luncheon; viewing of Ayrshire and Brown Swiss convention sale animals; the national Ayrshire convention sale; and a Brown Swiss supper and fun auction.

On Saturday, July 17, there is to be a tour to the farm of David Patrick, located near the convention site. Patrick is president of the National Ayrshire Association. Breakfast is to be served at the Maryland Fairgrounds, followed by the national Brown Swiss conventions sale.

Also on Saturday, baseball fans can also take in a home game of the Baltimore Orioles.

The joint convention is open to all interested in attending, membership in either breed organization is not a prerequisite.

There is also partial registration being offered for those who desire to participate in only some of the activites.

Separate registrations are still required.

Those wishing to register with the Brown Swiss association. should use that form, while the Ayrshire Association has its own registration.

DEADLINE NOTICE!

The deadline for reserving rooms at the Turf Valley Resort and Conference Center in Ellicott City Maryland is June 15.

This deadline applies to members of both the national Brown Swiss and Ayrshire breed organizations who wish to secure rooms at the convention rate of $95. Room rates made after June 15 go to regular rates.

Call the hotel immediately at (800)-TEE-TURF, or (410) 465-1500.

The deadline for registering for meals and events for the three-day national joint convention, "Where Breeds Combine for Convention '99" is July 1.

Commissioners Announce Agricultural Awards

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Board of Commissioners recognized the winners of the county's 1998 Agricultural Development Council (ADC) Awards at a recent board meeting.

In making these presentations, the commissioners reaffirmed their support of agriculture as the county's key industry and their commitment to maintain farming as a sustainable presence in the county.

The 1998 Distinguished Agricultural Service Award was presented to Furman H. Gyger Jr. Over the years Gyger has been active in many agricultural committees and organizations, often serving as an officer. He was appointed by the county commissioners to the ADC 18 years ago and served as its first chairman. He is also a long-time member of the Kimberton and Pomona granges, serving as master of each, and has acted as the deputy of the State Grange for Northern Chester County.

The commissioners also recognized the winner of the ADC's 1998 Farmer of the Year Award as the farmer or farm family who maintains and exemplifies outstanding farming practices, farm appearance, and innovation. This award was presented to the Raymond Harnish family, Hickory Hollow Farm in East Nottingham Township. Harnish grew up on the farm, acquired it from his parents, and plans to continue farming using best management practices.

For more information about Chester County Agricultural Development Council (ADC) and its activities, contact Program Coordinator Kevin Baer, (610) 344-6285.

F.O.4 July Milk $14.49

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Acting Market Administrator David Z. Walker recently announced for July 1999 a Class I price of $14.49 per hundredweight, and a Class II price of $11.56 per hundredweight.

The July Class I price includes the 20-cent assessment for fluid milk promotion and consumer education.

The Class I price and the Class II price are down 55 cents from June but are 38 cents higher when compared to year-earlier levels.

Mr. Walker announced a Class III milk price of $11.16 per hundredweight for May 1999 and a Class III-A price of $11.52 per hundredweight for the month.

The Class III price was down 58 cents from the previous month, while the Class III-A price increased 53 cents.

The July 1999 Class I and Class II prices and the May 1999 Class III price are based on the May basic formula milk price of $11.26 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

The May 1999 butterfat price was $1.1828 per pound, up 14.86 cents from April. The May skim milk price per hundredweight was $7.28.

The USDA reported that the equivalent Grade A butter price for May was $1.0389 per pound on the mercantile exchange and the Central States nonfat dry milk price was $1.0228 per pound.

Growers Learn

A project begun at the farm three years ago examined ways to interrupt deer feeding on small trees, to about 3-4 years old, until they are established. The farm used wooden stakes, creating a sort of "tepee" effect, which didn't work.

So they decided to use a "T"-post system that holds strips of plastic orange fencing that fences out the sides of the row. When deer brush up against the plastic fencing, it tends to aggravate them, and they don't like it, so they tend to keep away from the new plantings.

The Keims came up with a way to use ¾ -inch PVC pipe, fastened with orange plastic fencing. They obtained the pipe from a hardware store in 20-foot lengths, cut to size for three upright stakes. The crossings measure 38-39-inches. The uprights and crossings were placed together to form a "T."

A slit was sliced into the crossing to hold the fencing strips, cut from four-foot wide and 50-foot long fencing rolls. The opening was widened with a special tool, the strips inserted, and a toothpick was shoved in to keep the fence strip in place. Then the cap was placed on.

The area covered by the "T" system includes about five acres of newly planted 3-4 year-old peaches, nectarines, and apples. The apples include Red Delicious, Galas, newly planted Staymans, Jonagolds, "anything new this year," said Rick Keim.

Dr. Larry Hull of the Biglerville center provided a tree fruit insect management update. He spoke about the disease challenges this year and how growers can minimize the damage to their crops.

Hull said that Mark root stalk, or 26, can create big problems for growers with burr knots and subsequent insect pressure. Different strategies have to be employed to control insect feeding.

For Apple crops, populations are sporadic thus far for European Red Mite. Watch for rapid increases with warm weather, as summer eggs are hatching, noted Hull. The key to successful mite management is monitoring and using action thresholds and to encourage predators. Alternate miticides, watch intervals between sprays, and spray in the late evening or at night with good coverage.

For apple aphids (green and Spirea), they are starting to increase on succulent shoots. Treat when greater than four invested leaves/shoot are present, and watch lightly cropped trees. Watch for aphid predators, especially lady beetles (adults and larvae).

The spotted Tentiform Leafminer second brood hatch will soon begin.

San Jose Scale crawlers should be emerging, and there are various commercial controls.

For the tufted apple bud moth, hatch should start soon. Use degree day (DD) measurements to predict when to spray. Use proper choice of insecticides and rotate chemistries between generations.

For the codling moth, control is recommended at 250 degree DD if the population is high.

For dogwood borers, the clear wing moths are flying and laying eggs. They attack the burr knots or partially developed root initials on size-controlling rootstocks. Check for borers behind rabbit guards, which provide a perfect hiding place, according to Hull.

On peach trees, the lesser peach tree borer adults are now flying heavily. If infestation is heavy, apply sprays between mid- and late June. Handgun application may be necessary for good control, and the more water the better, he noted. Watch label restrictions.

For the peach tree borer, adults will soon begin emerging. Now is the time to place traps and, if using mating disruption, place dispensers on the tree.

For pears, the Pear Psylla adults are mature and laying more eggs. Nymphs will be hatching shortly. Timing of sprays is critical for second brood. Two applications are necessary at 10-14 days apart. Best strategy for control? Rotate, rotate, rotate, according to Hull. Pull water sprouts from tree centers as soon as possible.

Greene, of Biglerville, also spoke about the use of tree spreaders, which shape the tree appropriately. Growers can use plastic spreaders, but he has seen "W" clips that pull the tree limbs into shape. "Some people use rubber bands — use whatever you like," said Greene.

Ken Hickey, also of the Biglerville center, spoke about apple scab challenges. Dave Wagner, Department of Ag and Biological Engineering, provided an overview of the importance of sprayer calibration.

Also attending the fruit growers tour was Kyle Nagurny, director of the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program.

About 85 growers and agri-industry representatives found exactly how to use thinners properly and took home insight into protecting trees from deer and insect damage recently during the Penn State-sponsored Southeast Pennsylvania Fruit Growers Twilight Tour at Keim Orchards in Boyertown.

A "T"-post system holds strips of plastic orange fencing that fences out the sides of the row. When deer brush up against the plastic fencing, it tends to aggravate them, and they don't like it, so they tend to keep away from the new plantings.

Dairy Farmers Of America Urges Support Of Option 1-A

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) has launched an all out effort to gain support for U.S. HR 1402, a bill introduced by a Congressional coalition to implement Option 1-A.

Passage of the bill is necessary to replace Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman's modified Option 1-B milk pricing formula that is part of the reformed Federal Milk Marketing Order.

DFA's analysis shows Option 1-A would increase dairy producer income by nearly $147 million annually compared with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Final Rule.

Introduced by Rep. Roy Blunt (R-MO), HR1402 would require the USDA to set Class I differentials at a higher level than current USDA proposals.

Herman Brubaker DFA board chairman and an Ohio dairy producer, said the Secretary's decision to implement the modified Option 1-B formula is unfair to the majority of producers and will result in further financial hardship for dairy farmers, many of whom are already struggling financially because of low milk prices.

"Secretary Glickman's modified Option 1-B will lower prices to dairy farmers in the Northeast, Southeast and Southwest parts of the United States — areas of strong demand for fluid milk and a continuing high rate of exodus by dairy farmers," said Brubaker. "The prices recommended by the Secretary will not generate an adequate supply of local milk in these areas. Nor will these prices cover the costs associated with bringing in supplemental milk supplies during periods of seasonal low production and high demand for fluid milk products."

Neil Hoff, a dairy producer from Windhorst, Texas and chairman of DFA's Dairy Education Political Action Committee (DEPAC) said that the majority of dairy producers favor the 1-A option.

"In public comments received by the USDA, producers favored Option 1-A by an overwhelming 8 to 1 ration," said Hoff. "At our own annual meeting, DFA delegates, who represent nearly one-fourth of the nation's milk supply, also passed a resolution recommending Option 1-A legislation."

Tom Camerlo, a dairyman from Florence, Colorado, and chairman of DFA's Public Policy and Governmental Relations Committee said DFA members and staff have made passage of Option 1-A legislation a top priority.

"This legislation is critical to dairy farmer income as farm milk prices are rapidly declining," he said. "Congress spent considerable time and effort focusing on economic problems in agriculture last year, and will likely spend more time, effort and money this year addressing these ongoing problems in rural America."

Camerlo said the intent of Congress was not to lower dairy farmer income. However, this ruling (Option 1-B) by the Secretary of Agriculture ignores the directive USDA was given.

"The USDA final rule on Federal Millk Marketing Orders will make things worse in the U.S. dairy sector," said Camerlo. "We need Option 1-A legislation to lessen the negative impact on farmers."

He further noted that Option 1-A legislation will have minimal impact on retail milk prices — no more than one or two cents per gallon. But the impact on dairy farmer survival is significant — restoring an estimated $147 million in lost income when the USDA Final Rule is enacted.

According to Camerlo the United States lost nearly 25 percent of its dairy farms in the past six years.

"Option 1-A will help maintain milk prices at levels that make dairy production a viable economic enterprise," he said. "For consumers and dairy farmers alike, the benefits of this legislation are a financially healthy dairy production stystem," said Camerlo.

"Milk is a great value because it is an excellent source of calcium and eight essential nutrients. We must maintain a strong dairy farm infrastructure in order to assure an adequate supply of milk and dairy products to consumers now, and in the future."

DFA's Brubaker urged all dairy producers to contact their senators and representative to support the Option 1-A legislation (HR 1402). "We need to reinforce the importance of this legislation and ask that our representatives in Congress vote in favor, when Option 1-A legislation comes to the floor for action," he said.

Dairy Farmers of America is a dairy marketing cooperative that markets milk for 22,000 dairy farmer members in 45 states. DFA supplies milk to bottling and manufacturing plants that produce a complete line of dairy products and food components for consumers in the U.S. and around the world.

Pa. House Approves N.E. Dairy Compact Legislation 183-18

farms will benefit initially, but for a variety of reasons could be driven out of business faster and with more certainty than under an open market system, with supply-and-demand forces setting values.

Early in the week it was uncertain what, if any, action would be taken on the issue.

As of Monday and Tuesday, there was no action scheduled by House leadership to consider S.B. 365. Then Wednesday it was acted upon and passed on third consideration.

As of now, it appears likely that the Senate will concur with the House-amended version next week, and it will then be sent to Gov. Ridge to be signed into law.

However, outcomes in Harrisburg cannot be predicted with a reasonable degree of certainty.

For those unfamiliar with the issue, the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact is essentially a multi-state agreement authorized by the U.S. Constitution, whereby, in this application of the law, the Compact states have formed a commission with authorities that include setting a minimum value on each 100 pounds of milk (called a floor price) a farmer sells that gets used as beverage milk.

The same authority that was used to establish the Chesapeake Bay Commission, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission, etc., was used to create the N.E. Dairy Compact.

The N.E. Dairy Compact was formed during political manuevering associated with passage of the 1996 Farm Bill. The Farm Bill had set a course for the removal of federal commodity price support programs, including milk.

The federal government had a floor price for milk in effect for years, although it was dropped to a level that hadn't been reached through even extreme market price fluctuations.

The official reason for authorizing a temporary Northeast Compact was to help maintain small dairy family farm operations in the six New England states during the transition away from federal support pricing. The Compact is scheduled to end Oct. 1.

Elected representatives of the New England states, especially Vermont U.S. Sen. Patrick Leahy, argued that the loss of family dairy farms in north east would hurt the region's tourism industry, and tourism is its greater financial resource.

It was considered that without the Compact benefits, the New England small farm dairy industry would not be able to survive under pressure from the highly competitive dairy industry to its south.

Respectively, New York and Pennsylvania are third and fourth nationally in milk production.

In comparison, milk production in the six New England states combined represents only a small percentage of the national milk supply, according to Commission director Kenneth Becker.

Becker had said that, to illustrate the relatively small amount of New England milk production compared to the rest of the United States' dairy industry, just the production increase this spring in California alone about equalled the total annual production of New England.

Furthermore, the New England region doesn't produce enough milk to satisfy its internal markets and historically has depended upon New York and Pennsylvania producers to provide enough milk to meet New England demand.

National dairy cooperatives have been lobbying Congress strongly for legislation giving an indenfinite extension of Compact authorization; for inclusion of Mid-Atlantic states into the Northeast Compact; and for the authorization of additional regional milk pricing Compacts across the nation.

The cooperatives have been joined in their effort by the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, National Farmers Union, their state affiliates as well as other agricultural political groups.

In Pennsylvania, the proposals for extension and expansion of the Compact system have been opposed by independent producers and processors, as well as some concerned about such a program's affect on international trade.

Nevertheless, for several weeks at least, it seemed that the general consensus in Harrisburg has been that Pennsylvania would pass a law authorizing it to join the Compact — even though many consider that there are too many unknowns to be able to credibly predict the Compact will be good for Pennsylvania dairy farmers.

As it is, if the Senate concurs with the House amendments, S.B. 365 could become law quickly.

If the Senate doesn't concur, and instead decides to amend S.B. 365, its outcome could rest with a conference committee.

(A conference committee consists of representatives from both legislative bodies who work to arrive at an agreement on behalf of their respective legislative bodies to finalize legislation.)

If the Senate decides to take no action, the bill could wait until fall for further action.

Pro-Compact forces desire the state Legislature to approve S.B. 365 before the end of next week, when session is scheduled to end for the summer.

With Pennsylvania passing enabling legislation, pro-Compact lobbyists would be on stronger footing in Washington D.C. in trying to convince federal-level elected representatives that expansion and reauthorization of the Compact is desired by the states, although the two issues have been held separate here.

It has been expressed by pro- and anti-Compact supporters that federal reauthorization of the Compact is not popular in Washington.

Pro-Compact forces are working against the Oct. 1 termination of the Compact to change that.

If Pennsylvania lawmakers wait until session returns in September to approve Compact-enabling legislation, pro-Compact lobbyists in Washington wouldn't be able to claim widespread, strong support.

It has been expressed by many legislators that Pennsylvania's passage of Compact-enabling law should be considered more of a positioning move, rather than an endorsement of the Compact.

If the federal Legislature does reauthorize the Compact, and Pennsylvania isn't in position to join, some of the state's producers could be disadvantaged and not receive Compact floor pricing, depending on how the milk is marketed.

The state Senate had approved S.B. 365, authored by Sen. Roger Madigan, in late April.

Aside from discussions concerning the general wisdom of the Compact and what possible short-term and long-term effects it could have on dairy farmers, the main issue of contention lately has been who and how many people should represent Pennsylvania on the Compact Commission (the Compact oversight group).

Under federal law authorizing the Northeast Compact, each participating state has the authority to send a maximum of five people to serve on the commission.

When S.B. 365 was in the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, it had been amended so that Pennsylvania's delegation would be restricted to three people, and the three would be the current members of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB). It had passed the Senate 44-6.

While the bill was under consideration by the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, Chairman Rep. Raymond Bunt, proposed a now approved amendment so that Pennsylvania's delegation would be the maximum of five people.

Specifically, the delegation would consist of the chairman of the PMMB (one person); and the respective majority (currently Republican) and minority (currently Democratic) chairmen of Senate and House agriculture committees (four people), or their delegates.

Since all members of the PMMB are appointed by the governor, with no input from the House, and only confirmation needed of the Senate, it was considered that the dairy industry needed better assurances that it would have some input into helping delegates decide what policies to endorse before the rest of the Compact Commission members.

It was considered that with the House-recommended delegation, there would be more balance in representation to the Commission.

That is, the PMMB chairman would represent the governor's position and be able to draw upon direct working knowledge and PMMB staff support, while the respective agriculture committee chairpeople from both Legislative bodies would ensure broader representation, and access to industry and consumer concerns.

S.B. 365 was also amended in House Ag Committee by Rep. Bunt to terminate in three years, requiring the Legislature to review the issue then, if not sooner.

The sunset amendment has not been an issue of contention. No discontent with that amendment has been expressed to Lancaster Farming.

In explaining House actions this week, Rep. Bunt said that it took some urging to convince a number of House members to take action and support the legislation despite their opposition, and despite the fact that he is still very concerned about what a realized expanded Compact could do to Pennsylvania's dairy farmers.

"Members of the General Assembly were very, very reluctant to do this," Bunt said Thursday. "It took a great amount of work to convince the members of the General Assembly that we should do this.

"We were able to hold the negative votes to a minimum, despite our reservations (about the effects of the Compact)," Bunt said.

"We took our reservations to the various ag interests, and despite our reservations, they wanted us to support it, and we did."

Bunt said the strong support for Compact legislation from agricultural policy groups gave the House little choice but to act now, despite his and others' misgivings about the Compact.

"I urged my caucus, and all House members ... to hold a vote and to support it," Bunt said.

He explained that to delay voting on the issue would reflect poorly on the House, and to deliver a thumbs down to the legislation would go against the state's main agricultural policy groups.

But that doesn't make the reservations go away. "We hope we're wrong on our reservations," Bunt said.

However, he said that the three-year sunset provision allows an opportunity for Pennsylvania to reconsider.

Furthermore, "If we find that (being in the N.E. Dairy Compact) is not in the best interest, and 10,000 dairy farmers (in Pennsylvania) find it is not in their best interest, we can get out, and we don't have to abide (by the Compact Commission decisions)," he said.

As far as the amendments, and the makeup of the delegation to the Commission, Bunt said that could be changed later by statute.

QUESTION: Are the nutritional requirements for a cow giving 20,000 pounds of milk with a 4.2-percent butterfat test the same as a cow giving 20,000 pounds of milk with a 3.2-percent butterfat test? Does protein test have any bearing?

ANSWER: This is a legitimate question to ask.

In the modern day world of group feeding technology, and the high incidence of TMR-fed herds, we often overlook how nutrient requirements change when milk components change.

Most feeding situations allow the cows to put into balance these differences by giving them the opportunity to eat more.

We probably should look at these differences when evaluating nutrient density of diets.

Considering component tests can also give us the opportunity to more accurately predict dry matter intakes of cows, groups and herds.

The simplest way to approach this question would be to convert the milk produced by both cows to a standardized version of comparison.

Factors allow us to convert any milk weight to a uniform 4-percent butterfat.

The formula for this conversion is:

4% FCM = (.4 X lb.s milk) + (15 X lb.s fat)

Four percent fat corrected milk (FCM) for a cow with 20,000 pounds of milk at 4.2 percent butterfat is (.4 X 20,000) + (15 X (20,000 X .042)) = 20,600 pounds FCM.

The other cow at the same milk pounds, but only 3.2-percent butterfat would be producing 17,600 pounds FCM.

The nutrient requirement difference would be the total to produce 3,000 pounds more milk in one cow than the other.

Instead of getting into a debate over the nutrient requirements of the two cows, I would like to use a typical diet to point out the expected difference between the two cows.

Both cows over the course of a 305-day lactation will average 66 pounds of milk per day.

On the fat-corrected scale, the cow with the 4.2-percent fat will eat like she produces 68 pounds of milk per day; and the 3.2-percent fat producer will eat like she makes 58 pounds per day.

This could be as much as a 4- to 7-pound dry matter intake difference.

Even at .76 megacalorie per pound, the higher test cow may consume 3 to 4 more megacalories of energy in a day.

If the diet was 16-percent crude protein (CP), then this same cow would consume .75- to 1-pound more protein per day.

As far as the difference made by milk protein content of these cows, we usually do not see as big a spread in the percent protein as we do with butterfat. For that reason, there is no way to adjust for differences that I am aware of.

We would have to assume that there is a greater nutritional demand when a cow has a higher protein test, and again would be met by increased consumption.

There is a good table that is availabel that is called, "The Energy Basis of Measuring Milk Yield in Dairy Cows." This table gives factors for fat-corrected milk.

The cow with 4.2-percent fat test would have a factor of 1.03, and the cow with the 3.2-percent fat test would have a factor of .88.

Multiply these factors by the milk pounds, and you will get the same results as with using the formula and comparisons.

Feeding cows on an ad-lib basis and avoiding "bare bunk disease," will go a long way toward supplying the nutrients needed when cows vary greatly in component tests from their herdmates. Thank goodness they can do this. How many diets would we need if they could not?!

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Ivan Resigns As Beef Council Exec, Accepts Position

MIDDLETOWN, (Dauphin Co.) — Dave Ivan, Pennsylvania Beef Council (PBC) Executive Director, has notified the PBC Board of Directors of his intent to resign from his current position, effective August 1. Ivan has accepted an Extension Position with Michigan State University, and will begin his new responsibilities in August.

"While we were certainly disappointed to learn of Dave's resignation," says Dennis Snyder, PBC Chairman, "we certainly extend best wishes to him and his family. His contributions to the Beef Council, and Pennsylvania agriculture, have been tremendous and his departure leaves big shoes to fill."

Ivan cited personal reasons for his resignation. "I truly treasure the extraordinary privilege to work with and for Pennsylvania's beef, diary and veal producers. My decision to accept the opportunity at Michigan state, however, was based solely on family considerations, as both my wife and I wanted our children to grow closer to their grandparents who still farm in Michigan.

Executive Director since 1988, Ivan's leadership and vision have transformed the Pennsylvania Beef Council from a relatively unknown commodity promotion group to an effective organization that is well-respected on both a statewide and national level. The Pennsylvania Beef Council is one of only two state beef councils to be awarded national programming contracts. The National Agri-Marketing Association has also recognized the Council on both a regional and national level for their marketing success. The Beef Council's current Patty Melt food safety education program has received numerous accolades, and is being patterned by other educators as a model for food safety education.

During Ivan's tenure, the Beef Council budget has grown nearly 40%, primarily through the development of partnerships with state government, other associations, and food manufacturers. In 1995, the American Veal Association awarded their administrative services contract to the Beef Council, and named Ivan as their administrator. Earlier this year, the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association contracted with the Beef Council to coordinate their administrative functions. Additionally, Ivan has been credited with the Beef Council's success in pursuing numerous outside contributions; including grants from other state beef councils, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and food manufacturers.

"As a son of hard working farmers, I know full-well that the producers who pay into the checkoff program want their money funding demand-building programs, and not overhead expenses," Ivan said. "Our success in pursuing these outside partnerships has allowed us to accentuate our programming dollars and hold-down administrative costs."

Ivan said that particularly during these tough economic times in the livestock industry, it is crucial that organizations that service the industry work aggressively, and perhaps unconventionally, to maximize their programming efforts. "I am pleased that I can look a farmer squarely in the eye and tell him that thanks to some of the prudent business decisions of the PBC, his/her checkoff dollars are working overtime and making a difference. The Pennsylvania Beef Council may be driven by consumer demands, but more importantly we're directed by producer needs."

During his tenure in Pennsylvania, Ivan has accepted numerous leadership positions. He is currently serving as treasurer of the Penn State Agriculture Council, and is a past chairman of the Pennsylvania Commodity Roundtable. He had been elected by his peers to serve as chairman of the State Beef Council Advisory Group, and has served on the National Cattlemen's Beef Association Executive Committee.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council Executive Committee has begun the process to search for Ivan's replacement. A search committee has been appointed PBC Chairman Dennis Snyder, and position announcements are scheduled to begin appearing in numerous publications in the coming days. Individuals interested in applying for the Executive Director position may send their resumes to: Search Committee, Pennsylvania Beef Council, 1500 Fulling Mill Road, Middletown, PA 17057.

Dauphin Twilight Meeting June 26

GRATZ (Dauphin Co.) — Dauphin County Holstein Association has scheduled a twilight meeting on Saturday, June 26, at 7 p.m. near here at the Crissinger Dairy farm.

After a meal at 7 p.m., a judging contest will be conducted.

Scott Nolt from Country Path Holsteins in Lebanon will be judge and speaker for the evening. Nolt's herd average is more than 33,000 pounds of milk.

All dairy producers and their families are invited to attend.

The Crissinger farm is along Rt. 25 west of Gratz.

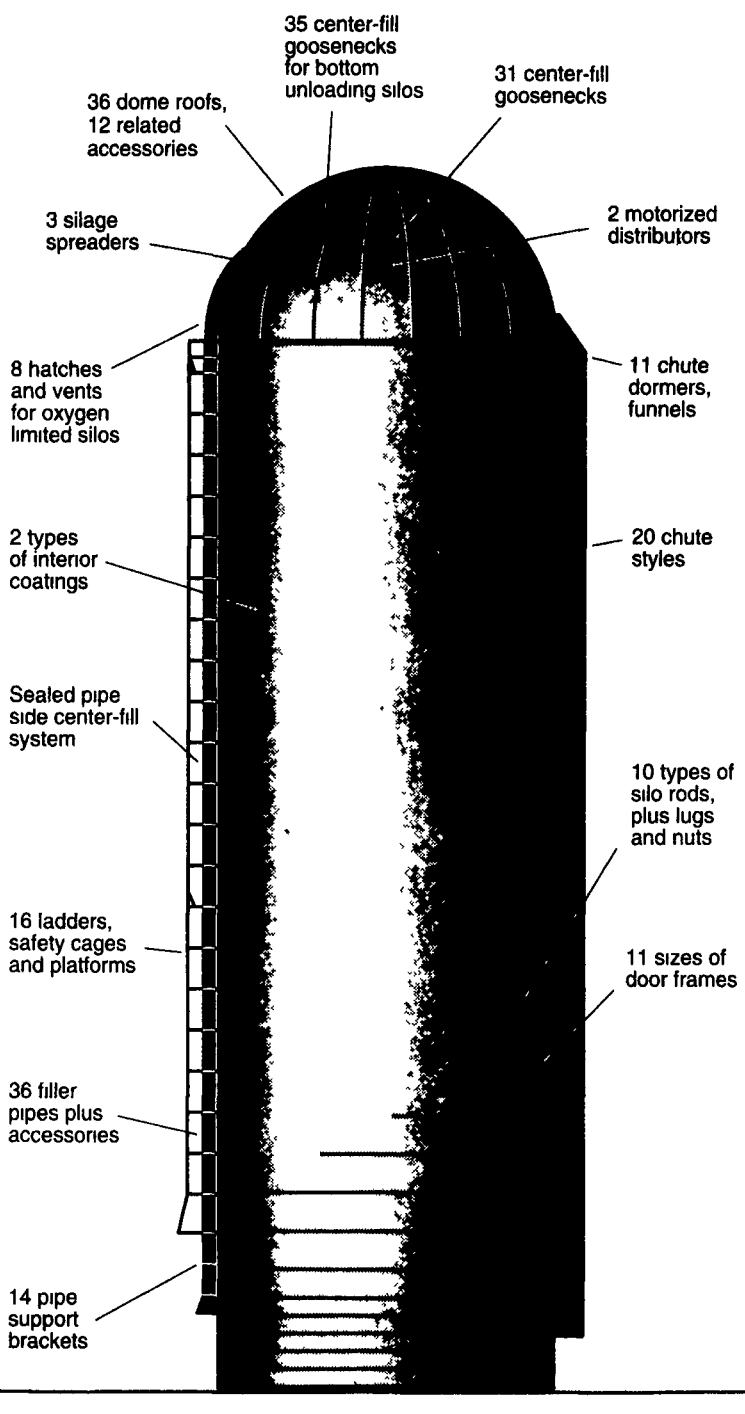
For silo equipment, think "Lancaster"

No other name gives you so many value-packed silo products for filling and construction.



35 center-fill goosenecks for bottom unloading silos
36 dome roofs, 12 related accessories
31 center-fill goosenecks
3 silage spreaders
2 motorized distributors
8 hatches and vents for oxygen limited silos
11 chute dormers, funnels
2 types of interior coatings
20 chute styles
Sealed pipe side center-fill system
10 types of silo rods, plus lugs and nuts
16 ladders, safety cages and platforms
11 sizes of door frames
36 filler pipes plus accessories
14 pipe support brackets

The steel products on your silos have to be tougher than nails if they're going to last. That's why more dairymen trust Lancaster silo equipment for lasting value from top to bottom.

Thirty years ago we invented the silage spreader as the best way to fill silos. But maybe you don't know just how many products we make. If your concrete or steel upright storage system needs parts and equipment, Lancaster makes it.

We use good ideas from practical farmers like you to constantly make our products work better and last longer. You see, with us the job is more than just bending metal. It's using the best materials and dedicated craftsmanship to give you more value for every equipment dollar.

For silo equipment, do yourself a favor. Insist on Lancaster for every item.

Stockholm Farm Sells Easement

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — The recent purchase of development rights of the Edmund and Gertrude Stockholm farm marks the ninth farm to be purchased in Susquehanna County. The Stockholm farm is a 402-acre dairy farm located in Rush and Dimock townships. The original farm was purchased by Edmund's great-great-great-grandparents in 1844. The farm is operated by Edmund and his wife and their son Kevin Stockholm. Kevin is the seventh generation to work the family farm.

The Stockholm Farm is included in the Rush and Dimock Township agricultural security areas. A perpetual easement placed on this property helps preserve the rural nature of the townships and contributes to maintaining a critical agricultural mass in the area. This is the third farm in Dimock Township and the first in Rush Township to be preserved by an agricultural easement.

The conservation practices in use on this farm include pasture and hayland management, diversions, obstruction removal, tree planting, wildlife area improvement, conservation cropping system, contour farming, and woodland management.

Susquehanna County's Program is part of the statewide agricultural conservation easement program that protects viable agricultural lands through the purchase of development rights on farm properties. An agricultural conservation easement is a legal restriction on land development that limits the use of land to agricultural properties.

Applications are available at the Susquehanna County Penn State Extension Office. The application acceptance period is Nov. 1 through Jan. 15 each year. Applications are ranked according to soil quality, development potential, farmland potential, and clustering potential. The highest ranking farm is considered for purchase first. The farm is appraised to determine the easement value.

All easements are perpetual. All normal agricultural uses are permitted, including crop and livestock productions, and the construction of farm buildings. One additional residence may be constructed on the farm for the purpose of housing the landowner or for housing farm employees. All agricultural production on the farm must be conducted in accordance with a conservation plan approved by the United States Department of Agriculture Natural Resource Conservation Service.

Montgomery County Agricultural Fair Catalogs Available

The premium catalog for the 1999 Montgomery County Agricultural Fair in Gaithersburg, Md. is available from the fair office, any Montgomery County public library, and the Montgomery County Conference and Visitors Bureau.

The annual exposition, billed as Maryland's largest county fair, will be Friday, Aug. 13 through Saturday, Aug. 21.

The fair features 1999 as "The Year of the Sheep" and the "Year of the 4-H Building" as the highlighted outdoor and indoor departments. Many special events have been planned to spotlight these two exhibit areas. In a new effort, Cheviot will be the featured breed of sheep, Angus is the featured breed of Beef and Brown Swiss and Ayrshire are the featured dairy breeds.

Other new additions to the Montgomery County Agricultural Fair include a Texas Longhorn Cattle Show, a Pampered Chef Cookie Contest, and a Breads and Spreads contest sponsored by the Friends of the Ag History Farm Park. Many traditional contests have new classes to commemorate the Year of the Sheep and 4-H Building.

General entry registration for animal exhibits is due July 15. Indoor 4-H and open class photography exhibit entries are due Aug. 1. Advance registration for all other departments is not required. Entries for those departments will be received Thursday, Aug. 12 and Friday, Aug. 13. Consult the catalog for specific times and locations for specific departments.

For more information, call the fair office at (301) 926-3100, ext. 212. Requests can also be faxed to (301) 926-1532. Visit our website at www.mcagfair.com for general fair information.

Coal Mining Threatens Minor Family Farm

Sam and Bev Minor are well known leaders in agricultural circles throughout Pennsylvania. At home, they and their five children have worked together to build up a herd of Holsteins, a milk jugging business, dairy store, restaurant, and catering business. The family has grown to include 10 grandchildren as Spring House Farm, Restaurant, and Catering continues to be a family affair. From left are Joshua, Abigail, Isaac, Sammy Jr., Marcia, Sam Jr., Marsha, Jill, Bev, Sam, and Sarah.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

WASHINGTON (Washington Co.) — Sam and Bev Minor are synonymous with dairy success. Together the couple have spent a lifetime building up a herd of Holsteins, a milk jugging business, dairy store, restaurant, and catering business on 404 acres in the western part of the state.

Both are active leaders on agricultural industry boards. Bev is chairperson of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board and a director for the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services. Sam is a board member for Agway and Ag Choice Farm Credit. Bev and Sam are both well known and popular speakers within the agriculture community.

But being ag leaders and staunch supporters of the dairy industry has not exempted them from the many obstacles farmers must contend with to continue farming. Frustrations caused by fluctuating milk prices, environmental laws, and unending paperwork fade when compared with the monstrous obstacle they are facing in recent weeks.

Longwall coal mining threatens to destroy the Minors' 200-year-old farmhouse, dairy operation, and their Spring House Restaurant and catering business that they have worked so hard to perfect during the past 27 years.

Washington countians know that Consol Inc. has the rights to mine coal underneath their properties. Coal is plentiful and of high quality in the Minors' niche in Washington County, known as the "Saudia Arabia" of the coal industry. But when the Minors purchased their farm 30 years ago, they felt secure from impending danger. The law stated that coal mining was prohibited beneath structures built before 1965.

But in 1994, laws changed, giving coal mining companies free range beneath all areas, with the requirement that they restore the houses to their previous state.

Theoretically that sounds accommodating. However, many buildings are unable to be restored from an engineering standpoint. The company reaches a financial agreement with these people and the homeowners have the choice to rebuild or to restore.

The Minors' stone farmhouse was built in 1801. It has an original sandstone fireplace with bake oven. The barn was built in 1844.

Although the beautiful stone house was sturdy and historically significant, it was not accepted into the National Registry of Historical Buildings because of the two additions added after the 1940s.

When the Minors' four daughters were still living at home, the attic was turned into one large bedroom and skylights were placed in the roof. While these renovations made their home more liveable and increased the monetary value of it, the changes prevented the house from meeting the guidelines to be placed on the National Registry.

Despite the Minors' pleas for the mining company to take into consideration the historical significance of their buildings, the livelihood derived from it, and the value to the community such as the 200 tours scheduled on their farm during the months of April and May, the Minors were unable to stop the monstrous machine slicing silently beneath their home.

Mining is done about 500 feet beneath the ground surface. A 1,100-foot longwall machine moves horizontally approximately 150-feet daily shearing back and forth like a meat slicer on a six-foot deep coal seam and throwing the coal on a conveyor belt.

Representatives from the mining company assured the Minors that damage would be slight, and that the company would restore the home to its original state. Coal mining contractors installed steel braces along the concrete block walls of an addition to bolster the foundation.

On Sunday, May 23, while the family was preparing for a bridal shower for a niece, the mining company came to install a jack in an archway that leads from the family room to the dining room addition to assure the safety of the guests.

"We felt seasick," Bev said of the ground that vibrated and moved beneath them.

Before their eyes, cracks snaked across the 2½ -foot stone walls that had survived two centuries of weather and family use.

The floors buckled. Now the formerly level floors have as much as a 12-inch slope from one side of the room to the other. In some areas the cracks are wide enough to insert a hand. Many of the exterior or interior doors close because of the shifting foundation. Plaster and insulation dirt continually dribbles from the cracks, the window frames, and the ceilings. New cracks appear daily.

"We get dizzy walking in the house," Bev said of maneuring over the uneven floors.

With seven natural springs on the farm, the Minors have never wanted for water for their herd. Within minutes, mining changed all that. Waterlines broke and springs dried up from the disturbances beneath the earth's surface.

With a houseful of company, the Minors had to quickly determine what to do about the cows need of water.

Fortunately pasture and water were available away from the barn. Later, water was hauled in to provide a continuous source of water for the pasture.

According to Rita Zettelmayer with the mining office of Department of Environmental Protection, southwest regional office, she said that if the water supply disappears, the mining company is required to furnish a new water supply. Options for water supply restoration include hooking the farm onto a public water supply system or digging a new well.

In recent weeks, the 1801 farmhouse has been heavily damaged from longwall mining, which is done approximately 500 feet below ground surface. When the Minors purchased the home about 30 years ago, the law prohibited mining beneath structures built before 1965, but the laws were changed, and the Minors have watched helplessly as damage continues from the shifting ground.

Only time will determine the outcome. As the ground settles, some springs form again and others are forever gone.

Actual mining continues for only a few weeks. As the machine moves to a new spot, the ground slowly drops five feet.

Like other farmers, the growing season is the busiest time of the year for the Minors. The Minors have all the pressures of running a farm and business, yet need to deal with the constant hassle of damaged property, lawyers, and new methods of taking care of the herd.

Although coal companies need to reimburse homeowners for house damage, the law is vague, the Minors said, about reimbursement responsibilities for the barn and business damage. The Minors have been frustrated but realize it's too early to get a firm commitment from the company.

It will cost $5,000-$10,000 to provide a detailed assessment of the damage to the property and to develope a complete scope of work.

"We are so busy, but we must put energy into this challenge," Bev said.

"We had asked them not to go directly beneath our house," Bev said. "If they would have only mined beneath the acreage we would have had some damage from the shock waves but not the extensive damage from being directly beneath our home."

The Minors see their pleas as unheard because of the monetary gain of the mining activity. According to a formula, the Minors have estimated that the company was able to obtain coal with a gross value of $8 million from beneath the section of the panel where their house is located. The coal beneath the total acreage climbs to an estimated $66 million.

The rights for the coal were sold by the previous owners in 1900. The current property owners receive no compensation for the coal mined on their properties.

Coal mining companies have strong, powerful unions. An area citizen group has been fighting for years but has been unsuccessful in curtailing the destructive forces caused by underground coal mining.

Tom Hoffman of Consol said that although coal mining is damaging to some properties, the company is only exercising its legal mineral rights.

"Mining offers an extraordinary economical contribution. Pennsylvania is using more coal than ever before with 60 percent of electricity and 20 percent of nuclear power supplied by coal burning."

Neighboring homes damaged from the mining have been torn down or burned, and new homes were erected from cash settlements with the company.

However, the Minors do not want a new home. Their home contains historical value and significance. Their livelihood is tied into their continual ability to maintain a dairy on the property.

Consol offered to move the herd and the Minors to a new site during mining, but the Minors said that would interfere with their business. Daily tours bring thousands of people to see the cows and dairy operation. These are potential customers to the dairy store and restaurant on the grounds.

Their whole business is based on producing, processing, and selling milk from their own herd of

(Turn to Page B14)

These three silos will be dismantled before mining begins beneath the Minors' adjoining farm. Officials said mining will drain the pond.

Bev Minor is one of the best known women in state agriculture circles. In addition to serving as chairperson of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board and a director for the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Service, she oversees the restaurant and catering business on the family dairy farm. Wife of Sam Minor, mother of five, and grandmother to 10, Bev possesses the rare ability to get things done yet show personal interest to the 74 employees and the hundreds of customers at The Spring House.

#16T CHERRY STONER

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

We wait a whole year for this.

Tilling, planting, fertilizing, weed controlling. It's all aimed at this one goal. At getting tiny spikes and diminutive leaves pushing their way up through the rich, dark, moist earth, basking in the sun and responding with Jack-In-The-Beanstalk fervor.

After living and working with farmers for more than three decades, I have no doubts this is an addiction. An addiction of faith, if that's not too much of a contradiction. And even those with the proverbial "black thumb" find it difficult to resist sticking at least a tomato plant or a couple of marigolds in the ground in celebration and tribute to this new start we get each year.

It's in large part what keeps farmers tied to their farms, and gardeners poking away in their patches, when other pursuits would surely be more cost effective.

By now, most of the stuff that will be planted this year...is. From acres of corn to the single, potted, patio tomato, it's in. And, the nice thing about planting most annuals, from the commercial corn acreage to that budding tomato stalk, is that with ever minimal good weather, they generate quick results.

The rows of corn and soybeans lining countrysides around the region have responded with vigor to the welcome rains and intensifying heat. Ours push up through scraggly, dying grasses, since we practice no-till methods, which leave a cover of mulch atop the ground for organic matter, soil and moisture retention. While the fields look really "ratty" early in the season, the emerging plants quickly spread foliage wide to hide the scruffy residue.

Few things warm a farmer's heart more than straight, evenly-emerging rows of plants, growing taller by the warm summer day. Surpassed only perhaps by the satisfying feeling of gobbling up those same rows a little later with clattering machines of harvest.

For us gardeners, the quick response to our labors is equally rewarding. Well, usually.

Having not checked the annual border for the progress of a couple of short rows of sugar snap peas for a while, I strolled across the lawn early one recent morning to eyeball their progress. They were gone. Disappeared. Zapped. Kaput.

Closer examination of the hands and knees crawling in the dirt type told the tale. Tiny green stems protruding just above the soil line. Tiny chewed-off stems With "rabbit" written in the dirt. For years, rabbits had become almost as rare as pheasants, due to our prolific population of foxes around the neighborhood. Fox sightings this spring have been sparse, so now, viola!, more bunnies.

And no peas. So the eerie bark of a fox, sounding just beyond the garden area, was startling, then amusing, one very early morning this past week as I retrieved the newspaper. Becha' one local fox family was having bunny for breakfast.

Unlike the vanished peas, two Early Girl tomato plants I've coddled, encased against the early season's coolness in Wall O-Water (teepee-shaped, water insulated) shelters are preparing to return their appreciation. Afraid the plants would bake in their protective plastic during recent 90-plus temperatures, I removed the shelters when the first hot spell hit. And discovered numerous infant tomatoes. If the wind doesn't batter the stalks to shreds first, we may achieve - or beat my self-imposed annual Independence Day, first-ripe-tomato deadline.

Berks Royalty Works To Promote Dairy Industry

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Crowned Berks County Dairy Princess recently was Michelle McMichael. She is the 17-year-old daughter of Allen and Judith McMichael. Michelle will graduate this year from Tulpehocken High School. In the fall, she plans to attend Penn State Berks Campus to study dairy science and animal husbandry.

Selected as Alternate is Lucinda Bray. Cindy is the 17-year-old daughter of John and Marcia Bray. She will be a senior at Tulpehocken High School this fall.

Following a reception dinner at the Berks County Ag Center, Leesport, the pageant began with introductions of past princesses and new candidates. Jennifer Grimes, a former Berks County and Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess, served as toastmaster.

Alicia Gross and Erica Shollenberger shared experiences they had as dairy princesses and expressed gratitude to family and friends for their support. Brittany Haag, the Li'l Miss, sang a farewell song to the audience.

After the two dairy princess candidates performed their skits promoting dairy products, Ashley Mohn was interviewed on stage and crowned the new Berks County Li'l Miss Dairy Princess. Ashley is the daughter of Karen and Steve Mohn, Wernersville.

All three girls are excited about representing the dairy industry in which they've been involved throughout their lives, and promoting good health through dairy products.

PINK WITCH PUNCH

1 quart cold milk
6-ounce can lemonade, thawed
1 pint strawberry ice cream, softened
1 quart cold ginger ale

Beat together milk, lemonade, and ice cream. Add ginger ale, blending slowly. Serve cold. Serves 10.

June Dairy Month is taking on a new outlook for our family this year. Our daughter Ashley was recently crowned the Little Miss Dairy Princess for Berks County. Milk has always been a favorite beverage of Ashley's. She knows that milk is making her bones strong!

Ashley enjoys helping on her grandparents' farm. Her grandparents, Clarence and Marlene Sattazahn, own and operate Zahnheim Dairy Farm, Womelsdorf. Ashley enjoys helping feed the calves and milk the cows, and play with the pussy cats. Ashley hopes you can answer yes to the question, "Got milk?"

Karen Mohn

To promote the dairy industry, three generations work together, Berks County Li'l Miss Ashley Mohn with grandparents Clarence and Marlene Sattazahn and parents Karen and Steve Mohn.

CREAMED SWEET RICE

In 4-quart heavy pan, put 2 cups water. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon butter. Add 1 cup river rice when it comes to boil, add about 2 quarts milk. Turn burner to low and cook for one hour or more. Stir occasionally. You may need more milk. When it is thick, add 1 cup sugar and vanilla.

This dish is the most requested by my nine grandchildren. We live on a dairy farm at Concord in Franklin County. We have four married children.

Betty Lou Gamble
Concord

BULLS IN A BLANKET

1½ pounds ground beef
2 cups tomato soup
20 saltine crackers
1 teaspoon salt
Cheese slices
9-10 lasagne noodles, cooked
1 quart spaghetti sauce

Cook lasagne noodles and cut in half

Mix meat, soup, crushed crackers, and salt. Take half the noodles and put a half slice of white American cheese on top then ¼ cup of meat mixture and wrap up and place in 9x13-inch pan. With seam down, put a tablespoonful of spaghetti sauce on top of each loaf and bake one hour at 350 degrees.

This is a favorite hot meal in our family. We are dairy farmers and milk 53 cows and raise all our heifers and farm about 150 acres. We have four children, ages 6, 5, 3, and 1 year old. We all enjoy farm life.

Wilma Zimmerman

VANILLA PUDDING

4 cups milk
⅓ cup cornstarch
⅔ cup sugar
2 eggs

Heat milk until scalded. Beat cornstarch, sugar, and eggs. Add to hot milk and stir constantly until it boils.

DRIED BEEF CASSEROLE

2½ cups macaroni, uncooked
1½ cups peas, unthawed
1 cup dried beef, shredded
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup grated Velveeta cheese
2 tablespoons melted butter
4 cups whole milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 hardboiled eggs (optional)

Mix everything together in a large bowl, except eggs, then pour into a casserole dish. Bake at 350 degrees for about 1½ hours. Remove from heat and add extra cheese on op of cassserole, with sliced hardboiled eggs. Garnish with fresh parsley before serving.

Hi! I hope you like this delicious recipe as well as we do. It's quick and easy to prepare and an excellent busy-day meal. I usually omit the eggs and it's still tasty.

We live on a small dairy farm just south of Farmersville, with 38 stanchions and 55 tillable acres. We think we are very privileged to be able to raise our four sons in the country, in this land of plenty. Are we thankful enough? A safe and enjoyable summer to everyone!

HEAVENLY CHEESECAKE

¾ cup crushed graham crackers
2 tablespoons melted butter
15-ounces part-skim ricotta cheese
8-ounces nonfat plain yogurt
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons lemon juice
8-ounces light cream cheese, softened
2 eggs
2½ teaspoons vanilla
Fresh or canned fruit—strawberries, kiwi, peaches, etc.

Combine crushed graham crackers and butter. Press into bottom of 9-inch springform pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 5 minutes, cool.

In blender, combine ricotta cheese, yogurt, sugar, flour, and lemon juice. Blend until smooth.

In a large bowl, beat cream cheese until light and smooth. Add eegs and vanilla. Beat on low until combined, beat on high until smooth. Slowly add ricotta cheese mixture to cream cheese mixture on low until combined.

Pour into crust. Place on a shallow baking dish-pan in the oven.

Bake at 325 degrees for about one hour or until center is set when gently shaken. Cool for 15 minutes, loosen crust from sides of pan. Cool 30 minutes more and remove sides of pan, cool completely. Chill 4 to 6 hours. Top with fresh fruit.

Makes about 12 servings.

We grow corn and soybeans, and feed steers and hogs on our farm. Along with our sons, we farm about 450 acres with some of this being land we rent.

We have three grown children. Our oldest son, Greg, has a welding business. He and Sharon, his wife, have two daughters. Jane, our daughter, and her husband, Steve, live in Harrisonburg, Va. Our younger son, Dwight, lives about two miles from us and joined our farming operation full time about a year ago.

I am a reading specialist during the school year and enjoy caring for my flowers and lawn during the summer.

GRAPE JULIUS

¾ cup grape juice concentrate
1½ cup cold milk
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt
5 ice cubes

Put all ingredients in blender on high speed until ice is crushed, about 25 seconds. Serve immediately.

Note: orange concentrate or frozen strawberries can be used. Also, sliced bananas or peaches can also be used (use your imagination). Adjust sugar to taste.

Hello! I am the oldest in the family. I live here at home on the farm, but have a full-time job at a grocery store.

We have a large farm, consisting of 180 acres. Dad and the boys milk 50 cows right now. I am 20 years old.

Ida's Notebook

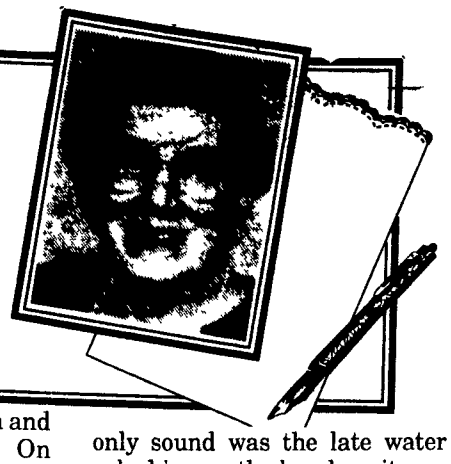
Ida Risser



We are into the sugar pea and strawberry picking time. On alternate days, I pick one or the other. Long ago, we grew lots of peas and berries to sell to the neighbors in a nearby development. But now we only have enough for ourselves and some to share with relatives.

This spring the rhubarb did so well that I was able to sell quite a bit of it. Some people really like it while others do not. However, I'm rather sure that everybody would enjoy a piece of good rhubarb coffee cake.

Before the busy season, we spent one day at our camper. The water line did not get repaired, but I did a little fishing. Although only two fish were caught, I enjoyed a beautiful day of blue skies and big fluffy white clouds. No one was in the area where I stood to fish and so the only sound was the late water splashing on the beach as it was windy. And, I had an opportunity to see several butterflies. One was yellow and black, one blue and a tiny orange one flew by.

Just now we have an abundance of black and white cats living in our garage. It is time to take some of them to the farm where they will have plenty of room to roam. Not that they don't play in the flower beds now and uproot the plants. Two of them are too friendly and push against me when I work in the garden or weed my big iris beds.

No more reading newspapers and magazines from one end to the other, but rather I must go outside and pick berries and peas. We usually freeze a lot for winter use when we really do appreciate them.

Vocational Education Week Celebration

Ten members from the West Snyder FFA Chapter participated in Pennsylvania Department of Education-sponsored Vocational Education Week Celebration at the capitol in Harrisburg. Chapter members constructed a booth titled "FFA Safety Jeopardy," which featured the 1998-1999 FFA Safety Jeopardy game The game was designed by Carolyn Howard, chapter safety committee chairman.

On Tuesday, Feb. 16, four members – Maria Trego, Sandy Opdyke, Melissa McWilliams, and Jen Balatincz – traveled to the capitol with Mrs. Shaffer, chapter adviser, to set up and staff the West Snyder display. Opening ceremonies were held by the Secretary of Education, the Lieutenant Governor, and members of the legislature who proclaimed Vocational Education Week in Pennsylvania.

On Wednesday, Feb. 17, Mr. Graybill, Midd-West Young Farmer adviser, accompanied Rose Carper, Maria Trego, Shane Eia, Jen McWilliams, Jessica Walter, and Heather Hollenbach to the capitol for breakfast with the legislators and to staff the booth for the day Members handed out Pennsylvania apples and FFA items to the audience who played Safety Jeopardy

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, writes that rhubarb is taking over one end of her garden and she doesn't want any of the rhubarb to be wasted. Anyone have some good recipes for rhubarb jelly, jam or butter.

QUESTION — Toni LeVan, Galeton, is looking for a recipe for oyster filling.

QUESTION — Joan Miller, Intercourse, wants to know if the cream puff recipe that includes a cream or pudding filling is the same recipe used to make fancy puff sandwiches. If not, does anyone have a recipe for the puff sandwiches?

QUESTION — R. Himmelberger, Fleetwood, wants to know where to buy Dijon dry salad mix used to make honey mustard pretzels.

QUESTION — A. Zimmerman, Denver, wrote that she had a recipe for pie that combined rhubarb with sour cherries, but can't find it. Anyone able to help?

QUESTION — Carol Dehoff wants a recipe to make Chow Chow.

QUESTION — Barbara wants a good coleslaw recipe that tastes similar to that sold by Spring Glen.

QUESTION — Cindy Pudliner, New Holland, would like the recipe for the biscuit sold at the restaurant called Joey's, which was located beside the Comfort Inn in New Holland. She used to order the Sausage and biscuits for breakfast. The biscuit made a light, fluffy cake biscuit.

QUESTION — Debbie Reynolds, Wrightsville, wants to know if anyone has a recipe for pumpkin butter similar to that made at Kitchen Kettle.

QUESTION — A.W. Good, East Earl, would like to know where to buy Kosher Jel. A previous source is no longer available because the plant burned down.

QUESTION — Barb Gaugher, Mansfield, wanted a recipe for Kosher barrel pickles like those sold at deli counters.

QUESTION — Brenda Houser, Middletown, would like a recipe to make cookies that taste like the ones served at Shady Maple Smorgasboard. The varieties that she likes are Chocolate Chip Truffle, which has a chocolate batter with chocolate chips in it and a soft chocolate center, and Peanut Butter Truffle, which has a peanut butter batter with chopped nuts and a soft peanut butter filling.

QUESTION — Marilyn DeMeyer, Hilton, N.Y., would like recipes for salt rising bread.

QUESTION — Shirley Ream, Criston, Ohio, would like a recipe on how to can ring bologna either by waterbath or pressure cooker or both.

QUESTION — Pam Bange, Hanover, would like recipes for using shitake mushrooms and portabella mushrooms.

QUESTION — G. Minkle, Wayne, would like a recipe for hot pepper cabbage relish, which she had clipped from this column several years ago.

QUESTION — K. B., York Springs, would like a recipe to make rotisserie chicken that tastes like that made by Rutters' Mini Market.

QUESTION — Carrie Sponseller, Gettysburg, would like a recipe for Snow Flake Cookie mix in a jar. It includes white chocolate chips and macadamia nuts that are layered in a quart jar.

QUESTION — Several years ago, J. Rouse clipped a recipe from this section for maple syrup pork chops. Her family loves the recipe, but she lost it. Anyone else clip the recipe? Send it in so we can reprint it.

QUESTION — Linda Garber, New Ringgold, is looking for recipes for vegetable cream cheese to spread on bagels.

QUESTION — Barb Fox wants to know how to make blueberry pig.

QUESTION — Lynn Rossi, Lititz, would like a recipe for marinated mushrooms, which are made without cooking oil and sold by S. Clyde Weaver, East Petersburg.

QUESTION — Mrs. Dale Burkhart, Narvon, misplaced a recipe for a seasoning mixture to rub into beef roast before roasting. She recalls that some of the ingredients included instant coffee granules, beef bouillion, salt and pepper.

ANSWER — Madeline Raub, Easton, wanted to know where to buy a round biscuit shaped like a basket with a fluted edge. Thanks to Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, who writes the round round biscuits shaped like baskets with a fluted edge are made by Stella D'oro cookie company and packaged in celophane bags and sold in most groceries in metropolitan areas with a large Italian population such as Philadelphia or Northern New Jersey.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how to harvest horseradish and how to use in cooking. Thanks to Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, who writes roots may be dug in fall after the first frost or in early spring while still dormant. Dig roots and scrub thoroughly to clean. Remove brownish skin. You can use a vegetable peeler. Grate horseradish or use food processor to make one cup. Add ½ cup white vinegar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Pack in clean jars and refrigerate for up to six months. For a wonderful spread for sandwiches, combine 3 to 4 tablespoons horseradish with ¾ cup mayonnaise.

Vegetable Cream Cheese

8-ounces cream cheese

Beat with spoon or spatula until cream cheese is smooth. Mix in finely diced onion (red or white), red and green pepper, chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon powdered garlic (not garlic salt) and diced celery. Serve on bagels.

Keeps several days in the refrigerator. Cover tightly so it doesn't absorb refrigerator odors.

Asparagus Salad

¼ pound spinach
1 head romaine lettuce
10 spears asparagus
½ head red cabbage
½ cup celery, sliced
½ cup cucumber, peeled, sliced
½ cup lemon French dressing

Rinse greens. Break into bite-size pieces. Place in plastic bag or lightly covered container. Store in refrigerator 4-6 hours or overnight to crisp. Wash asparagus spears and cut into all 2-inch pieces. Shred cabbage just as for coleslaw; remove all hard pieces. Just before serving, carefully pat greens dry on towel. Place all ingredients in wooden bowl. Toss lightly to cost all ingredients with Lemon French Dressing.

Pickled Asparagus

¼ teaspoon cayenne
1 clove garlic
1 tablespoon dill seed
2½ cups vinegar
¼ cup pickling salt
2½ cups water
For big batches:
20 pounds fresh asparagus
10 cups water
1 cup salt
10 cups vinegar

Pack clean asparagus into clean jars, add spices. Pour vinegar mixture to ½ -inch of top. Process in boiling water bath in 10 minutes. Will do 7 quarts.

Asparagus Salad With Pecans

Water
24 asparagus spears, fresh
6 red leaf lettuce leaves
6 tablespoons buttermilk mayonnaise OR 6 tablespoons light mayonnaise
2 tablespoons pecans, chopped.

Bring large pot water to boil. Wash asparagus and snap off tough bottoms or stems. When water is boiling, add asparagus and let water return to a boil. Cook about 3 minutes, until asparagus is crisp but tender. Remove asparagus, run it under cold water, and refrigerate to chill. At serving time, line six salad plates with lettuce and arrange four spears on each. Top salads with 1 tablespoons of mayonnaise and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon chopped pecans.

RHUBARB TORTE

Crust:
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
2 teaspoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter
Filling:
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
4 cups rhubarb, sliced
½ cup water
Several drops red food coloring
½ cup whipping cream
1½ cup marshmallows
3¾ ounces instant vanilla pudding

Combine graham cracker crumbs, sugar, and butter. Press in a serving dish or in a pan. Reserve some crumbs for top.

Combine sugar and corn starch. Stir in rhubarb and water. Cook and stir until thickened.

Reduce heat and cook 2-3 minutes. Add food coloring. Spread on cooled graham crust. Cool. Whip cream. Fold in marshmallows. Spoon on rhubarb. Prepare pudding according to directions. Spread on top. Sprinkle with reserved crumbs. It's very good!

CHEESE AND BEEF CASSEROLE

4 pounds lean ground beef (browned)
½ teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
3 10¾ ounces cream of chicken soup
2 12-ounce packages pot pie bows, uncooked
3-ounce package noodle soup mix, beef flavor
1½ pound shredded mozzarella cheese
1 cup whole milk or water

Brown ground beef in a pan, season with onion salt, salt, pepper, and season package from the soup mix. Add 2½ cans of soup mix and remove from heat. Spray bottom and sides of a 11-inch by 13-inch lasagne-type pan with vegetable spray.

In bottom of pan, mix the ½ can of soup and milk with a spoon. Cover the entire bottom. Sprinkle ¾ bag of pot pie bows. Spread ½ meat mix over the noodles and top with ½ cheese.

Repeat a second layer. Crush the noodles and put on top of pot pie bows. Cover entire (to edges) of pan with meat mixture. Sprinkle with the rest of the cheese. Cover tightly with aluminum foil, sprayed (so cheese doesn't stick as much).

Bake for one hour at 325 degrees. Turn off and leave in until ready to serve.

Our family dairy farm is in its second and third generation of farming. My husband David, sons Scott and Eric, and daughter and son-in-law JulieAnn and Brent Hurlock do all aspects of our farm: milking, breeding, nutrition, showing, and all fieldwork on 500 acres.

One hudred cows, with an average 22,000 pounds of milk, are housed in a 265 foot by 40-foot greenhouse tiestall barn with a double 3 autoflow parlor. We raise all our heifers for replacement, a few steers and bulls for sale, and a few laying hens and three riding horses just for fun.

Are We There Yet?

With Memorial Day weekend, the summer vacation caravan started, families packing kids into cars and heading out for some days of rest and relaxation. Unfortunately, for many parents the relaxing ends about a half hour into the drive as children begin to whine, "Are we there yet? I'm hungry. I'm bored. He keeps touching me." And so the bantering continues until the family finally reaches the long-awaited destination.

If your kids travel easily, be grateful. If not, take some time in advance of your departure to put together your travel survival plan. We know that children will misbehave when they are tired, hungry and bored. This can all happen in a car packed with coolers, suitcases, and lawn chairs. Be sure to pack ample supplies of ready-to-eat food. Fresh fruit, bite-sized crackers, pre-made sandwiches, and dried fruit can all keep blood sugar levels in check. Also pack lots of water. Sodas and punches are probably not necessary (besides, they can create a real mess in the car if you hit a speed bump or rough road construction). Freeze water in small bottles, one for each child. As the water melts, the kids can sip it. Any spills will dry easily.

If it's at all feasible, consider traveling during a child's nap time or at night when they would normally be sleeping. Sacrificing your adult schedule and comfort a bit in this area is important. This is particularly helpful if you have a trip that is longer than three or four hours.

If the children are awake for the road trip, plan some mandatory stops at rest areas. Truck drivers and bus drivers have mandated breaks. You and your kids will need them too. Get out, stretch. In addition to potty breaks, let the kids run around or throw a Frisbee for 15 minutes. It will lengthen your travel a bit, but getting the "antsyness" released is well worth the delay. It is very difficult for most children to sit quietly in a car seat or seat belt for two or three hours at a time.

Finally, plan some interesting diversion for them during the trip. My brother and sister-in-law read aloud to their children on long trips. Its a great way to share classic novels or chapter books with youngsters. If reading aloud would make you car sick, why not try books on tape? The public library has cassette tapes of books for toddles through adults. There are also travel tapes that tell stories about the towns and communities that you may pass by on interstate highways. I spent one delightful trip on Interstate 80 (not a particularly interesting road) listening to a cassette and learning all the history of industries and heroes of that northern tier of our state.

If stories are not of interest, create a visual scavenger hunt. In advance make a checklist of 25-50 things that the children need to "spy" a house with a green roof, a child's bicycle, a fire engine, purple flowers, a live groundhog. The kids can help you make the list if they'd like.

It's also a good idea to have some toys, pillows, books and electronic games that are only used when traveling. Your kids will be happy to see them because they are "new." And having all the right equipment will help them transition to "travel" behavior.

I would be harassed by all who know me if I don't suggest music and car sing-alongs. Singing together is a great way to pass the time. Of course, some people enjoy singing together more than others so be sensitive to individual tolerances as much as possible. Ask my brother how much he likes the song "Ding, ding, ding, here comes the fire truck!" Ask me how much pleasure I got out of teaching his young children all the words! For older children, battery-operated tape or CD players with ear phones may be your ideal source of peace.

Wherever you're headed this summer, take time in advance to think about travel. If you find yourselves yelling at each other or getting headaches before the vacation even starts, plan some relief. The advance work will pay off in a more relaxed excursion.

ANSWER — Ed Gottshal, Ephrata, asked for a recipe for cinnamon rolls made without yeast that he had remembered his mother made. Here is a recipe from Eliza Rae Michaud, Pine Grove.

Cinnamon Rolls

1½ cups flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons shortening
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
⅓ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Mix together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut in shortening and slowly add milk. When soft dough forms, roll out until thin. Spread with remaining ingredients and roll up. Cut into half-inch slices and bake next to each other in a greased pan at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until done.

ANSWER — Ben S. Stoltzfus, Honey Brook, wanted a recipe for bran muffins that tastes like the Sara Lee brand. Thanks to an Ephrata reader for sending this recipe.

Bran Muffins

8 cups bran flakes or 15-ounce box Raisin Bran
2½ cups sugar
5 cups flour
2 teaspoons salt
5 teaspoons baking soda
2 cups chopped pecans

Place ingredients in large mixing bowl. Beat together:

5 eggs
1 quart buttermilk
1 cup corn oil

Combine liquid and dry mixtures. Pour into a tight container with cover and keep refrigerated (keeps several weeks). Use as needed. Fill greased and floured muffin tins ¾ full. Bake at 400 degrees for 18-20 minutes.

ANSWER — Pat Elligson, Millers, Md., wanted a recipe for carrot raisin salad that tastes like that served at the Country Buffet. Thanks to Stan Kitchen for sending recipes.

Carrot Raisin Salad

1 package sugar-free orange gelatin
¾ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons raisins
½ cup cold orange juice
Ice cubes
½ cup shredded carrots

Completely dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in raisins. Combine juice and enough ice cubes to measure 1¼ cups. Add to gelatin; stir until slightly thickened. Remove unmelted ice. Stir in carrots. Spoon into individual dishes or small serving bowl. Refrigerate until firm, about 2 hours.

Farm Women Societies

York Society 26

York County Farm Women #26 held the April meeting at Lewisberry Methodist Church. Doris Goodlander and Luna Kohler were hostesses. Officer Bill Myers from Newberry Township gave a talk on crime prevention for the annual safety program.

Donations were given to Bethesda Mission and Rescue Mission of York.

The May meeting was the 33rd anniversary meeting. The group went to Harrisburg and toured the Governor's mansion and then went to Catalanto's Restaurant in Wormleysburg for lunch. The group was organized on May 10, 1966. Athena Beshore and Mary Conley are the two charter members in the group.

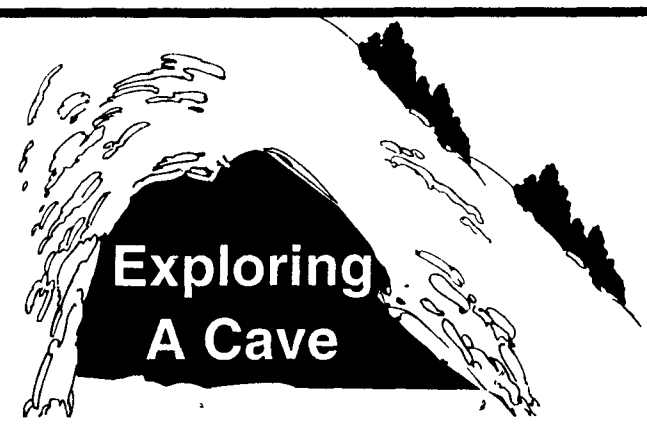
Exploring A Cave



From bodies to bats to gold...there have been all kinds of things found in the Colossal Cave.

The cave is located in the Colossal Cave Mountain Park near Tucson, Arizona. It goes back into the mountain about 600 feet and goes down about 40 feet from the entrance.

The Hohokam Indians used the cave about 950 years ago, and artifacts from the Hohokam and Apache have been found there. Along with artifacts, two skeletons were found in 1917. Seven types of bats live in the cave, and minerals, including limestone and gypsum, have been found there.

There are many stories about Colossal Cave and bandits using it as a hideout. The biggest story is about train robbers and gold, and it started back in 1884 when four men held up a train and got away with more than $70,000 worth of gold and money. Legend has it that they headed to Colossal Cave. The sheriff stood watch with a posse, but the thieves headed out the back. They were found, and three of them died in the gunfight. The fourth was arrested. And even though the cave has been explored, the money was never found.

For more information on the cave and its legends, visit http://www.colossalcave.com.

What's the difference between moths and butterflies?

The next time you see a field full of butterflies, look closer. They just might be moths. Butterflies and moths are frequently mistaken for each other, but they aren't the same.

Moths generally have small, dull-colored wings. Fuzzy hair covers their bodies, and their antennae are feathery and tapered. Moths rest with their wings spread out flat. They are nocturnal insects, which means they work at night while you sleep.

Butterflies, on the other hand, have large and brightly colored wings. Their antennae are slender with club-like balls on the end that look like door knobs. A butterfly rests with its colorful wings folded together above the body. And, butterflies do their work while the sun is out, sleeping at night.

Moths and butterflies are both members of what our entomology friends call the Lepidoptera group of insects. (Lepidoptera means "scales that cover the wings." The scales give the wings color.)

So the next time you see a Lepidoptera during the day, it's probably a butterfly. And, if you see one after the sun has set, you'll be watching a moth in action!

Scientifically yours,

Twig

Bradford County Selects Dairy Royalty

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

CANTON (Bradford County) — Jackie Schriner, Ulster, will spend a year as a princess. Named the 1999 Bradford County Dairy Princess at the Bradford County Dairy Festival, May 29, Jackie will be assisted by alternates Melissa Croft and Heather Brenza, both of Troy. Samantha Barrett, Corissa Coolbaugh, Jenny Storch, and Amberleigh Yurkanin will help the dairy promotion efforts as dairy maids in the coming year.

Master of Ceremonies Senator Roger Madigan introduced the contestants and asked each the impromptu question, "How would you explain to a weight conscious individual, the need for dairy products in their diet?"

Schriner noted, "The need for dairy products in their diet is very important." She continued to explain that although many people think dairy products are fattening, they actually aren't as unhealthy as perceived.

"They need (dairy products) in their diet for other reasons too, like if they don't get enough calcium, they could get osteoporosis," she said.

Croft answered. "I would tell them that it's not all fat going into your bodies. You're also getting protein and minerals from the dairy products that you eat."

Brenza explained that when you eat or drink dairy products they give you strong bones and that you'll have more energy to be able to exercise.

During the evening event, the three contestants also were required to give a presentation.

Schriner entertained the audience as she posed as an old woman in "Don't Imitate, Get Real."

"When I was growing up, I always heard that milk does a body good," said Schriner, "but what exactly does it do for your body?"

She explained the importance of milk in the diet by saying, "A long time ago, while I was milking my cows, I heard a commercial on the radio. This was no ordinary commercial. This commercial was advertising calcium replacements. The part that caught my attention was the part that calcium replacements provide the calcium your body needs. They say they provide calcium, but it's not the same calcium you get when you drink milk. The calcium in calcium replacements is actually stomach acid reducer. It's used for settling upset stomachs. Now you're probably wondering what's the difference. When you drink milk, you get important bone builders such as phosphorous, magnesium, Riboflavin and vitamin D and you can't get any of these from imitations."

"Hi, I'm Melissa, and I'm from Udderville where all the dairy products are delicious," she said. "I'm so proud of all our dairy farmers for all their hard work. Did you know there are about 11,500 dairy farmers in Pennsylvania?"

Brenza used dairy facts to score points for her basketball team as she explained the importance of dairy products. "Why do I drink milk?" she asked.

"To give me a free throw of protein and a slam dunk of calcium," Brenza said.

She also listed other important nutrients in milk, the variety of dairy products and told people to always look for the Real Seal.

Judges Marian Lovell, Linden; Carol Baker, Covington; and Barb Strong, Barton, N.Y.; had the difficult task of choosing the new princess who was crowned by 1998 Bradford County Dairy Princess Talitha Coolbaugh.

In Coolbaugh's farewell address she thanked all the Bradford County farmers for giving her this opportunity. She also brought Kelly the Cow, a popular sidekick, to say goodbye as well.

Throughout the year, the Bradford County Dairy Promotion team completed 70 school promotions, 52 newspaper articles, 89 radio spots and 27 store and mall promotions. They also attended 28 non-farm meetings, 20 farm meetings, 75 special events and 13 state events.

Jackie Schriner was named the 1999 Bradford County Dairy Princess. Here she is surrounded by her court, Melissa Croft, first alternate, left, and Heather Brenza, second alternate.

Samantha Barrett, Amberleigh Yurkanin, Corissa Coolbaugh and Jenny Storch will serve as dairy maids in Bradford County.

The majority of milk customers purchase other items from their extensive deli, restaurant, and store.

When mining is complete on the original farm, the operation will move to the adjoining farm. Mining officials have already warned the Minors that at least one of the two ponds will be drained. The three silos will be dismantled to prevent their tumbling during the mining. The company has said to replace these, it will built horizontal silos on the property.

Daughter Marcia and husband Don's home on the adjoining farm, although not as sturdy or as large, has been placed in the National Registry, because it has maintained its primitive interior and exterior. This designation prevents mining directly beneath the house but not on the land surrounding the house.

In some ways, the mining company has tried to ease the problems affecting property owners. Consol has offered to send in people to clean up the house from the daily "rain" of sandstone dust. Some residents have been moved to another site during the mining. Many, like the Minors, don't want strangers coming in and out of their home. During restoration of the Minors' farmhouse, the two additions will need to be detached. It's impossible to know how long, but the Minors foresee years of restoration.

As of this writing, the mining company has indicated that they will restore the farmhouse and build a new milking parlor.

Consol, Hoffman said, attempts to reimburse property owners for damages more than legally mandated by law. They have expressed a willingness to rebuild the barn and reimburse for business loss of production from moving the cows to another farm to be milked.

"We don't care about money. We just want to keep what we have," Bev said.

The Minors background is one steeped in agriculture.

"I've had so rich a heritage," Bev said of growing up about 20 miles from their farm. Her dad was the well-known Clyde Robinson, who had established a milk processing business in the 1960s and 1970s and milked more than 100 Jerseys, and had been a leader in the many county and state agricultural organizations.

Bev was the Pennsylvania state dairy princess in 1959. She attained world recognition in a photograph picked up by the Associated Press. It shows Bev as dairy princess trying to stop the fall of Gov. David Lawrence, who toppled from a stool while milking a cow at the 1959 Farm Show.

Sam, who grew up in neighboring Greene County, met Bev while showing cows at a local fair. The couple dated while attending Penn State and married before Bev's senior year.

After graduation, Sam worked for the Guernsey Cattle Club, and Bev as a home ecnomist for Pennsylvania Power and Light.

Later Sam worked for Eastern Artificial Breeders in Ithaca, N.Y.

During these years, Bev was a stay-at-home mom raising five children. It was always the couple's dream to own their own farm and establish a retail business. For several years, the Minors worked for dairy farmers Jan and Gene Harding in Brookville, where they gained experience working with a milk jugging business and restaurant and on-the-site bakeshop.

After a temporary stint with Carnation Genetics in California, the couple determined they wanted to farm in Pennsylvania. Although they could find some beautiful farms in the western part of the state, that area did not have the population needed for a retail business.

Before the couple purchased the farm where they live, they stood alongside the roadside and counted the cars that whizzed by. The daily traffic was exactly what the Minors needed to build a successful operation.

While preparing the property for a retail business, the Minors went six months without income.

"We prayed daily for lunch money," Bev said. But the couple felt so optimistic and assured that they were doing the right thing, and the temporary financial difficulty did not trouble them.

From the beginning, the children became immersed in the business. The kids raised and sold sweet corn. They ran the cash register by standing on their tiptoes.

While the children were in school, Bev always made it a priority to welcome the children home at 4 p.m. and spend some time with them. She chauffeured them to school events and classes such as gymnastics. With children's activities, chores, and the store responsibilities, the family usually did not gather for supper until 9:30 p.m. But a family sit-down supper was made a priority.

Today the Minors' five children are married, and the clan has grown to include 10 grandchildren: Son Sam married to Marsha, Jill married to Kelly Miles, Marcia married to Don Opp, Tee married to John Kelly, and Jodi married to Eric Englehart.

"This is as much their business as ours. They care so much," Bev said. While some families do not work well together, the Minors have developed a sound relationship. In fact, Sam said that he and his son Sam's relationship is enhanced by working together. To make it work, the Minors believe that grown children need to be treated as adults and as equals in business decisions.

Spring House Farm started out with 27 cows. In addition to jugged milk, the processing plant made cheese and ice cream. The Minors had decided to use plastic bottles from the start, recognizing that busy homemakers did not want to bother with washing glass bottles. Especially popular are their pint-sized plastic bottles filled with chocolate milk.

Gift baskets and fresh produce are also sold. Over the years, the Minors have added items that customers requested.

At first, the Minors had a small deli. Soon customers were asking for sandwiches, then a daily soup. Someone suggested they offer two salad varieties daily.

"I remember feeling overwhelmed and wondered how we could offer two fresh salads everyday. Now we make 20 different kinds of salad everyday," Bev said.

Because Spring House served meals on site, they were soon asked to cater a meal. Today, catering is the fastest growing aspect of the Minors' business. They cater hundreds of events, from company picnics to wedding receptions.

"The community people are really supportive of our business," Bev said.

Hundreds of people, both blue and white collar workers, flock to the restaurant for the soup, salad, and food bar where a wide variety of entrees are offered. While old-fashioned favorites are served, Bev is constantly on the lookout to try new ideas. Grilled vegetables, a recent addition, are popular. Take-out meals are meeting an increasing demand.

At noon, the Spring House is packed with customers eating inside the added-on sunroom and outside in the picnic grove peppered with picnic tables.

The picnic patch admidst a grove of trees is also a popular site for parties, weddings, ice cream socials, and other gatherings.

To keep things running smoothly, employees now number 74, mostly part time, and primarily high school and college kids. The Minors fill the role of much more than employers—they attend sporting events, graduations, and weddings of their employess, who they affectionally call "our kids."

Minors said they have many employees from the same family. "If the daughter makes a good employee, we know her mother will too," Bev said.

When employees reach the 10-year mark, they are rewarded with a trip or cruise of their choice. They work with many people who have been with them for 10 to 20 years.

It's a challenge to increase cash flow and profit margins while keeping up with escalating labor costs. The Minors know they could save substantially if they purchased prepared food, but they don't want to sacrifice quality for financial gain. All food is prepared from scratch. Many of the vegetables are raised on the farm and even the meats are hickory smoked on the farm.

Spring House does not advertize extensively. But they have found a tremendous niche in meeting the demand for family activities.

An estimated 4,000 participated in the farm tours during the last two months. Farm tours cost $4 a person. Several women have been hired full time to lead the regularly scheduled tours held three times daily. In addition, kids are welcome to help with daily calf feeding at 6:30 p.m.

Sam is known as the "numbers" and "visionary" man. He's the one who knows the value of every percentage, the one who grasps the big picture over all.

"He's our most severe critic," Bev said of the creative ideas that she and daughter Marcia imagine.

Bev means "critic" in the positive manner. He's the one who shows up at catering parties to make sure that every thing appears in top-notch condition and that such details as a garbage can placed in the right spot.

"Bev is really good at marketing. She loves interacting with people," Sam said.

Typical of some of the creativity at the Spring House is a Teddy Bear Tea Party, which was planned in February for mothers and daughters, who dressed up. Mothers brought their favorite tea cups and their daughters brought their favorite bears. Entertainment was provided with a puppet show and by the Minors' son-in-law who dressed in a teddy bear suit.

Cut-out sandwiches in the shape of a bear and teddy bear cookies accompanied with chocolate milk for the daughters and tea for the mothers proved to be so popular that the restaurant had to extend the tea party the following weekend to accomodate customers.

The stately woodwork and walls of the Minors' 1801 farmhouse has cracked from underground mining. In some areas, the cracks are wide enough to insert a hand. Floors have buckled and most of the doors no longer close.

A long-time traditional event is the Mother's Day Chicken Barbecue, which is attended by more than 1,000 people for several years.

The Minors travel all over the states, but it's always connected to agribusiness.

"There was always a cow involved in our travel—even on our honeymoon," Sam said of stops to visit the Holstein Association and the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

"Our whole business revolves around cows and milk," Bev said. "Our customers feel like this is their farm and that's the way we love it."

Within the past year, Bev has faced recurring health problems. In the fall, Bev was hospitalized for 19 days and on intravenous medication for 31 days with a severe lung infection. Tests revealed that a bacteria had created extensive scar tissue in her lungs. One possibility, according to the doctors, might have been a result of breathing dust from raising chickens during her youth. After numerous antibotics fed intravenously, Bev has made considerable progress but has not regained her high energy level.

Before mining began on the property, the Minors were hoping to increase cow herd size. In recent years they have been utilizing intensive grazing more and more.

"It's cheaper to buy grains than raise them in this area," Sam said. "Farming in western Pennyslvania is different from Lancaster County. We have short, hilly fields. The soil isn't as fertile. We can't make silage because of the wildlife damage."

Despite the hassles, Sam said, "This is where we are, but we must move on with now, doing the best job we can planning for the future."

"Sam is like a rock," his wife said of the turmoil the family has faced with longwall mining.

But Sam admits that remaining positive and calm while seeing their farm buildings and house destroyed is the most difficult situation he has ever faced. It's something they don't want others to face.

But putting everything into perspective, Bev said, was the news that a friend's grandchild had been killed in an accident. "Bad things happen to everyone. This (mining damage) is something we must deal with, however unpleasant.

"Our whole business revolves around cows and milk," Bev said. "Our customers feel like this is their farm. We want them to always have this spot to visit."

It's a legacy the Minors worked hard to attain, and one they hope will be passed on to their children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

YUM-YUM SALAD

8-ounces cream cheese
1 large can evaporated milk
20-ounce can crushed pineapple
½ cup sugar
3-ounce package strawberry Jell-O

Chill evaporated milk several hours. Boil pineapple and sugar for about 5 minutes. Stir frequently. Remove from heat and stir in Jell-O until dissolved. Cool until lukewarm. When cool, beat cream cheese with cold evaporated milk. Beat until fluffy. Fold in pineapple mixture. Chill until firm.

If desired, fold in 1 cup miniature marshmallows or ½ cup chopped walnuts for a variation.

Other flavors Jell-O may also be substituted.

I made this salad for the first time at Easter. I used lime Jell-O and doubled the recipe. My family loved it. I've made it since then with the strawberry Jell-O, but we prefer the lime Jell-O.

BAKED SIMON PUDDING

Butter 2-quart baking dish
Sift together:
1 cup sugar
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated

Beat the whites until still and slowly beat in ½ cup sugar. Set aside.

1 teaspoonful grated lemon rind
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons melted butter
1½ cups milk

Stir into flour mixture. Beat until smooth. Add the beaten egg whites and fold in gently. Pour into pudding dish. Set in a pan with hot water ½-inch deep. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Chill one hour.

I live on a farm in eastern Conneticut near the Rhode Island border. We were in dairy farming for 45 years, but now just make hay. I appreciate the many good recipes in "Lancaster Farming."

WHIPPED MILK GELATINE

3-ounce package flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup milk

Add boiling water to gelatin. Cool until it begins to thicken. Add milk slowly, beating constantly. Beat well.

This recipe is simple and quick to mix up but has more to it than plain Jell-O. My husband, Paul, works for a farmer and I'm a homemaker. We have two small children that keep life interesting for us.

CHERRY SURPRISE

Angel food cake, cubed
6-ounce pacakge instant vanilla pudding
1 pint sour cream
2 cups milk
2 cans cherry pie filling

Cube angel food cake. Put into a 9x12-inch pan. Mix pudding, sour cream, and milk. Pour over cake. Spread two cans cherry pie filling on top of cream mixture. Refrigerate one hour, eat and enjoy.

I grew up on a farm but no longer live on a farm. I am still a farmer at heart. I do live in the country on farmland and love it.

DELICIOUS BREAD PUDDING

1 cup bread cubes
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 slightly beaten egg
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup raisins
2 cups scalded milk

Combine sugar, salt, vanilla, butter, cinnamon, and egg. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Add bread cubes and raisins. Mix thoroughly. Pour into well-buttered baking dish. Sit in pan of warm water. Bake in 350 degree oven one hour or until inserted silver knife comes out clean. Cool Serve with whipped cream.

My husband Karl and I farmed for 40 years and are now retired.

Karl has a vegetable garden to keep him busy. I have a lot of flowers that I take care of.

We have four daughters, each living in a different state, Alaska, Wyoming, Oklahoma, and Carlisle, and five grandchildren and one great little Joey.

Keep Tabs

In 1999, wage earners will receive a summary of their earnings history from the Social Security Administration. This report will give you a record of your earnings history and and estimate how much you have paid in Social Security taxes.

If you are eater to receive this information, request the Social Security Administration's form, Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement. The completed form will also give you an estimate of benefits you (and your family) may be eligible for now and in the future.

Your local Social Security office has copies of the form. Call SS at 1-800-772-1213 with questions or use the Internet; contact http://www.ssa.gov. In addition to the usual information, like name, address, phone, etc., you've required to supply your last year's actual earnings, this year's estimated earnings and future average yearly earnings.

Spending five minutes completing the form pays off in ensuring that your benefits will match your earning history. You'll also have a total of what you have paid to Social Security. Do this annually. It is much easier to correct any errors that occur during one year rather than for a number of years.

For information on benefits, ask for SSA Publications No. 05-10024, Social Security; Understanding the Benefits.

Guests See World Through Apple At Meyersdale FFA Banquet

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) – About 250 guests of the Meyersdale FFA Chapter could not fork into their turkey, stuffing and mashed potato dinner until they "saw the world through an apple."

The balloons in the corridors that were anchored by red delicious apples and others decorating the tables could have alerted them that something was up, but most were blissfully ignorant of what was happening.

Until Jim Stutzman, chapter adviser, made the guests, in four-square arrangements, choose a person to cut the juicy fruit into quarters.

Three-fourths of an apple is water and the remainder they learned was land. That quarter was then sectioned into four pieces to represent desert, mountains, tundra, and land to live on.

The "land to live on" section was then quartered. A voice stated that one-fourth is too swampy, one-fourth is too dry, one-fourth is too rocky or steep, and only the last fourth is habitable.

That piece was peeled. The apple part represented land that is too sandy, too fragile such as rain forests, or land that's been paved over.

The peel represented the amount of land available for producing food for the people of the world.

The conclusion of the exercise was we all need to conserve the world's topsoil so food can be produced to sustain human life in the world.

At the recent chapter banquet, members were honored.

The skills contest placings were. livestock judging--Jason Knotts first in chapter, third in county; small gas engines--Mike Cook and Thomas Sanner first in chapter, second in county; tractor driving and dairy showmanship--Philip Petenbrink first in both categories for chapter and county; horse judging-Mandy Decker first in chapter-ag mechanics-Bill Sines first in chapter.

In the Somerset-Cambria Public Speaking Contest, Keith Walker was second and Matt Gauntz third in extemporaneous speaking. Dan Lepley was third in conservation speaking.

Jeff Hobbs received the Chapter Leadership Award. He is the Somerset County FFA chaplain and was selected a State Leadership Conference Scholar, setting a precedent for FFA members in Somerset County.

About 20 individuals--25 percent of the chapter membership — were recognized for academic achievement; Jeff Hobbs, Matthew Emerick, Kristi Michael, Dan Miller, Kyle McKenzie, Leonard Miller, Jeremy Knieriem, Valerie Butler, and Crystal Bittner.

Also: Kristina Platter, Debby Faner, Mandy Decker, Beth Lishia, Sara Hoover, Dara Arnold, Bill Sines, Mike Cook, Thomas Sanner, Myron Deal and Peggy Butler.

The Record Book Contest winners were beef finishing-Jason Knotts, first in county and first in state for a gold medal; off-farm work-Bill Sines, first in county and second in state for a silver medal; dairy herd production-Philip Petenbrink, second in county.

Thomas Sanner sold 73.5 boxes of fruit to win the chapter ag sales award and Dan Miller won for flowers and bulbs.

The chapter volleyball team was first in the county. On the team were Keith Walker, Jimmy Kamalsky, Jason Knotts, Galen Wilt, Beth Lishia, Mike Cook, Barry Sayler, Eric Yutzey, Shawn Kyle, Earl Shaffer, Sara Hoover, Brad Romesberg and Bob Weimer. Rick McKenzie was the coach.

In basketball, the chapter team placed second. members were Mike Cook, Mary Deal, Galen Wilt, Jesse Miller, Andy Marteney, Barry Sayler, Charlie Teets, Brian McKenzie, Earl Shaffer, Heidi Knopsnyder, Matt Gauntz, Keith Walker, Dan Miller, and Brad Romesberg.

In the regional three-on-three basketball tournament, champions were Shawn Kyle, Jim Kamalsky, and Jason Knotts, with alternate Keith Walker.

Richard McKenzie, Meyersdale, was made an honorary member by chapter president Bill Sines. He and wife Robin have three children--Stephanie, Shawn, and Steven.

In front are Dara Arnold, Meyersdale FFA Chapter Sweetheart, and Bill Sines. In back, Jason Knotts, Dan Miller, Thomas Sanner, and Philip Petenbrink.

Lebanon County Selects Dairy Princess Court

The 1999 Lebanon County Dairy Princess delegation takes its reign. From the left is First Alternate Dairy Princess Amy Burkhart, county Dairy Princess Amanda Martin, Li'l Miss Dairy Princess Sarah Smith, and Second Alternate Dairy Princess Stacy Weidler. Not present for the photograph was LI'L Miss Dairy Princess Lydia Smith.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Nine young women have volunteered and were accepted to serve for a year as dairy promotion royalty for the Lebanon County Dairy Princess Promotion Committee, during the 27th annual Lebanon County Dairy Princess Coronation, held at the Lebanon County Career and Technology Center on June 5.

It is one of the largest, if not the largest, dairy promotion royalty court to date for the county.

There are three princesses, four dairy maids, and two li'l miss princesses.

Winning the top tiara as 1999 Lebanon County dairy princess was Amanda Martin, 17, daughter of Eugene and Kathy Martin, owners of Promise Lane Holsteins, located just off of Colebrook Road (Route 241, east of Route 322).

First alternate dairy princess is Amy Burkhart, 19, daughter of Paul and Kay Burkhart of Myerstown. Second alternate princess is Stacy Weidler, 16, daughter of Carl and Kathy Weidler of Palmyra.

The dairy maids are Hannah Bomgardner, 16, daughter of Harvey and Kathy Bomgarder, of Lebanon; Kathryn Buck, 14, daughter of Harry and Annette Buck, of Annville; Sarah Krall, 15, daughter of Rick and Linda Krall, of Lebanon; and Heather Chernich, 14, daughter of Kevin and Brenda Chernich, Lebanon.

All except Chernich were previewed in Lancaster Farming prior to the coronation.

She is to be a freshman at Lebanon High School in the fall, and has been involved in marching band and chorus. She said she enjoys baton twirling and dancing, hunting, fishing, and camping and reading.

Chernich's uncle works at a feed mill, and she enjoys working around animals, even though she lives in the city. She said she wanted to be a dairy maid because, "I think it's interesting and I love working with animals."

The li'l miss princesses are Sarah Smith, 7, daughter of Earl and Marilyn Smith, Lebanon; and Lydia Smith, 4, daughter of Scott and Sarah Smith, Lebanon. (Not related.)

Lydia Smith was unable to attend the coronation, but has been accepted to serve as a li'l miss.

The 1999 promotion contigent replaces the 1998 court of Dairy Princess Heidi Finnicle; Dairy Maid Laura Blouch; and Li'l Miss Princess Royell Bashore.

Alletta Schadler, director of the Lebanon County Extension, served as master of ceremonies in the former vocational-technical school building auditorium.

The event was somewhat more formal this year.

The stage was decorated with a background of a freestanding ornamental white frame and a few balloons, serving to accent the background, while not detracting from the stage actions.

A row of wicker, high-backed chairs — one for each young woman — was on stage, with the largest chair centered on stage and reserved for the princess.

Schadler welcomed the crowd, noting the large promotional contingent, and the full audience.

Because the dairy princess program is primarily a dairy-farmer funded effort to bring public attention to, and foster appreciation of, the dairy industry, Schadler prefaced the program with a message about the current state of the dairy industry, agriculture in general, and some of the consumer trends.

She said that the carbonated beverage industry has continued to make significant gains with the consumer, while beverage milk consumption is slightly down, based on a per capita consumption comparison.

She did say that the good news was that per capita consumption of cheese has increased dramatically.

As she introduced the three dairy princess contestants, each wore an evening gown and were accompanied to stage by an escort dressed in suit-and-tie, with carnations in their lapels.

After arriving on stage, the escorts exited to the side stage, and the three princess contestants were introduced.

She also introduced the three dairy princess judges: Pheobe Bitler, who with husband David, raise and milk registered Holsteins in Berks County. Pheobe was a 1973 dairy princess, and more recently, a national spokesperson for Young Farmers, as well as a former Extension home economist; Lorraine Royer, a Lebanon County dairy farmer who also coordinates the Lebanon Area Fair queen pageant; and Ernest Miller, a former dairy farmer involved with dairy promotion.

The three princesses were interviewed individually by Schadler who asked them what they would do if, at a dairy promotion, they gave Gov. Tom Ridge an ice cream cone and he spilled on himself.

The three answers demonstrated the three possessed quick wit in parlaying a potentially negative situation into a positive one that promoted dairy product consumption.

Next, the three gave their skits, with Schadler explaining the target age group each princess had in mind when they developed their skit.

Princess Martin's skit was designed for younger children. She was dressed as a daughter of a farming couple, and she came on stage looking for her dog, "Buster."

When she found Buster (a stuff toy dog) sitting on a straw bale, she told the toy dog that she had to take lunch to her father who was working out in the fields.

She talked about the contents of the lunch that her mother prepared for her father and how her mother ensured that her father got his dairy products to ensure good nutrition. She finished with a reminder of the meaning of the Real Seal — that the product contains real dairy product.

First alternate Dairy Princess Amy Burkhart targeted her skit for preschoolers and elementary aged youth.

For her skit, she pretended she was the host of a television show called, "The Least Wanted," and how a notorious band of bad guys was on the loose, "The Junk Food Gang."

She talked about dairy products and how they are nutritious and good for developing strong bodies and minds, and the need to fight the Junk Food Gang by drinking more milk.

Second alternate Dairy Princess Stacy Weidler targeted high school aged students as her audience.

For her skit, Weidler, a sports enthusiast, acted as a sports announcer and did a play-by-play of a basketball game between players from Cow University and Junk University.

The dairy players won. In Weidler's pretend basketball game, Junk University only scored one basket — when chewing gum came up court and sunk one.

Of course the points were immediately matched by the dairy team, that went on to win handily.

Following the skits, each princess contestant also gave a speech prepared for an adult group, either a civic of social group or to give before an audience of dairy producers.

Martin's speech was about the importance of dairy products to everyday life and how incorporated it is into a wide variety of foods. She explained the system of milk delivery, and the many and various products available today.

She told the audience that no matter what their preference, there was a dairy product for them.

She also mention that the dairy industry provides more than 50,000 jobs for the Pennsylvania workforce and economy.

Burkhart's talk was more deeply involved with the business and economic environment for the dairy industry.

She said that while listening to a popular, right-wing, conservative-shock talk show entertainer, the question for discussion at the moment was, "What's the most important occupation inthe world?"

She said people were calling in with suggestions as doctors, etc., but one person called in that farmers were, because without farmers there would be nothing to eat.

She segued into the dairy industry because of its large proportional contribution to the state's and

Berks County Dairy Princess Michele McMichael plans to become a successful dairy farmer.

SOUR CREAM CHICKEN CASSEROLE

2 chicken breasts
1 cup sour cream
2½ cups crushed Ritz crackers
1 can cream of mushroom soup
½ cup butter
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese

Parboil chicken. Cut in chunks and lay in greased 9x13-inch pan.

Mix can of soup and sour cream. Pour over chicken. Melt butter and stir in crackers. Spread on top of sour cream mixture. Top with cheese and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

I am 20 years old. I live at home with my parents, sister, and brother. We live in the country in Parkesburg.

I enjoy gardening, canning, cross stitching, reading, and spending time with family and friends. Also, I'm having fun learning to cook and bake. Even though I don't live on a farm, the lifestyle is very appealing to me.

Andrienne Hostetter
Parkesburg

MACARONI AND CHEESE

¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon mustard
1½ cups mozarella cheese
3 cups cooked macaroni

Cheese sauce: Melt butter and mix in flour and salt. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly until sauce starts to boil. Lower heat and cook until thickened. Add mustard and cheese, and stir over low heat until cheese melts.

Mix in cooked macaroni and heat through. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Other uses for cheese sauce: Mix with cooked potatoes, rice, noodles, or pour over cooked vegetables.

I am the Berks County Dairy Princess. I graduated from Tulpehocken High School on June 7. This fall I will be attending Penn State Berks Campus to major in dairy and animal science.

I live with my mother, Judith McMichael, and my brother, Jeremy, and my sister, Holly. We live close to Rehrersburg. I have been very involved in FFA. I've participated in dairy judging, farm business management, public speaking, dairy showmanship, etc. I have been the secretary for our chapter for the past two years.

I enjoy working for Gerald Bicksler on his dairy farm. I milk in the morning before school and also after school. We milk 84 Holsteins with a total herd of 150. We also make a lot of hay.

I hope to become a successful dairy farmer. I enjoy working with and showing dairy cattle, line dancing, concerts, and meeting new people and trying new things.

1 can canned milk
1 teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoon salt

Blend eggs with electric beater. Add milk and salt. Place over low heat and cook until lumpy. Sprinkle with allspice. Strain in strainer, and put lump in big dish towel. Tie with long rope or baler twine. Keep winding rope to form ball. Hang up outside or inside the house to dry. When dry, remove, place in a pan, brush on one egg yolk on top and bake in 350 degree oven until lightly browned. Cool. Put in refrigerator. Slice and enjoy.

This recipe is good to make as on our farm there are always plenty of eggs and milk to use. My mom always use to make it, now I do.

I am the third generation farming our farm with my brother and Dad.

I hatch all types of poultry from incubaters: Lots of breeds of chickens, guinea hens, ducks, geese, turkeys, pheasants, and peacocks. I also raise rabbits and goats, Nigerian Dwarfs, Alpines. Sheep breeds include Suffolk, Romney, and the rare breed Katahdin. I also have several breeds of pet cows such as Lineback, Angus, Brown Swiss, and Scotch Highland.

I enjoy farming, love animals, working outdoors, baling hay, and reading Lancaster Farming's "Home On The Range."

I also collect cows and have my house filled with them.

Enjoy the summer!

SUGAR COOKIES

¼ cup unsalted butter
¼ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 egg
3 tablespoons milk
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream butter, shortening, and sugar. Add orange peel and vanilla extract. Add egg and milk. Sift flour, baking soda, salt, and cream of tartar and add to the creamed mixture. Mix well. Roll into 1-inch balls and roll the balls in sugar. Arrange the balls 1½ -inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Flatten the balls gently with a small glass. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes or until very light golden brown.

We farm 150 acres and milk 42 Holsteins (38 of which are red and white). My husband's goal is to have the entire herd red and white in another couple of years. All the kids help in the barn. They take turns bedding the cows, sweeping feed alleys, and cleaning cobwebs and pipelines when the inspectors are due.

In the summer, unloading hay is a real family effort. We love to bake these cookies by the bucketful and keep them in the milkhouse for hungry workers. The orange peel adds just the right flavor to make them special.

DARK RICH CHOCOLATE COOKIES

1 cup shortening
4 1-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
12-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate chips

Melt shortening and unsweetened chocolate together in a saucepan. Cool 10 minutes. Stir in the brown sugar. Beat in the eggs, vanilla, and buttermilk or sour milk.

Sift together dry ingredients and add to chocolate mixture. Stir in chocolate chips. The dough will have the consistency of a cake batter. Drop from teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees about 10 minutes.

These cookies are very good just plain; however, at Christmas time, I frost them with Mocha frosting and sprinkle the tops with colored red or green sugar decorations.

Mocha Frosting

½ cup butter
4 tablespoons cocoa
Dash salt

Beat in 4 to 5 cups confectioners' sugar

2 teaspoons vanilla
6 tablespoons milk that has been heated enough to dissolve the added 4 teaspoons instant coffee powder.

The amount of confectioners' sugar will vary according to desired spreading consistency. I make my frosting rather stiff so the cookies will not stick together when stored.

Each year at Christmas, I make several kinds of cookies and give away 25 to 30 cookie plates to friends, neighbors, and family. This chocolate cookie is one that everyone looks forward to receiving and disappears first.

My husband and I live on the 60-acre farm in Fulton County, which has been in my family since 1934. We lease the acreage to a neighboring farmer who grows grain and hay crops. We take pride in maintaining the old barn that was post and beam constructed in 1901. The huge wooden timbers and hand hewed wooden pegs are truly a work of art.

nation's economies, exporting through Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP), the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), and how in the competition for beverage consumption, that milk compares favorably to fruit juices and carbonated beverages.

She said that milk costs about 2 cents per ounce, while fruit juices range from 4 cents to a nickle, and sodas are about 3 cents per ounce.

Weidler's adult audience speech focused on the myriad of new technologies available to modern farmers and the how it has allowed dramatic increases in productivity.

She ended with the however that ultimately no technology will ever be able to replace the individual who must take responsibility for learning and being able to apply all of the technology to make it work to produce food.

Schadler said that she was very impressed with the content and delivery of each speech, and that she couldn't remember ever hearing three speeches by princess contestants that were all well done and appropriate and that conveyed the importance and complexity of the industry.

Following a review of their year serving as the Lebanon County dairy promotion royalty by Finnicle, Blouch and Bashore, the judges selection for princesses were announced, and the crowning was done.

Sponsors and supporters of the program and event were acknowledged, and then the entire group was invited to make-your-own ice cream sundaes.

ICE CREAM PIZZA

Oreo cookies
½ cup butter
Baking chocolate
1 cup confectioners' sugar
¼ cup chopped nuts
3 egg yolks
3 egg whites
½ gallon ice cream

Crush ⅔ package Oreo cookies and add butter. Press into two 9-inch round pans.

Melt together melted butter and 1 square of baking chocolate. Add confectioners' sugar, chopped nuts, 3 well-beaten egg yolks, then fold in 3 stiffly beaten egg whites.

Pour mixture on top of Oreo crust and freeze. Spread ½ gallon ice cream over it. Garnish with any toppings of your choice, such as crushed Oreos, ice cream topping, or whatever you desire.

We live on a dairy farm and milk about 30 cows. We have eight horses and one pony.

I enjoy working out in the fields.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM BARS

¼ cup cocoa
¼ cup sugar
1½ cups milk
6 eggs, separated
1⅓ cups sugar
2 cups cream
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla

In saucepan, scald cocoa, ¼ cup sugar, and milk. Add well beaten egg yolks and remaining sugar. Cook until thickened. Cool.

Beat egg whites and cream. Fold into cooked mixture with salt and vanilla. Pour into crust.

Crust Recipe

2 cups graham cracker crumbs
½ cup butter, melted
¼ cup sugar

Mix until crumbly. Pack half of crumbs in bottom of 9x13-inch pan. Add cream mixture. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Cover and freeze overnight. Cut into bars.

This is a favorite summertime treat. I got the recipe from a friend.

We have a 15-month-old son, Lawrence. He likes animals and the great outdoors. We don't live on a farm, but we hope to someday.

CHEESE LOAF

3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups grated cheese
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Combine flour, baking powder, salt, and cheese in large bowl. Stir thoroughly. Add milk and melted butter to form soft dough. Put in greased loaf pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 35-40 minutes. Remove and cool.

We are a family of three living in a rural agricultural area of Northampton County. We are fortunate to still see cornfields when we look out our windows. Many of the area farms are now developed.

I am a supervisor in a school in New Jersey. My husband Don is retired and buys and sells antique tractors, especially Olivers. Our son Kristopher is eight years old and in second grade. He enjoys collecting action figures. Kristopher plays coach-pitch and will play soccer.

CRACKER PUDDING

1 quart milk
2 or 3 eggs, separated
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup coconut
1 cup cracker crumbs (saltines or graham or combination)

Beat egg yolks well and add to milk in saucepan. Scald. Stir in sugar and cracker crumbs and cook over medium heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and coconut. Beat egg whites until thick and add 3 or 4 tablespoons sugar and beat until stiff. Spread on hot pudding and bake at 350 degrees until lightly browned. If preferred, beat egg whites and fold into pudding after it is cooked.

This was one of our favorite desserts when I was growing up. It's best with lightly browned meringue. Jacob and I live on a dairy farm and we have six children so we get to use plenty of dairy products.

BANANA PUDDING

2 boxes vanilla pudding
4 cups milk
2 cups whipped cream topping, save ½ cup for topping
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups graham cracker crumbs, save ¼ cup for topping
4 bananas, sliced

Combine pudding and milk. Stir until smooth. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and cool. Add whipped topping, sugar, vanilla, bananas, and graham cracker crumbs. Combine ingredients well and pour into serving dish. Spread half cup whipped topping on mixture and garnish with ¼ cup crumbs. Makes 6-8 servings.

My husband Glen and I live on a dairy farm. We have five children, Bethany, 12; Clark, 11; Matthew, 6; Tyler, 3; and Jeffrey, 2. We enjoy life on the farm.

TEA SCONES

2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons cold butter
¼ cup golden raisins
¼ cup dark raisins or dried cranberries
½ cup buttermilk
1 large egg
1 tablespoon milk
1 tablespoon sugar

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Lightly grease a large baking sheet or cover with foil. In a large bowl, combine dry ingredients. Cut in butter until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Mix in the raisins with a fork.

In a cup, beat together the buttermilk and egg, then add flour mixture. Mix lightly with a fork until the mixture clings together and forms a ball of soft dough. Turn the dough onto a lightly floured surface and knead gently, turning 5 or 6 times.

With a floured rolling pin, roll dough to one-half-inch thickness. Cut dough into rounds with a floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. Place the scones, one-inch apart, on greased baking sheet. Pat dough scrapes together, reroll, and cut out more scones. Lightly brush tops of scones with milk and sprinkle with sugar.

Bake scones 10 to 12 minutes or until they are golden brown. Serve with jam, butter, or my favorite—clotted cream. Makes approximately 15 scones.

These freeze well, so they can be made a day or two before you have a tea or if you want to give as gifts.

These scones are lovely and moist. I've given them as gifts and have donated them in tea baskets for benefit auctions. Those who've received them often ask for the recipe. One lady told me that other scones that she has eaten were dry, but these are nice and moist and she wanted to make them for her office. I told her that buttermilk was used along with butter (the real dairy products). That's what makes the difference!

My husband John, and I have four children, ages 11 to 2. My two boys previously attended Christian school, but this year I decided to try homeschooling them for their fifth and first grades. I have enjoyed the close comraderie we've developed. Next year? Still thinking about it!

Our two little girls, ages 5 and 2, are sweethearts and we love them all very much. Our latest addition to the family last year was 13 peeps. My oldest son has most of the responsibility of taking care of the hens, but the children have really responded to having the chickens. They love collecting eggs and "talking" to chickens. When they were peeps, I had to explain to my 4-year-old Marie that chickens didn't need bubble baths or being dressed up!

FANTASTIC CHEESE BALL

8-ounces sharp cheddar cheese, shredded
16-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 large package whipped cream cheese with chives
2 tablespoons butter, softened

Whip together and refrigerate. Can be shaped into two balls. Roll in cracker crumbs or chopped nuts (I prefer pecans).

If you do not need two cheese balls, wrap one in foil and freeze. Serve later.

Here is a fantastic cheese ball recipe that is a big hit with my family and to all our guests that I have served it to.

This summer I will be married to my best friend, Mike, for 10 wonderful years.

We have been blessed with three healthy, happy, and active boys. Matt just turned 8 years old; Tim is 6½ years; and Mark is almost 5 years old. As you can probably guess, there is never a dull moment around our home.

We live just south of Manheim on a dairy farm, where there is always some activity going on.

As a family, we enjoy going for bike rides (on a bike/hike trail close to our home), fishing at a nearby stream, and spending time with family and friends.

CHOCOLATE REVEL BARS

1 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups ground oats
12-ounces chocolate chips
14-ounce can condensed milk
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup nuts
2 teaspoons vanilla

Cream 1 cup butter and brown sugar. Add eggs and 2 teaspoons vanilla. Combine flour, baking soda, and 1 teaspoon salt, and oatmeal. Add to eggs and butter mixture and stir until creamy. For filling: combine chocolate chips, milk, 2 tablespoons butter, and ½ teaspoon salt in double boiler. Stir over medium heat until melted. Add nuts and 2 teaspoons vanilla. Spread two-thirds oatmeal batter in a greased 9x13-inch pan. Cover with chocolate filling. Spread remaining oatmeal batter on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

EASY SPAGHETTI

1 tablespoon salad oil
½ cup chopped onion
1 pound ground beef
1 quart spaghetti sauce
1½ cups water
6-ounces uncooked spaghetti
½ -pound Velveeta cheese
½ cup parmesan cheese

Fry ground beef and onion in oil until browned. Stir in spaghetti sauce and water and bring to a boil. Breat the spaghetti into pieces and add to the sauce. Cover and simmer for 20 to 25 minutes or until spaghetti is tender. Stir often. Add cheese and stir until melted.

This quick and easy one-dish meal is my family's favorite and I make it often. I like to serve it with garlic bread hot from the oven and a tossed salad for a quick easy meal on those hectic days when time is at a premium.

My husband and I, and our three children, ages 9, 7, and 5, grow two-acres of produce to sell at our roadside stand and I operate a small bakery. Our days are filled to the brim leaving little time for cooking so I rely on recipes like this one to feed my family.

Hello, from our southern Lancaster County dairy farm. I find it hard to believe we are entering the busy summer already!

Kristin, who will be three in July, and Jenica, 17 months old, really enjoy playing outside. We usually find them playing with our dog, Molly, swinging or digging in the sandbox. They also like to sit in the milking parlor when Daddy is milking the cows. There's so much excitement outside, why be in the house? Wishing you a safe and enjoyable summer!

SHORTCAKE

2 cups flour
1½ tablespoon sugar
⅓ cup butter
1 egg
½ cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
Pinch salt

Bake in 9-inch pie dish at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until top is slightly brown and toothpick comes out clean.

I like this shortcake with strawberries or other fresh fruit—a little sugar and milk.

TURKEY CORN CHOWDER

1 boneless, skinless turkey thigh, cut into ¼ -½ -inch pieces
1 medium onion
1 rib celery
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup corn, canned or frozen
10¾ -ounce can condensed mushroom soup
1 cup very fine noodles
2 cups milk
¾ -ounce package dry turkey gravy
Salt and pepper to taste

Using a 4- or 5-quart Dutch oven, saute turkey, onion, and celery in butter until turkey is fully cooked. Add corn, stir. Warm milk in microwave for approximately 2 minutes; set aside. Add mushroom soup to pot and mix. Add warmed milk, stirring. Mix in dry gravy. Add noodles. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Cover and simmer on low heat for 30 minutes. Enjoy!

This is a simple and inexpensive meal to make. Also, varieties in quantities and ingredients can easily be made. For example: shredded cheese and crumbled bacon may be added at the table, or whatever your family prefers.

AS an added bonus, my nearly four-year-old just loves this recipe, especially when she can break saltines in a zipper bag and then add them to her bowl.

My daughter, Shellbi, will be four in August. She enjoys the outdoors; snow and ice skating in the winter and in the summer, it's water activities and exploring. My husband, Steve, a lifetime farmer, works with his father on the farm, raising broilers and steers. Since the birth of our daughter, I'm enjoying the privilege of being a stay home "Mommy" and wife.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

8-ounces elbow macaroni
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk
1½ cups grated American cheese
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cups fresh bread crumbs
½ teaspoon paprika

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Cook macaroni according to package directions.

While macaroni is cooking, melt butter in a 3-quart saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour and seasonings. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and bubbly; remove from heat. Gradually add milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in cheese. Cook, stirring occasionally, until cheese is melted.

Drain macaroni. Genlty stir macaroni into cheese sauce. Pour into greased 1½ -quart casserole. Melt butter; add bread crumbs and paprika. Sprinkle over top. Bake uncovered 20-25 minutes or until bubbly.

Cooking tips: Add extra pep to this favorite recipe by using pizza-flavored or jalpeno pepper cheese. For lighter macaroni and cheese: Decrease butter to ½ -2 tablespoons, use skim milk, and reduced-fat cheese.

MASHED POTATO CASSEROLE

8 large potatoes
8 ounces cream cheese
16 ounces sour cream
¼ -½ cup milk
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook peeled potatoes in salted water until soft. Drain water. Mash potatoes with cream cheese and sour cream. Add enough milk to reach desired consistency. Add salt and pepper.

Place in buttered cassarole dish and sprinkle with shredded cheese. You can also pour melted butter over it if desired.

Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees or until cheese is melted and bubbly. This can be made ahead and refrigerated. Allow extra time for baking and cover for first half of baking.

Time does speed by. It is hard to believe June is almost here again.

My husband, Dick, and I are still excavating. It has been another busy spring and we are thankful for God's supply.

We are wondering what another year will bring, especially with Y2K looming, but are trusting God will see us through whatever comes.

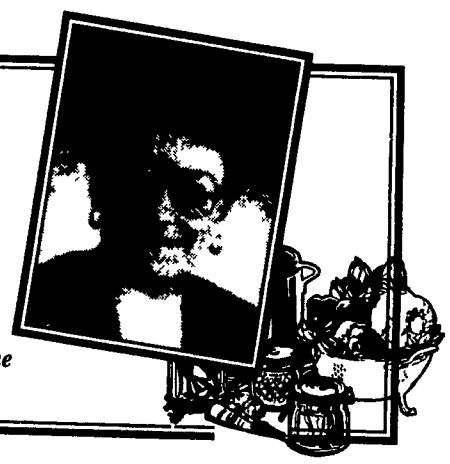
Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



This time of year everyone is anxious to get outside, bask in the warm sunshine, and celebrate the beginning of the summer season by firing up the grill.

Hamburgers continue to be an all time favorite for grilling, since they're quick, economical and downright delicious! But there are certain facts about cooking hamburgers you should know before you proceed.

Undercooked hamburgers can contain a dangerous type of bacteria, E. coli 0157:H7, that can lead to serious illness and even death, especially in young children and the elderly. You can't see it, smell it, or taste it. To destroy the bacteria, hamburgers should be cooked until they are brown in the middle with no pink juices or to 160°F in the middle using a thermometer.

So whether you're using a hibachi or a deluxe gas grill, an increased awareness of safe handling practices is an essential ingredient at your cookout. Use these simple guidelines to keep your outdoor meal safe.

Shopping: At the market, choose packages of ground meat that are cold and tightly wrapped. Buy your meat last and make grocery shopping the last errand on your list.

When you get home, put your meat in the refrigerator right away. Make sure that juices from raw meat do not drip on other foods in the refrigerator. If you're not using the meat for 1-2 days, go ahead and freeze it. (Defrost ground beef in the refrigerator, not on the kitchen counter to prevent bacterial growth). Allow approximately 24 hours to defrost to a 1 to 1-1/2" thick package).

Picnics: When carrying meat, poultry or salads away from home, pack them in an insulated cooler with a cold source to minimize bacterial growth. You can even freeze your hamburger patties before placing them in the cooler. Keep the cooler in the shade and avoid opening the lid too often. You may want to use a separate cooler for the beverages since it is opened more frequently.

Preparing to cook: You've fixed up the grill, tied on your apron, and you're ready to begin cooking. Bring on the patties—but remember before, during and after cooking:

- Keep everything clean—wash hands, utensils, basting brushes and plates that come in contact with raw meat.
- Be sure to take a fresh plate out to the grill to hold the cooked food. Bacteria that may be in the juices of raw meat can spread to the cooked food if you reuse the plate. A clean spatula for removing cooked food from the grill is a good idea, too.

Grilling: Cook hamburgers until they are brown in the middle with no pink juices. Before you take a bite, check by cutting in the center. Brown in the middle doesn't have to mean dry in the middle. Here are some ways to keep your burgers moist:

- Add some cold water, stock or broth when mixing and seasoning your meat.
- Top them with some salsa or marinated vegetable relish to add moistness.
- Stuff your burgers with goat's cheese, mozzarella, blue cheese or a similar ingredient.

Serving: Serve the burgers as soon as they come off the grill. Burgers that sit around lose their juices and tend to dry out.

- From the time food is taken outside to when you begin putting away the leftovers, perishable food shouldn't sit outside for over 2 hours. And, if temperatures are over 85°F, reduce that time to one hour.

Clean-up: Be sure to put all leftovers in the refrigerator promptly.

- If you are coming home from a picnic, leftovers are OK to save if there is still ice in the cooler and the food didn't sit out at the picnic.

For questions about safe handling and preparation of meat and poultry, call the USDA toll free Meat and Poultry Hotline at 1-800-535-4555, Monday through Friday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. (EST) or your local County Cooperative Extension office.

Many American are currently using multiple drugs to manage a disease or condition. Food and drug interactions are commonly overlooked when new medications are prescribed. If these food and drug interactions remain undetected, serious reactions can occur.

Serious food and drug interactions can occur if drugs are taken with food, drugs are taken with nutrient supplements, drugs are taken with alcohol, more than one drug is producing an adverse reaction, and if a drug is causing nutrient depletion and is taken for long periods of time.

The status of almost every nutrient needed by the body can be affected by medication. Many drugs can have negative effect on an individual's nutritional status. Numerous commonly used drugs can reduce calcium, folate, and vitamin C levels in the body. If you are not getting enough of these nutrients through daily diet, this will be an important concern.

On the other hand, the foods we eat can also decrease a drug's absorption in the body. Certain foods may interfere with your drug's effectiveness.

Theophylline — a high intake of caffeinated beverages may increase drug side effects (nervousness, insomnia). Protein foods and charbroiled meats may decrease drug action time.

Haldol — a high intake of caffeinated beverages may decrease drug action.

Quinidine — Large amounts of fruit juice or vitamin C in the diet may increase this drug's effect.

Digoxin — a high fiber diet may reduce drug absorption. Natural licorice may cause decreased potassium levels in the body and drug toxicity.

Tylenol — a meal containing large amounts of breads and cereals may decrease drug absorption.

Macrobid or Macrodantin — Food intake may increase drug absorption.

Tagamet — Take with meals and or snacks.

Penicillin G, Penicillin V, Erthryomycin, Tetracycline — Food may decrease drug absorption.

Grisactin — A high fat meal may increase drug absorption.

Antihypertensive agents, diuretics — Natural licorice may cause sodium retention and complicate hypertension treatment.

Tetracycline — Milk and milk products may decrease drug absorption.

Lithium — A high salt diet may reduce the response to the drug.

Coumadin — Boiled or fried onions may increase the drug's activity. Broccoli, turnip greens, lettuce and cabbage may decrease the drug's activity.

It is important that any individual using medication take responsibility for their own health and well-being. This involves finding out the potential food and drug interactions associated with any medications you are taking. Your doctor, nurse, pharmacist, or dietician can supply this information.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Sizzlin' Steaks 4-H Club

The Sizzlin' Steaks 4-H Club met May 23 at Paolucci's.

Members discussed buying new shirts. Julie Stalter told the club about the livestock clinic in June. New members with steers were encouraged to attend this clinic.

President Amy Paolucci thanked the news reporters for getting news articles written and in the paper. Julie talked to the club about the sponsorship form. The forms were passed out to each member.

Brad Fisher and May walked their steers. Refreshments were served by Brad.

The next meeting is June 13 at Paolucci's. Brian Belcher will be bringing refreshments and he and Amy will be doing demonstrations.

North Jackson Ag 4-H Club

The North Jackson Ag Club conducted a meeting May 8 at the home of leaders Joe and Sandy Pavelski.

Reports were given by Abby Onyon and the dairy judging contest at Delaware Valley, Jonathan Onyon on the trip to the fish hatchery, and Lloyd Pease on requirements for livestock members.

Discussions were held on the following: Morrisville College trip for dairy members, dairy and horse camps, Camp Brule, shooting sports fun day, fishing and a picnic at Lackawanna State Park, the trip to Philadelphia, and the fundraisers that will be held at horse shows.

Members were also reminded that the deadline for project selection is June 1.

Demonstrations were given by Holly Carey on cross-stitching, Abby Onyon on diseases in chickens, and Beth Giangrieco on food labels.

The next meeting will be June 5 at the Onyon home. Demonstrations will be given by Jonathan Onyon, Katie Onyon, Andrew Onyon, Aaron Onyon, and Tim Carey.

Refreshments were provided by the Giangrieco and Pavelski families and cakes were provided by cake project members.

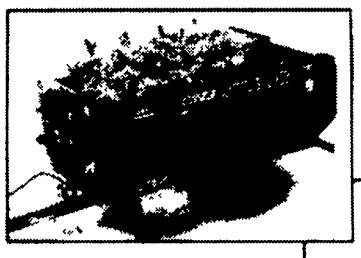
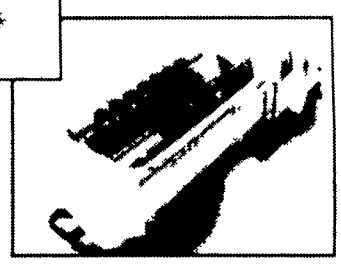
TIP THE SCALES WITH HEAVYWEIGHT MIXERS THAT ARE SOFT ON FEED

Pound for pound, you won't find a more powerful or gentle mixer than the Series IV by Roto-Mix®. Its extra heft easily blends batch after batch of feed while its patented rotor design and tumbling action mix all ingredients without damage. Plus, a special hay pan keeps chunks of hay out of the chamber until they're cut by the auger knives. Transmission, PTO and drive line loads are reduced so the Series IV needs less horsepower and maintenance.



The Series IV is available in trailer, truck and stationary units with mixing capacities from 80 to 520 cu. ft.



ROTO-MIX

A Division of J-STAR Industries, Inc.

For larger operations, there's the super heavyweight Roto-Mix Commercial line with mixing capacities from 420 to 900 cu. ft. Call today and arrange for a demo. You'll see Roto-Mix really tips the scales in your favor.

Hesston Forage Harvesters — Model 7155S

The secret to low-cost forage harvesting.

It's no big secret that whole-stalk corn silage produces 40 to 50% more digestible energy over corn harvested as grain

The big secret is how economically and efficiently you can harvest it with a Hesston® 7155S Forage Harvester

Designed for the average-sized livestock producer, this small machine packs a big punch Its "straight-thru crop-flow" design puts more power into cutting, less into handling the crop That means greater field efficiency year after year.

The 7155S easily handles tractor PTOs from 90 to 175 hp, and is available with 2-row corn silage header or 6-foot-wide hay pickup

Electro-hydraulic remote control puts harvesting functions at your fingertips, and the 1,000 rpm drive assures big capacity.

This season, make silage more efficiently and economically – with a new Hesston 7155S.

Bill and Kim Cuculis with family have worked hard to be able to farm.

HOT COUNTRY HAM DIP

16-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup sour cream
1 cup chopped, cooked country ham
¼ cup finely minced onions
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup chopped pecans
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Wheatsworth crackers

In a small bowl, combine cream cheese, sour cream, ham, onion, and garlic powder. Place in a 9x13-inch glass baking dish. Saute butter, pecans, and Worcestershire sauce. Sprinkle over mixture in baking dish. Refrigerate until serving time. At serving time, bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Serve with crackers.

My husband Bill and I are proud to be raising our family on a farm in southern York County. We have three children, Luke, 9; Mitchell, 7; Samantha, 3; and are expecting our fourth child in August.

Bill farms about 80 acres of corn, soybeans, and wheat in southern York County and northern Harford County, Md. Although not born and raised on a farm, Bill says he cannot remember a time when he didn't love farming or the idea of being a farmer. At the age of 14, he began working on neighboring dairy farms in Harford County, Md. For more than 20 years, he has worked hard and saved to buy the machinery and land to farm. His love for farming is very strong and he would be thrilled to farm full time, but he realizes we can only afford for him to farm part time for now.

My love of agriculture stems from my father, Lynn Woody, who taught agriculture education in Rockbridge, Va., for more than 30 years. I grew up on a small farm, following my dad around while he took care of his livestock and gardens.

From our backgrounds, Bill and I understand the beauty of being raised on a farm and we are very appreciative of the opportunity to have even a small farm to provide what we know to be the best for our family.

QUICK COFFEE CAKE

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint sour cream
3 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda

Topping and middle:
1 cup brown sugar
4 teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup chopped nuts

Cream butter, sugar, eggs, and vanilla. Add sour cream and dry ingredients. Mix well. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Put half of cake batter in 13x9-inch pan. Sprinkle with half cinnamon and sugar mixture. Spread remaining half of batter in pan. Sprinkle with remaining half of sugar and cinnamon mixture. Put into oven and reduce heat to 300 degrees. Bake one hour.

My husband, Kevin, and I farm with my brother Rich Hill in Lebanon County. We milk approximately 65 Jersey, Brown Swiss, and Holstein cows.

We have two children, Kyle, 3, and Allison, 15 months, who love to help on the farm.

PEANUT BUSTER DESSERT

First Layer:
½ cup butter
d1 cup flour

Mix together and add ⅔ cup cocktail peanuts. Spread into a 9x13-inch glass pan. Bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool.

Second Layer:
⅓ cup peanut butter
8-ounces cream cheese
1 cup powdered sugar
2 cups whipped cream topping

Blend together with mixer and spread on cooled crust.

Third Layer:
1 package vanilla instant pudding
1 package chocolate instant pudding
3 cups milk (2 %)

Whip together for 5 minutes. Spread onto second layer.

Fourth Layer:
3 cups whipped cream topping

Garnish with chopped peanuts or grated chocolate bar. Store in refrigerator.

Peanut Buster Dessert is a family favorite at our house. I originally got the recipe from my husband's stepmom. We share a family farm and raise beef cattle. We also grow pumpkins, gourds, squash, and other vegetables to sell at our local farmer's market in Mars.

I enjoy cooking, baking, and canning. I have won a few awards at our Butler County Fair and State Farm Show for baked goods and canned goods in the past couple years. My most exciting award was winning second place in the Pennsylvania Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest held in Harrisburg at the 1998 Pa. Farm Show.

My husband and I have a 6-year-old daughter, Sarah, who loves living in the country and helping with farm work. She will be in 4-H soon.

Hope readers enjoy this recipe. I take this dessert to picnics and parties. It is a big hit and there are no leftovers. I always take the recipes with me because everyone asks for it.

FROZEN CHEESECAKE

8 ounces cream cheese
3 eggs, separated
½ pint whipping cream
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
9-inch graham cracker pie crust

Take small bowl and beat egg whites, then beat the whipping cream and put the two together in a large bowl.

Mix egg yolks, sugar, vanilla, and cream cheese in a bowl and beat until smooth. Fold in egg whites and cream mixture. Pour in a 9-inch graham cracker pie crust shell and freeze.

This recipe can be made days ahead and frozen. Take out of freezer ½ hour to 45 minutes before serving.

Egg beaters could be used instead of eggs.

This recipe is for the dairy contest. IT is very good.

CREAM PUFFS

½ cup butter
1 cup flour
1 cup water
4 eggs

Heat water and butter to boiling point. Add flour all at once to boiling mixture. Stir vigorously until mixture leaves sides of pan and forms a smooth ball. Remove from stove and cool about one minute. While still hot, add eggs one at a time and beat well after each egg. Drop from a tablespoon onto greased cookie sheet 2 inches apart. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 400 degrees for 15 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet and cool. When cold, cut with sharp knife and fill with cream filling or vanilla ice cream. Top with chocolate sauce.

Cream Filling:
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 slightly beaten egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅓ cup flour or 3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons butter

Combine sugar, flour, and salt, gradually stir in milk. Cook and stir until mixture thickens and boils, cook and stir 2 or 3 minutes. Stir a little hot mixture into egg yolks, return to hot mixture. Stirring constantly, bring just to boiling. Remove from stove and add vanilla and butter. Cover surface with waxed paper, cool, beat smooth.

Chocolate Sauce:
6-ounces evaporated milk
1 cup semisweet chocolate

Combine semisweet chocolate and evaporated milk together and cook over medium heat until blended and comes to a boil, lower heat and cook slowly until thick 3-5 minutes. Cool, stirring occasionally, then top cream puffs with chocolate sauce.

Our farm is located on the eastern side of Berks County and is called E&N Shaynah Kee Farm. Shaynah Kee in Pennsylvania Dutch means nice cows. We farm 230 acres and milk 55 cows. We raise all our young stock for replacements and marketing steers. We have been farming the property since 1983 and purchased the property from Elizabeth's parents in 1986. Dairy of Distinction was awarded in 1998. Our family consists of Noel, Elizabeth, Sherry, Kris, and Sheila Schlegel. Sherry, 27,. is a travel agent and is married to David Kutz. Kris, 23, is a graphic designer, and works for a local newspaper. Sheila, 19, is a sophomore at Kutztown University and is employed on the farm. We would like to say a big thank you to our daughters for the dedicated hours they have given to the family farm over their growing up years.

While Rebuilding, Institutional Orchard Faces Pest Control Challenges

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — One of the country's last "institution" farms has a major orchard renovation, now in the eighth year of a 10-year plan, and continues to thrive.

While many institution-type farms have disappeared, and schools such as Milton Hershey have cut back on some aspects of the farm (in Hershey's case, the former dairy farm), Masonic Homes' Orchard continues to thrive.

In many cases, they have learned to rebuild on their existing fruit stock, according to Tad Kuntz, orchard supervisor.

Kuntz spoke about renovations to Masonic Homes' Orchard at a Lancaster/York Fruit Growers' Twilight Meeting on a wet, rainy early May night, in which about 50 growers and agri-industry representatives attended.

"This is one of the last institutional farms there is," said Kuntz. "There are not many of these around anymore."

Kuntz supervises 100 acres of the Masonic Homes, including 86 devoted to tree fruit, the rest to pumpkins, sweet corn, and other vegetables. Eighty percent of the items sold at the market, located on the farm, are grown there. The remainder are sold to local grocery stores.

Masonic Homes was established in 1910 by the Masons of Pennsylvania as a retirement community. Seven farms joined together and were purchased for the retirement community.

At the turn of the century, fruit trees had already been planted. When Kuntz arrived as supervisor eight years ago, several original trees still stood.

With Increasing Competition, Retail Florist 'Occasion Oriented'

ANDY ANDREWS

READING (Berks Co.) — "We're with you at the end," said Tom Heck, proprietor of Heck Brothers Florist, Inc., based here. "We're with you start to finish."

Heck has learned over the years to position his "occasion-oriented" florist business correctly. Instead of relying totally on fresh cut retail trade, he's decided to market consumer days for birthdays, anniversaries, and funerals.

"The industry is in a very competitive situation," Heck told more than 30 grade and high school teachers in mid-April at the Berks County Ag In The Classroom Teacher Seminar, which included tours of nurseries and florists.

When Heck began in the business in 1963, there were only a couple dozen retail florists in the Reading area. Today, retail florists number 72-75.

"Service and service and service are the primary differences in what we have to sell," he told the tour group.

Heck Brothers has been in business since 1907. Tom Heck came into the business in 1963 full-time when it was located in Wyomissing. In 1969, a store was built on Penn Avenue and Park Road. In 1990, an 8,000 square foot retail floor and modern design workroom were built on the east side of Reading, near Mount Penn.

In the years since, the industry has undergone a radical change, said Heck. The firm has changed from being heavily commercial aspect with fresh plants to marketing mostly for funerals, parties, and other type of "occasion-oriented" customers. Where once the store grew their own plants in greenhouses, those are things of the past — now the plants are all purchased. Silk plants are assembled in the shop.

In 1969, when the switchover occurred, it became "very difficult to make a living as a small retail grower," he said.

They sold the property at Penn Avenue and moved to the present location on Perkiomen Avenue east of Reading. Every cut flower and plant is purchased and sold in a 50-mile radius of the store.

Garden Week Tours

Garden Week Tours Benefit Restoration Projects

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — The oftentimes two-lane ribbon of highway that is Rt. 15 leading south toward this city is indicative of what is to come — flowers and more flowers.

Sprinkled in ditches and fields along the Virginia highway are wildflowers of many hues peppered with redbud trees in full bloom. Dogwood trees are also abundant. No wonder the state chose mid-April to celebrate Historic Garden Week.

Initiated in 1929 by the Garden Club of Virginia, Garden Week tours benefit the restoration of historic gardens and grounds throughout the commonwealth.

From the seashore to the Mountains, visitors were allowed to lift the latch of the garden gate and view more than 250 of Virginia's most outstanding houses, gardens and historic landmarks from April 17-24.

Next year's Historic Garden Week is scheduled for April 22-30. For more information, contact the Historic Garden Week headquarters staff, 12 E. Franklin St., Richmond, Va. 23219 or call (804) 644-7776.

Open on this particular day near Charlottesville is The Magruder Dent Rowing Center, the Virginia Rowing Association's Thomas Temple Allen Boathouse, which is set on 6-1/2 acres of land.

The natural beauty of the woods, water, and lawn has been thoughtfully enhanced by the creation of woodland, perennial and annual gardens. The gardens are designed, planted, and care for by Easter and Chris Martin.

It is home to the University of Virginia's men's and women's rowing crews and is also home to the community's Rivanna Rowing Club.

Before the Martins could begin the landscaping, curtains of kudzu, poison ivy, Oriental bittersweet and honeysuckle, catbriar and hundreds of mimosa seedlings had to be removed.

Today the site's trees are exceptional. There is willow, red and pin oaks, ash, tulip poplar, red and sugar maple, sassafras, holly, magnolia, beech, cedar, and pine. Among the shrubs are native viburnums, azalea, rhododendron, mountain laurel, spice bush, winterberry, beauty berry, and sweet shrub.

There are perennials, annuals, and bulbs bordering the boathouse, their hues changing with the seasons and colorfully announcing the six woodland gardens leading down to the launching dock. Of particular interest are the abundant early, mid-season and late daffodils, many dating back from the mid-1700s.

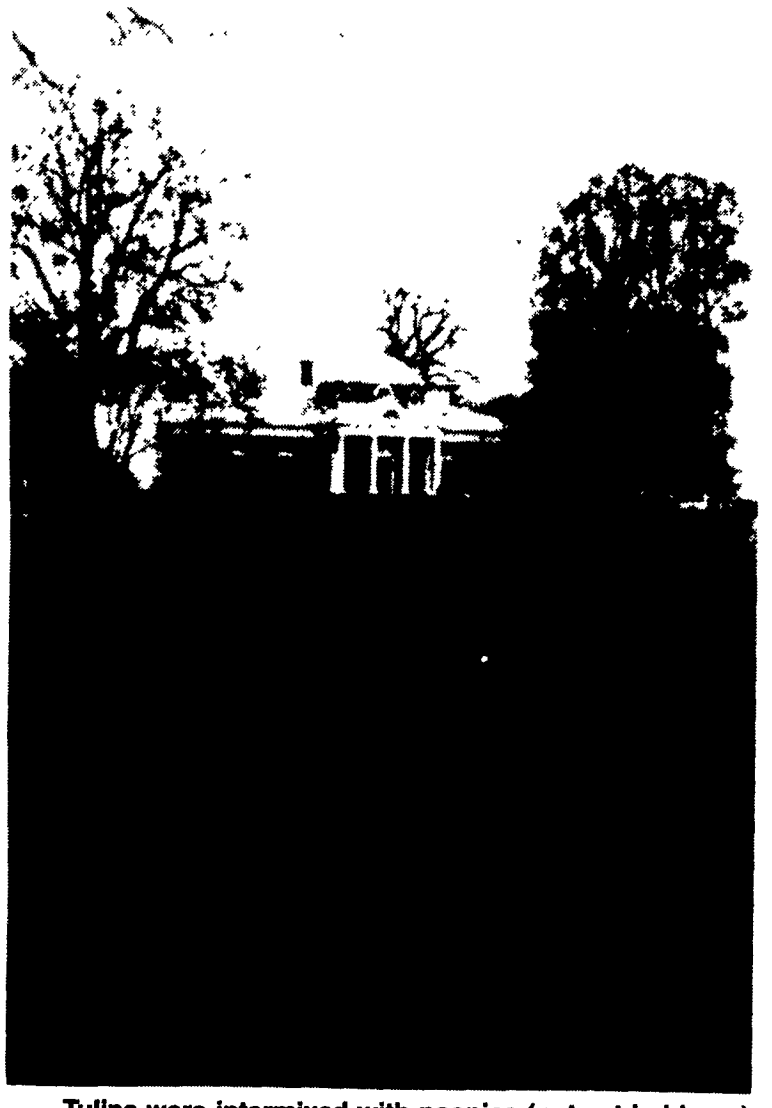
Down the road one finds that if friendly ghosts exist they must do so at The Poist House and Gardens where everything has meaning and a strong Southern heritage is evident. The Rev. and Mrs. David Poist, owners, were deeply drawn to this Federal-era home, built c.1805 on 150-acres.

The grounds are home to magnificent trees — pecan, black walnut, oak, tulip poplar, sycamore, maple and a variety of fruit trees. There are many perennials and shrubs, including a row of 15-foot high American boxwoods. The herb garden surrounds a sundial and there is an enclosed vegetable garden, protected from deer, rabbits and groundhogs, along with a dirt-floored smoke house.

At the Polaris Farm, a working horse farm, the site of the usual farmhouse, with brick walls and a slate roof, was chosen by the late Charles F. Gillette, one of Virginia's preeminent landscape architects. The house, designed by the late Thomas Craven, is furnished with many fine antiques.

Owner Mrs. Magruder Dent, Jr. and her late husband, for whom the Magruder Dent Rowing Center was named, have a colorful mixture of perennials, annuals, and vegetables arranged with an artist's sense and providing interest from season to season.

Visitors to Thomas Jefferson's Monticello found tulips to be the flower of the moment in mid-April. The roundabout flower walk, shown here, defines the perimeter of the leveled, oval-shaped West Lawn. The "smooth level" lawn was a favorite playground for the children, although the earliest images of the West Front of Monticello reveal a weedy, disheveled surface.



Tulips were intermixed with peonies (not yet in bloom) in front of Thomas Jefferson's Monticello. The flower gardens virtually disappeared after Jefferson's death in 1826; however, they were revived and restored by The Garden Club of Virginia between 1939 and 1941.

These are only a few of the gardens on the tour, but another of the week's highlights is a talk by Peter J. Hatch, Monticello's director of gardens and grounds since 1977. The author of several books on the gardens of Monticello, he is responsible for the care, restoration, and interpretation of Jefferson's Monticello landscape.

He is an authority on Jefferson's gardening interests and on the history of plants in American gardens.

Hatch said he believes Jefferson's interest in gardening arose from "a wide-eyed curiosity about the natural world" and that "he chose the site for Monticello because of its sweeping prospects of the Piedmont Virginia countryside and intimacy with the busy 'workhouse of nature.'"

"The landscape was his 'workhouse' and the gardens at Monticelo an experimental laboratory. Jefferson approached natural history as a scientist. He was an experimenter who aspired to observe and define seemingly all the natural phenomena 'fabricated at our feet' — whether the wind direction, the blooming dates of wildflowers, or the life cycle of a destructive insect," according to Hatch.

Hatch said "But it was through gardening that he was able to participate in the motions of this physical world — grafting his peach wood or sowing cabbages with his granddaughters. It was through horticulture that his experiments bore fruit, that his landscape assumed shape and form and color, that the unending drama of the natural world began to unfold under his personal direction."

In his book, "The Gardens of Thomas Jefferson's Monticello," Hatch includes the following statement from Jefferson to Charles Willson Peale in 1811: "I have often thought that if heaven had given me a choice of my positions and calling, it would have been on a rich spot of earth, well watered and near a good market for the productions of the garden. No occupation is so delightful to me as the culture of the earth, and no culture comparable to that of the garden. Such a variety of subjects, someone always coming to perfection, the failure of one thing repaired by the success of another, and instead of one harvest a continued one through the year. Under a total want of demand except for our family table, I am still devoted to the garden.

But though an old man, I am but a young gardener."

Of Jefferson, Hatch said, "Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States, author of the Declaration of Independence, literate in seven languages, was indeed 'a young gardener.' When he said, 'there is not sprig of grass that shoots uninteresting to me,' or when in his garden diary Jefferson noted the appearance of a prickly poppy flower in July and remarked, 'this is the 4th this year,' his enthusiasm reflected not so much with horticultural wizardry as an almost childlike joy in the rhythms of planting, growth, and harvest.

Orchard Faces Pest Control Challenges

Right away, the orchard anager knew that many trees ould have to be replaced. Kuntz has help from John ndrews, who helps run the ore, and part-time help from gh school students to pick veet cherries and strawber-es, harvest peaches, and select d sort the apples.

"They help harvest apples in the fall," Kuntz said. "I pick a lot of them myself."

When Kuntz began, much of the orchard contained standard trees, 65-70 years old, with some "newer" ones planted in the 1970s. In addition, the Masonic Homes wanted the orchards placed back in shape, while at the same time scaling back the labor force from four to two full-time workers. This was all part of a 10-year plan to revitalize the orchard. The plan, in its eighth year, will eventually include some area in the center of an old apple orchard replanted with peaches.

Deer damage was evident on this Cortland apple tree on M7 rootstock.

Tour group members climb into a hay wagon to tour Masonic Homes Orchards in May.

"There are more deer here than on the battlefield of Gettysburg," Kuntz, in center with white baseball cap, told the tour group. Eventually, to stem deer damage, the orchard plans to install invisible fence and use dogs to patrol the perimeters.

Newer apple trees will include M-26 and Mark root stock.

In the meantime, the Masonic Homes Orchard has to deal with crops destroyed by deer, pests such as groundhogs, and other challenges.

The deer are abated using a six-wire electrical fence.

However, despite using a wide variety of tactics, the orchard must find new ways to deal with the protected game area, which encompasses about 2,000 acres nearby and adjoining the Pennsylvania State Police training academy, which includes many unhunted acres.

"There are more deer here than on the battlefield of Gettysburg," Kuntz told the tour group.

Eventually, to stem deer damage, the orchard plans to install an invisible fence and use dogs to patrol the perimeters.

Kuntz recalls one evening where new peach trees were planted and the deer "got in here one or two nights and wiped them out," he said.

Also, groundhogs pose a challenge. "They're hard to shoot," said Kuntz. "It's hard to find a safe direction to shoot."

The orchard manager said that people always visit the orchards, so controlling the groundhog population, which can cause extensive crop damage, is "almost impossible."

Using dogs and electric fence is a challenge because of insurance liabilities. Archery hunting for employees is allowed, but only in a few designated areas, making a large kill impossible.

Kuntz said the cost for installing the fence, including chargers and collar on 25 acres, but not including labor, dogs, vet bills, and food, is about $1,600.

By next growing season, the orchard will be home to 45 acres and 45 varieties of apples, mostly fresh varieties, including McIntosh, Gala, Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Mutsu, Fuju, Braeburn, Empire, Jonagold, Smokehouse, Stayman, and Granny Smith.

Peaches will include Red Haven, Garnet Beauty, Flaming Fury, Sun High, Loring, Redskin, Blake, and Elber. Other early varieties include Snow King, Snow Giant, and others.

The orchard receives about 60 percent of its entire net profit from peaches and strawberries. Peaches number 25 acres, and strawberries, five.

Kuntz, whose family grows 600 acres of apples in Adams County, is a Delaware Valley College graduate.

Tree staking is mostly wood, though some include iron posts. Several iron posts include Spur Red Delicious on 7 root stock, planted on land which Kuntz calls "one of the highest parts in Lancaster County." The orchard uses plastic chain ties.

The ridge is rocky, but it provides a good summit on which to grow apples.

Kuntz uses bee colonies on a nearby plot. An outside contractor takes care of them to help with pollination and to collect honey for sale in the market.

The orchard is open all year, May through December, on Monday-Friday from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m.-4 p.m., and Sunday from noon-4 p.m. (Sunday hours are for June-August only).

From January through April the farm market is open Monday-Friday 11 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m.-1 p.m., and is closed Sunday.

Other items are for sale at the store, including gift boxes, preserves, sauces, dressings, syrups, honey, baking mixes, cider bags, fruit butters, and other items, many of which can be obtained with mail order.

For more information, contact Kuntz at the orchard in Elizabethtown, (717) 361-4520.

Donio Receives Outstanding Grower Honor

CLAYTON, N.J. — The 1999 Outstanding Fruit Grower Award was presented to Grower Dennis Donio of Hammonton, N.J. Donio and his wife Nancy are owners of Donio Farms, a 425-acre fruit and vegetable farm.

Dennis's farm is a model farming operation utilizing the latest production and marketing technology. Primarily producing peaches for both the wholesale and retail market, Donio's famous red label Donio Farms and the Donio Produce Top Crop label are well known to buyers of quality fruit. Dennis and Nancy also own Pete's Market on the White Horse Pike near Elm.

Donio, longtime participant in the Rutgers Cooperative Extension IPM Program, has been an innovator and leader in many growing practices including trickle irrigation, sod middles with hard fescue, chemical weed control, new varieties and plasticulture strawberry production. For more than 25 years it has been the meeting place for many twilight and evening fruit meetings in the Hammonton area. It has served as site for many farm meetings and tours.

Donio has a long history of service to his community and agriculture, including the fruit industry. He is president and a member of the Camden County Agriculture Development Board. For almost 30 years he has been a member of the board of directors of the Camden County Board of Agriculture. He is a past president and currently vice president. Dennis has been active on many activities of the CCBA and has been instrumental in providing advice and assistance of all types to Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Camden County. He is a former member of the Camden County Soil Conservation District.

Donio is past president and a member of the Cook College board of managers at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station. He is a member of the Rutgers Research and Extension Center's Fruit and Vegetable Advisory Committee and serves on other committees of the board of managers. He was a member of the search committee for Dean Bruce Carlton.

Donio is a supporter and member of the New Jersey Horticultural Society, the New Jersey Farm Bureau, and the American Farm Bureau. He is a long-time trustee of the New Jersey Peach Council.

Horticultural Award Presented

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — Tom McCloud of Appalachian Nurseries Inc. and of the Eastern Regional Nurseryman's Association, presented the E.R.N.A. Horticulture Award of Excellence to James Stauffer of Stauffers of Kissel Hill in February.

The E.R.N.A. Horticultural Award is presented each year to families, and organizations from within the nine participating state areas which comprise E.R.N.A. (New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Rhode Island). Potential recipents are nominated by state representatives on the E.R.N.A. board of directors.

The award honors those who have demonstrated and continue to demonstrate a high degree of excellence in the nursery, landscape, and garden center industry. Voluntary service and dedication to the industry is also a consideration. Business success alone would not qualify an individual for the award.

Garden Week Tours Benefit Restoration Projects

"At Monticello, Jefferson cultivated more than 250 vegetable varieties in his 1,000-foot-long garden terrace and 170 fruit varieties in the eight-acre fruit garden, designed romantic grottoes, garden temples, and ornamental groves, and took visitors on rambling surveys of his favorite 'pet trees.'

"When he wrote, 'the greatest service which can be rendered any country is to add a useful plant to its culture,' he assumed the role of an activist plantsman, a director of new and unusual introductions in his experimental horticultural theater. Thomas Jefferson was crazy about gardening."

The culmination of the restoration of Jefferson's gardens at Monticello was the opening of the Center for Historic Plants in 1987 — an educational garden center devoted to collection, preservation, and distribution of plants known in early American gardens.

The program focuses on Jefferson's horticultural interests, but also covers the history of plants cultivated in America up to 1900, as well as native plants, a group of special interest to Jefferson himself.

The Garden Shop, open from late March into November, is located at the Monticello Shuttle Station. Historic plants, heirloom seeds, and books on the history of garden plants are available at the shop.

"Twinleaf," the annual newsletter and seed list of the center, also features 50 species of Monticello and center seeds and a choice selection of books on garden history for mail order purchase.

For "Twinleaf," write The Thomas Jefferson Center for Historic Plants, Monticello, P.O. Box 316, Charlottesville, Va. 22902.

CELLI SPADE CULTIVATORS

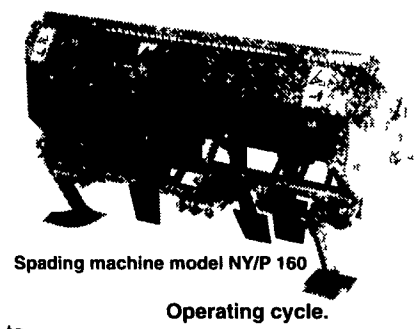
Spade Cultivators Are An Innovative Alternative To Conventional Plowing. They Work On The Principle Of A PTO Driven Crankshaft Connected To Steel Spades Which Vertically Penetrate The Soil One At A Time. The Operation Is Very Similar To A Person Digging With A Spade Shovel.



Spading machine model NY/P 160

ADVANTAGES:
* Low HP Requirement Compared to Mold Board Plows
* Greatly Reduced Compaction And Eliminates Creation Of Plow Pan
* Allows For Working Wetter Ground For Earlier Preparation
* Works Equally Well In Hard, Dry Conditions
* Produces Small, Porous Clods For Better Water Absorption
* Ideal for Incorporating Compost, Crop Residue & Fertilizer At Proper Depths
* Leaves Topsoil On Top And Does Not Bring Sour Subsoil Or Rocks To Surface
* Will Fracture Hard Pan Left By Conventional Tillage

FEATURES:
* Machines Available For Tractors For 20 to 190 HP
* Tillage Widths From 32" to 144"
* Depths Up To 16"
* Top Quality Components For Long Life In Hostile Conditions
* Over 8000 Machines Sold Worldwide

from Ecuador, Holland, Miami, and South America. Heck purchases a lot of Hawaii lilies, "tons of roses on a weekly basis," from Ecuador, Holland, and other places.

Recently they ran an ad asking for an experienced floral designer for a week and a half, with no response. While the florist used to get a lot of students through the vo-tech programs in the district, now they have to hire and train workers for design situations. Schools have shifted from formal training in flower production and design to more wide-scale general landscaping.

During the tour, Heck pointed to the point-of-sale computer inventory that, by customer number, tracks the production, shipment, and delivery of flowers. No matter what point in the operation, the control number tracks inventory of the order (including a list of items on the arrangement), from when it was began until delivery.

The flowers are kept in a preservation solution containing sugar. The flowers, many from Ecuador, are picked up in New York and arrive at the florist in a day, where they are immediately placed in solution and refrigerated to ensure freshness. The refrigerator is kept at 35 degrees at 50-60 percent humidity to prevent "sweating."

Normally the boxes are stacked and drug-sniffing dogs are placed on them. If the dogs suspect the flower boxes contain illegal narcotics, a pole, half the size of a broom handle with a sharp point, is shoved into the box.

The dogs are then placed on the box, and if they still behave in a manner that causes the agents to suspect drugs, the boxes can literally be ripped apart — entirely at the expense of the grower.

Heck has seen holes in boxes, many of them mutilated, and the ones that simply don't arrive probably were torn apart.

Heck, a member of the FTD (the company joined in 1921), also is a member of Teleflora. Much of the business — up to 80 percent — is done over the telephone. An Internet site has been designed and would be up soon, Heck noted, for orders.

Honey Bees Deliver Beneficial Fungi To Strawberries, Increase Yield

GENEVA, N.Y. — The most industrious flying machines in nature's kingdom are being used to deliver a beneficial fungus to strawberry fields. The fungus fights gray mold, and all the bees have to do to pick up their payload is walk across their doorstep on their way out of the hive.

"Over the past five years, studies have successfully shown that honey bees can disseminate beneficial fungi, bacteria, and viruses to strawberries, pome fruits, and clover," said Joseph Kovach, an entomologist at Cornell University. "Our studies show that bumble bees and honey bees can disseminate spores of Trichoderma to strawberry flowers to control Botrytis fruit rot."

Kovach, who is the Integrated Pest Management Fruit Coordinator at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, is awaiting a patent for the bee "footbath" he has developed in the past five years. The box fits across the bee hive entrance and is designed to be filled with any number of biocontrols, but the fungus-among-us—the one Kovach has commercially tested with the New York strawberry growers—is the natural occurring beneficial called Trichoderma harzanium 1295-22, commonly known as T22.

As bees exit the hive on their way to the field, they walk across the "footpath" of gray powder, picking up as many as 100,000 Trichoderma spores per bee. As they forage for nectar and pollen, the bees leave spores of T22 behind in the flowers. T22 fights the familiar gray mold known as Botrytis fruit rot by outcompeting the rot, spore for spore.

Botrytis is damaging because it extensively sporulates in strawberry flowers and can spread quickly, particularly under the warm, wet conditions common at bloom time. As the fruit matures, Botrytis develops into a noxious gray mold that renders berries inedible. Consumers won't buy moldy strawberries and grower profits disappear into the nearest compost bin.

To fight Botrytis, growers usually apply one or two chemical fungicides at bloom time. Trichoderma can be applied as a spray, but coverage would be wasted because sprays cover leaves as well as flowers. Bees are by far the most efficient and effective delivery system. Bees achieve better control, using one-tenth of the amount that would have to be used in a sprayer.

Ten berry growers in eight counties in New York have tested bee-delivered T22 using the hive inserts developed by Kovach and his research team. The inserts slip into a reusable, lightweight "doorstop." The only maintenance required on the part of the grower or the beekeeper is to change the insert when it is empty, which could be every five to seven days during bloom, depending on bee activity and the weather. T22 looks like smoke-colored dust.

"We set out to answer four important questions," said Kovach. "Can bees pick up the spores [yes], can they deliver it [yes], can they delivery enough for effective control in a commercial field [yes], and does the Trichoderma harm the bees [no]."

Kovach's experiments yielded other extremely important data. "Not only did bee-delivered Trichoderma provide control equivalent to that delivered by chemical fungicides available to growers, but growers were able to maximize strawberry yields through better pollination," said Kovach.

Strawberries are primarily wind- and gravity-pollinated but using honey bees as pollinators produces more seeds and fleshier berries. On the average, a 20 percent increase in berry size was reported in data collected over five years due to honey bee pollination alone.

"Several studies have shown that strawberry fruit weight can be increased from 18 to 26 percent by adding hives to strawberry fields. Results from our studies also showed fruit weight increases of between 25 to 35 percent. This increase is primarily due to increased seed numbers per fruit because of better pollination," said Kovach. More seeds develop when a flower is pollinated by a bee than when strawberries are pollinated by wind or gravity. A strawberry increases in size to hold the greater number of seeds.

T harzianum is a Cornell-patented fungal biological control agent that has proven efficacy against a wide range of plant pathogenic fungi. Bioworks, Inc., located in Geneva, manufactures large quantities of this biocontrol agent for use as a seed treatment, as an in-furrow preplant additive, and for greenhouse use.

T22 has received approval by the Environmental Protection Agency. Toxicity testing on vertebrate species indicates no pathogenic or toxic effect. However, EPA approval is needed to get the fungus registered for use on both the strawberries, and in beehives that may also be producing honey for human consumption.

"I've taken the technology as far as I can," said Kovach. He expects to continue his research to harness honey bees and bumble bees into delivering any number of biocontrol agents to various fruits and vegetables.

"Bees work seven days a week all season long, are incredibly industrious, never complain, never clog up, and are capable of pinpoint accuracy as far as a delivery mechanism for biologicals is concerned," said Kovach. He expects commercial beekeepers to provide a ready market for the new T22 'footbaths' once the regulatory challenges are met and the patent granted. He says the demand by strawberry growers for been pollination services has already increased.

New York ranks seventh in the nation in the production of strawberries, with 2,200 acres producing nearly 100 million pounds of berries worth $9.6 million.

Retail Florist 'Occasion Oriented'

There is no free delivery. Delivery charges, in place since 1970, Heck noted, run from $2.75-$10. "It costs us more than that to deliver a package," he said, with three trucks on the road all day. Each logs about 30,000 miles per year, riding from Douglasville to Flying Hills to Fleetwood and Robesonia, with stops all over the area.

A greenhouse filled with plants from Florida is managed by Robert Brumbach for Heck Brothers. Brumbach's experience in the business totals about 60 years (15 of those with Heck Brothers).

The modern, 5,000 square foot Holland-style greenhouse has a macadam floor (without a final coat to allow water penetration), two-piece insulated plexiglass top and sides, with computer-run heating, humidity, and fan tunnel ventilation. The cooling system uses cold air "pads" along one wall that efficiently cool the greenhouse.

A coat of "liquid shade" is applied yearly, similar to the old whitewashing techniques used to provide shade to the plants.

The shade can last into August or September, provided there aren't hard rains.

The cost of the house ran to more than $100,000, according to Heck.

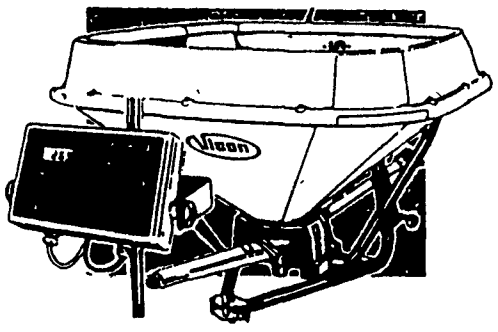
Take the guesswork out of spreading

Today, when you need the very latest in spreading technology, Vicon's Super Flow seeder/spreaders deliver more accuracy and reliability than ever before. The exclusive pendulum action spout spreads as little as 10 lbs. of material per acre, in a full, overlapping pattern up to 46 feet. Spread anything, from fertilizer to the finest seed, with consistent accuracy. Add the new Varimeter to your spreader and cut inputs to the bone. This electronic application rate control system virtually eliminates waste or damage through over or under application, regardless of changes in ground speed.



Hopper capacities from 400 to 3600 pounds and spouts for all widths and materials increase the Super flow's versatility. Stainless steel and synthetic components keep these spreaders corrosion free, season after season.

Eat a Real Tomato

MILLHEIM (Centre Co.) — Supporting local and sustainable producers in Pennsylvania is the emphasis of promotional cards developed by Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA).

Attractive and concise, these "Eat a Real Tomato" cards are being used by producers at farmers markets, through CSAs (Community Supported Agriculture farms), and other markets to educate customers on the benefits of supporting local and sustainable producers.

The three-color cards are 4-inches x 9-inches and fit easily into a counter display holder. There is space on the card for producers to stamp their farm name or market to remind customers where to go for great food.

PASA is a statewide, nonprofit organization dedicated to elevating the economic vitality of farms in Pennsylvania through farm-based educational programs, an annual conference, a quarterly newsletter, and networks for producers to market local and sustainably produced foods. PASA created the Eat a Real Tomato cards to enhance producers' marketing efforts. Partnership funding for this brochure was provided by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Agriculture Product Promotion Matching Grant Program and PASA.

The Eat a Real Tomato cards outline the taste, economic, and environmental benefits to a community where consumers support local and sustainable farmers.

The cards describe the superior quality of foods that are delivered straight from the farm to the table. Since consumers are paying only for the food itself and not all the packaging, transportation and "middlemen," locally produced foods are a better value for one's money. Buying local foods and preserving farmland go hand in hand. Sustainable is defined as farmers who "strive to reduce the use of chemical insecticides, herbicides and fertilizers, replacing them with natural alternatives and ecological balance."

The Eat a Real Tomato cards are available in packs of 100. 1-5 packs are $5/pack plus $4 shipping and handling. More than 5 packs are $4/pack & $5 shipping and handling. Call for shipping and handling for more than 14 packs. Contact PASA for free samples or for further information. Make checks payable to "PASA," indicate how many packs you are purchasing, and mail to: PASA, Eat a Real Tomato, PO Box 419, Millheim, PA 16854, (814) 349-9856.

Farmers Market Meeting June 21

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Do you want to earn $800 or more per day selling your farm products?

That's what about half of the growers participating in the Philadelphia Farmers' Market Trust earned each market day during the peak growing season last year.

Other farmers' markets offer similar opportunities.

To learn more about how to expand your marketing potential, Pennsylvania Farm Link, Penn State Cooperative Extension, and the Farmers' Market Trust are conducting a "Farmer's Market" meeting from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. on June 21 at the Berks County extension office in Leesport.

John Berry from Penn State Cooperative Extension will talk about the changing consumer demands in fresh market produce and the growing interest in farmers markets. He will outline basic marketing principles and explain why consumers are interested in supporting local agriculture.

Farmers' Market Trust Director of Community Markets Bob Pierson will talk about quantities of produce, planting strategies, crops to grow, and the desire for value-added products. To serve these markets, he said you don't need to be a big farmer, just one who can offer consistently good quality produce.

Area growers will describe their experiences and provide information on how to set up an effective display, the kinds and quantities of produce they plant and sell, customer loyalty, and other marketing tips.

Finally, Marion Bowlan will describe Pennsylvania Farm Link services, including the marketing/entrepreneurial development meetings, farm succession workshops, the new and beginning farmer workshop, and the database linking service planned for this year.

Gardening Expert Picks Top Melon Varieties

Muskmelon (Cantaloupe)

• Eclipse: Tolerant of Powdery Mildew and Fusarium Wilt. Reaches harvest maturity slightly earlier than Athena. Flesh is bright orange.

• Athena: Tolerant of Powdery Mildew and all three strains of Fusarium Wilt. "This variety retains firmness and has great flavor," Ferretti said. "If you pick this one early it will be rock-hard, so leave it until the fruit falls of the vine as you lift it." This melon has a deep salmon-colored flesh.

• Ambrosia: This variety softens fast and will become overripe quickly. "It has a medicinal taste when overripe," he said. "The best time to pick it is when the vine partially tears after a strong tug."

Honeydew

• Early Dew: Smooth green-gold skin at maturity with pale green, sweet flesh. Pick when fruit slips from the vine.

• Passport: Has green skin with thin corky net that turns yellowish as fruit ripens. Flesh is cream-colored near the seed cavity and mint green near the rind.

Watermelon

Ferretti recommends growing "icebox" watermelon varieties, which are short-season types that have been bred to fit easily into refrigerators.

• Yellow Baby: 1975 AAS winner. Striped, with a thin rind, Yellow Baby has yellow flesh, small seeds and excellent flavor.

• New Queen: 1999 AAS winner. Another thin-skinned variety, it has brilliant orange flesh. "It has the best flavor," Ferretti said.

• Tiger Baby: A striped, red-flesh type with very good flavor. It is a consistent producer with a thick rind.

• Seedless Watermelons. Ferretti recommends that home gardeners not even attempt to grow seedless watermelons. "I've been at this for a long time, and every time I've tried to grow seedless watermelons it has been a disaster," he said. "The best I've ever managed was 30 percent germination. Right now, only gardeners who specialize in growing melons should try growing seedless varieties."

Twilight Meeting July 15

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension will sponsor a Vegetable Twilight Meeting, July 15 starting at 6 p.m. at Larriland Farms, with a tour of Larriland Farms' fruit and vegetable operation.

The tour will provide an opportunity to see the trellis system for apple production and a wide variety of crops such as peaches, strawberries, brambles, blueberries, cut flowers, and numerous vegetables.

Following the wagon tour, Dr. Ed Beste, weed specialist; Dr. Chuck McClurg, vegetable specialist; Terry Patton, IPM specialist; Rick Hefleblower, regional fruit specialist; and Dr. Kate Everts, vegetable pathologist will be on hand to update the group on the current situation in fruit and vegetable production.

Empire Potato Club Now Empire Potato Growers

STANLEY, N.Y. — The membership of the Empire State Potato Club, Inc. voted to change the name to Empire State Potato Growers, Inc., at the annual meeting in February.

This resulted in a change in the bylaws of the corporation.

Directors and officers were also elected at this meeting, held in conjunction with the Potato Day of the NYS Vegetable Conference. They include John Meyer, Cohocton, president; Robert Leavitt, Gabriels, vice present; and Larry Bowman, North Collins, secretary-treasurer.

Other recently elected board members include Karl Hofmann, Springville; John Matthews, Honeoye Falls; Jeffrey Hopkinson, Williamstown; Ron Edgley, Lake Placid and Joseph Guilian, Livonia. The following growers will continue as directors: John Cichanowicz, Riverhead; John Kujawski, Roverhead; Gary Pryputniewicz, Waterville; Kevin Datthyn, Sodus; and Tom Guidone, Port Bryon.

Penn Allied Sets Nursery Trade Show

FORT WASHINGTON (Montgomery Co.) — You won't want to miss the Penn Allied Nursery Trade Show, July 27-29.

More than 600 green and hard goods suppliers will be exhibiting in nearly 1,100 booths at the Fort Washington Expo Center.

The show will feature new plants, the latest products and equipment, and innovative services and technologies.

The Exhibitor/Buyer Reception on Tuesday, July 27 is a great place to meet business contacts and friends. All exhibitors and buyers on the show floor are invited. The event will be 6 p.m. - 7 p.m. in the Regency Room.

Want to do more than encourage research, scholarships, and consumer activities which benefit the horticultural industry? Plan on being at the PFOH auction on Thursday, July 29 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Auction material is donated by exhibitors. Proceeds go to the Pennsylvania Foundation for Ornamental Horticulture. This event is open to the public.

Visit the Pennsylvania Lancscape & Nursery Association's booth and find out how you and your business can benefit by being a member. Business services and programs; education and information, legislative representation and networking events — all are available to members.

Take advantage of PANT's free shuttle service from the center's free on-site parking areas. Free shuttle service from local hotels is also available. There are several choices for on-site lunch or snacks.

After the conference, stick around for the Plants and Related Products Auction beginning at 6 p.m. on July 30. If you've had your eye on the plant material in another exhibitor's booth, watch for it during the auction.

The versatile Millcreek Row Mulcher makes different sized mulch beds as you need, from 18" to 48" wide, from 1/2" to 10" deep. A mulching program can help you produce a healthier crop while reducing pesticide requirements.

From tree fruit to vegetable beds, from bramble crops to vineyards, organic mulch and compost can reduce chemical input for weed suppression, retain soil moisture, and improve soil fertility by adding organic matter to sandy and clay soils.

Now Millcreek eliminates the costly labor needed for organic mulch and compost application. The remarkable new Millcreek Row Mulcher works with all types of organic material, and even lets you adjust the depth and width of the mulch rows.

Starting under $5000, no other machine compares when it comes to capabilities, versatility, and cost effectiveness. Rugged construction. Five sizes, from 3 4 to 13 cubic yard capacity. Custom designs. Call today for a free color brochure, or to discuss your specific needs.

Sprinkler Irrigation Guide Available

ITHACA, N.Y. — Agricultural producers and consultants, engineers, equipment dealers, government agency employees, educators, students, and others interested in the technology of irrigation have a newly published resource to help them better understand all aspects of sprinkler irrigation systems.

The book, "Sprinkler Irrigation Systems," MWPS-30, from MidWest Plan Service (MWPS), provides systematic approach to the whys and hows of developing sprinkler irrigation systems.

Thomas Scherer, associate professor and extension engineer in the Department of Agricultural and Biosystems Engineering at North Dakota State University, served as chair of the group that wrote the book. He says "Sprinkler Irrigation Systems" was developed to provide a planning tool, reference guide, and design manual for a broad audience.

According to Scherer, the authors wanted MWPS-30 to be a repository of the technical knowledge necessary to design and develop sprinkler irrigation systems. Another goal was to further an understanding of the methods used to manage irrigation systems efficiently.

In line with those aims, the book provides information that helps to determine water needs and to establish a minimum recommended system capacity. The publication also includes a discussion of the methods used to evaluate a water supply and to determine the type of sprinkler system that best fits a specific need.

One chapter is devoted to understanding and using water sources properly. This chapter includes sections on planning, drilling, developing, pumping and maintaining irrigation wells. Separate chapters discuss sprinkler performance characteristics and sprinkler selection and management. Another chapter explains how to select pumps, piping, and power units.

The book does not neglect special uses for irrigation systems. One chapter discusses chemigation, which is the application of fertilizers and pesticides through irrigation systems. Another discusses using sprinkler irrigation systems to apply effluent from animal production systems, municipal treatment plants, and food processing plants. This chapter focuses on the need to apply effluents without detrimental effects to surface water, ground water, soil and crops.

"Sprinkler Irrigation Systems" contains more than 110 photographs and illustrations. Included in the illustrations are example layouts of irrigation systems and diagrams of pumping and piping systems. The book has approximately 70 tables that help to organize technical data, including estimated pressure losses for hard and soft hoses, peak application rates for various systems, maximum flow rates, friction losses, and efficiencies of typical drive units.

The book MWPS-30, is available for $20 per copy plus shipping and handling from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. Shipping and handling for one copy is $3.75 within the continental United States. New York residents, add 8 percent sales tax (calculated on both the cost of publications and the shipping and handling charges). For more information or a free publication catalog, contact NRAES by phone at (607) 255-7654, by fax (607) 254-8770, or by e-mail at nraes@cornell.edu.

Seed Lab Helps Growers Succeed

GENEVA, N.Y. — The New York State Seed Testing Laboratory (NYSSTL) at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva is the only official seed-testing lab in New York. Its mission is to ensure seed quality and improve planting success for growers in the state.

"Planting high quality seed is the first step to crop success," said Ellen Chirco, director of the NYSSTL. "Seed should be free from disease, from undesirable seeds such as weeds or other crop seeds, and should germinate rapidly and uniformly over a range of field conditions." Without seed testing, growers can make unprofitable planting decisions.

"I have the NYSSTL test every lot of seed I put into the ground," said Larry Eckhardt, president of the NYS Vegetable Growers, who farms 200 acres of sweet corn and five acres of pumpkins in Stephentown, near Albany. "Last year, testing cost me $500, but it's a wise investment because of the consequences of poor seed."

Eckhardt requests cold vigor tests for new seed lots, and germination and cold vigor tests for any seed lots carried over from the previous year. Test results from the seed lab help Eckhardt manage planting dates and seeding rates.

The NYSSTL is one of the leading seed laboratories in the country. It is recognized for its expertise in seed testing, teaching, and traning activities, and participation in regional, national, and international seed associations. The lab provides seed testing on a fee basis to residents, growers, food processors, seed companies and government agencies, and is active in the development of new and/or improved testing procedures. In the last 20 years, personnel at the lab have developed over 50 new testing procedures and now used nationally.

Another important function is that the NYSSTL helps the NYS Department of Agriculture and Markets fulfill its regulatory function and provide consumer protection by testing random seed lots, submitted by the department, to ensure that quality seed is sold in New York State.

Like many other vegetable growers in the state, Eckhard is bullish on the seed lab. "We need the NYSSTL to test seed, . to advise New York growers on seed-related problems, develop new technologies in seed testing, train future analysts, and provide an unbiased source of accurate information for seed samples," he said.

Eckhard praised the lab for its continued responsiveness to changing trends in New York agriculture. "Over the years, the lab has developed procedures to test coated vegetable seeds and developed new procedures for a number of economically important New York crops such as snap beans, lettuce, sweet corn, and onions," he said.

When the NYSSTL was designated as the official seed-testing laboratory for New York in 1912, it was totally subsidized by state funds. Since 1989, most of the operating revenues have come from fees generated by testing seed samples submitted by growers and others. The Experiment Station and NYS Ag and Markets contribute a small subsidy to its operation.

The current seed lab staff consists of one part-time and two full-time analysts. The three have more than 80 years of testing experience dealing with forage and grains, turf and lawn, flower and wildflower, vegetable and herb, and tree and shrub species, and perform seed analyses on nearly 10,000 samples each year.

"Being a self-supporting laboratory in a non-seed producing state is a very difficult task," said Chirco. "The NYSSTL is the only official seed lab left in the Northeast. That means we provide testing for most of New England." "Other than the Northeast, most other states in the country operate an official state lab, and support them through university or state funding."

Chirco said the lab is two analysts short for the volume of the work it handles.

In 1998, seed inspection, sampling, and analysis was reinstated by the New York State Agriculture Commissioner.

"Customers want to have an unbiased source of information and seed testing services," said Eckhardt. "I hope customers are getting as good seeds as they should for commercial production. We really need an independent testing service such as the New York State Lab."

Seed testing is more complex than it may first appear. The demanding work requires patience, knowledge, and years of training and experience. Analysts take their jobs very seriously because they determine the fate of thousands of dollars worth of seed each day. The outcome of a seed analysis may determine whether a seed lot can be sold or not, said Chirco.

Jim Hunter, director of the NYS Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y., where the seed lab is located, is in the process of organizing a committee to review the lab. Several years ago he organized a committee made up of individuals from the private sector to review the Seed Lab. That committee recommended that the Lab increase its fees to be self-supporting. Chirco, Eckhardt and Hunter agree that strategy has not worked.

"We have to reassess the need for the seed lab and reach some decision about the future of the lab and how it will be funded," said Hunter. "Ag & Markets has a vested interest in keeping the state's regulatory lab open and so do New York State growers."

The NYSSTL can be reached at (315) 787-2242. It is open from 8 a.m. to noon, and 1-5 p.m. Monday-Thursday, and from 8 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m. Friday.

'Simply Delicious' Says It All About Pa. Produce

HARRISBURG, (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania red ripe tomatoes, succulent sweet corn and sweet, juicy peaches. What do they have in common?

The are among the cornucopia of fresh fruits and vegetables that will be showcased under the Ridge Administration's "Simply Delicious" marketing program this growing season, according to Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes, Jr.

" 'Simply Delicious' says it all about fresh, Pennsylvania-grown produce. And nearly 900 stores and more than 300 growers across Pennsylvania will help spread the good news by participating in the program this year," Hayes said.

"Participating stores and growers will proudly display the 'Simply Delicious' instore, promotional and marketing materials to let consumers know they are buying high-quality, Pennsylvania-grown fruits and vegetables."

As part of the campaign, the "Simply Delicious" logo also will appear on 90 billboards along major highways across Pennsylvania beginning in June.

Launched by the Ridge Administration in 1998, the "Simply Delicious" program is sponsored by the Agriculture Department and the Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program.

Stores or growers interested in participating in the "Simply Delicious" campaign can contact Mike Varner, Agriculture Department, at (717) 787-6901.

Spreader Handles Many Materials

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The Earth & Turf MultiSpread is the first unit exclusively designed to spread a variety of compost and topdressing materials.

MultiSpread's design features a 42-inch gate width to fit through small openings. The large 15-cubic-foot hopper spreads topdressing material by moving it to the rear of the topdresser via a heavy rubber belt.

Adjustable spring tines and finely adjusted thrower paddles help break-up material to ensure an even and uniform spread pattern of up to 66 inches. Earth & Turf MultiSpread is ideal for large or small turf areas.

Kuhn Introduces Fertilizer Spreader

VERNON N.Y. — A new model, the MDS 61, has been added to the fertilizer and seed spreader line available from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., Vernon, New York USA, and Kuhn S.A., Saverne, France.

Highly accurate with a spreading variation of only 3 to 4 percent, the twin-disc MDS 61 has a capacity of 18 bushels (21.5 cubic feet) or 2,200 pounds. The spreading width is adjustable from 30 to 60 feet and the application rate can be varied between 2 and 2,000 pounds per acre. All wearing parts are constructed out of stainless steel for durability and long life.

Adjustment and calibration, using the standard calibration kit, is quick and easy. A number of options are available to customize the spreader including a two-row banding unit for orchards/vineyards, hydraulic controls, a boundary spread limiter, sieve, and protective cover.

Highly accurate, with a spreading variation of only 3 to 4 percent, the twin-disc MDS 61 has a capacity of 18 bushels (21.5 cubic feet) or 2,200 pounds.

Conestoga Buildings Celebrates 10 Years In Business

Conestoga grew from a small lumberyard operation in 1989 to a market leader in the mid-Atlantic post-frame industry today. Their original operation employed six people and earned $1 million in sales. Last year, Conestoga employed 46 people, constructed more than 550 buildings, and earned sales exceeding $8 million.

Conestoga specializes in constructing custom-built pole buildings throughout the mid-Atlantic region for a multitude of building needs. Typical building applications include residential, commercial, agricultural, and equine structures.

Conestoga celebrates its 10-year anniversary by launching its new Website, increasing its service area to include a 200-mile radius, and targeting sales to reach $10 million.

Westfalia Dairy Systems Acquires Babson Brothers

NAPERVILLE, Ill. — Westfalia-Surge LLC., a new dairy equipment company, was formed recently when Westfalia Dairy Systems, the North American division of Westfalia Landtechnik GmbH, completed the acquisition of Babson Brothers Co., Naperville, Ill.

Founded in 1906, Babson Brothers Co. markets milking equipment under the Surge® trademark and offers a full line of sanitation products sold through dedicated dairy equipment centers.

Babson Brothers Co. is the second largest manufacturer of dairy equipment in North America and number three in the world. Babson Brothers Co. reported 1998 sales of $113 million with about 360 employees.

Before this acquisition, Westfalia Landtechnik GmbH, with headquarters in Oelde, Germany, was the world's second largest dairy equipment manufacturer, with 1998 sales of $226 million. Westfalia offers a full line of dairy systems and components, including the Autorotor™ Carousel parlor. The acquisition of Babson Brothers Co. will result in the largest sales increase in the company's history.

Dr. Ulf-Dieter Zimmerman, chief executive officer of Westfalia Landtechnik GmbH, commented on the strategic implications of the acquisition, "The formation of Westfalia-Surge LLC. continues our strategy of growth in the dairy equipment market. Babson Brothers Co. employs highly qualified people who have developed excellent products. The corporate strategies, product policies and dedication to quality of Babson Brothers Co. and Westfalia Dairy Systems are very similar. Westfalia-Surge LLC. will be ideally positioned to continue the policies of marketing innovative products and cost-efficient systems for the dairy producer."

Westfalia-Surge LLC. will conduct North American operations from headquarters in Naperville, Ill. Ludger Schomaker, formerly general manager of Westfalia Landtechnik, will become the president/chief executive officer of the new company, directing all North American operations. New branding strategies are being developed for global markets — however, the Surge® trademark will be retained in North America.

The acquisition brings two of the world's most recognized brands of dairy equipment together to give dairy producers one of the industry's most complete line of milking systems, components, sanitation products, and aftermarket products.

Mower-Conditioners From Case

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation has announced the introduction of five new mower-conditioners.

These products are part of the largest hay and forage product introduction in Case history.

In all, 15 products are featured, each designed to meet the increased productivity, durability, and reliability needs of farmers.

"Based on the input of customers, we know producers are looking for high-quality and high-capacity products that maintain the durability and reliability Case is known for," said Ed Sechrest, director of ag systems marketing.

The 15-foot 3-inch Case IH DC515 rotary disc center-pivot mower conditioner represents the second generation of rotary disc technology from Case.

"Case continues to lead the industry in rotary technology with rotary disc mower conditioner and self-propelled windrower headers, which cut tougher crops, require less maintenance, and allow ground speeds 30 to 100 percent faster than traditional sickle machines," said Dabich. "In the second generation of this technology, engineers focused on improving rotary cutoff performance in light crops without sacrificing performance and capacity in heavy crops."

A slender cutterbed design on the DC515 mower conditioner allows easy low-to-the-ground cutting and requires much less lubrication than most competitive designs. A true 10-disc bed design is featured. The re-designed cutterbed requires less horsepower for better fuel economy, and maintenance is simplified.

Steel-on-steel spiral intermeshing conditioning rolls have been moved rearward eight inches, and an assist roll has been added for a better transition between the cutterbed and conditioning rolls. This results in better air flow and improved rotary cut off.

Case mower conditioners offer the maximum range of windrow formation available on the market today for changing crops and conditions.

"When growers want a full width swath, conditioning rolls measuring 110 inches provide the widest conditioning roll-to-cut width ratio for faster dry down of the crop," said Dabich. "If a narrow windrow is desired, the full length swathboard is quickly and easily adjusted with a new single point lever. The fully enclosed hood can be raised and side formed shields placed at their narrowest width."

Case IH sickle mower conditioners, such as the SC414 mower conditioner pictured here, use a dual auger design to provide gentle crop handling. Increased auger spacing on the new mower conditioners increases capacity and decreases wrapping around the auger.

New Case IH SC Series single and dual sickle mower conditioners build on the success of the dual auger design used in previous mower conditioners. The SC412 and SC414 single sickle mower conditioners cut 12- and 14-foot widths, respectively, and the SC414 Deluxe and SC416 Deluxe dual sickle mower conditioners cut 14- and 16-foot widths.

"These machines are built to last with rugged polyethylene end panels that will not dent or rust," said Dabich. "Plus, the gentle handling and uniform feeding advantages of dual auger design are enhanced with wider auger spacing in the new generation. Wider spacing means increased capacity and less chance for crop wrapping."

Sickle performance is improved with exclusive Case IH flat hold-downs which promote smooth crop flow over the cutterbar, and range guards with vertical wear bars help reduce sickle lift and binding. Case IH mower conditioners also offer an eccentric cam roll opening system, allowing the conditioning rolls to completely open on-the-go to pass most slugs unnoticed.

Trailer Mixer Keeps Feeding On Schedule

The 48-inch-wide discharge opening and the three discharge augers deliver up to 5,000 pounds per minute for fast feeding.

Tandem axles with spring-loaded suspension carry the load to feed large herds. This semi-trailer-type suspension reduces tongue weight while spreading the load evenly to all four tires for stability.

Additional benefits include reduced mixing time with four 30-inch-diameter augers; circular mixing action that blends every mouthful of feed; Notched augers and breaker bar that tear apart small bales of dry alfalfa; long service life from ¾ -inch-thick bottom pan; thick, rugged flanged auger tubes; self-aligning auger bearings mounted outside for easy service; planetary gear drive and roller-chain reduction in a sealed oil bath; shear hubs on planetary and lower augers that help protect drive components; control of discharge door and discharge rate from your tractor seat. Truck-mounted and stationary models are available, too.

SUPPLY CHAIN OPTIMIZATION FOR POULTRY BUSINESSES

William B. Roush
Associate Professor
Poultry Science

Poultry businesses consist of many individual units such as hatcheries, feed mills, growout production, processing, marketing, and sales.

The production and economic decisions made for each of the individual units can have an impact on the production and economic results of each of the other units. The optimization of the production of one unit may have a negative effect on another.

For example, the reduction of the cost of feed at the feed mill can have a negative effect on the birds in the production units. Reducing the cost of production can affect the processing units and so on.

A traditional approach to poultry businesses has been to optimize each unit. The efficiency of each unit is then compared with the other units within the business. The results are then used to determine levels of compensation and bonuses.

The philosophy of the optimization of individual units is probably related to the time in the past when the poultry business was not so vertically integrated.

Most managers intuitively know that the true measure of efficiency is to measure the bottom line performance of the business. The question becomes how each individual unit can operate so that the overall profitability and return on investment can be optimized? This is where business models come into the picture — in particular, a concept called "supply chain optimization."

Fazal Wala of The Wala Group recently presented the concept of supply chain optimization at the meeting of the Midwest Poultry Federation. He pointed out "the traditional (decentralized) operating measures of performance at the business unit level are still valid. After all, a great deal of scientific effort has gone into understanding how these measures behave in different operating environments. What is no longer valid is the strategy of pursuing improvements in these (decentralized) operating measures, e.g. feed cost per pound, livability, etc. at the individual business unit level without understanding how they affect overall business results. Business models (e.g. supply chain optimization) can allow the manager of the poultry enterprise to determine the optimal (based on trade-off analyses) value of feed conversion, feed costs, stocking density, diets, livability, kill scheduling, etc. which add up to the maximum profitability for the enterprise as a whole."

Although the concept is somewhat new to poultry management in the United States, the supply chain optimization concept has been applied in at least one international poultry business. Sadia Concordia SA, the largest poultry producer in Brazil, processing more than 300 million chickens and 11 million turkeys a year, has used business models since 1990 to improve decision making throughout its production chain. It saved more than $50 million in a three-year period as a result of better feed conversion, improved utilization of bird weight variations and ranges to produce more than 300 products, 100 percent fulfillment of daily production plans with increased output of higher value products, and timely and wide-ranging studies of different price and demand scenarios. This was documented in an article published in the operations research journal, Interfaces (1996, 26:38-53). As a result of the report, Sadia was awarded the Edelman prize for Management Science Achievement.

In summary, there is a new generation of decision-making tools, such as supply chain optimization, that is available to optimize the total production and profitability of poultry enterprises. In the past this was not possible because of the difficulty of evaluating the many variables and economic trade-offs involved in optimizing overall profitability. With the advent of the personal computer and the development of decision-support software, making effective interlinked decisions necessary for total optimization of the poultry business are now possible.

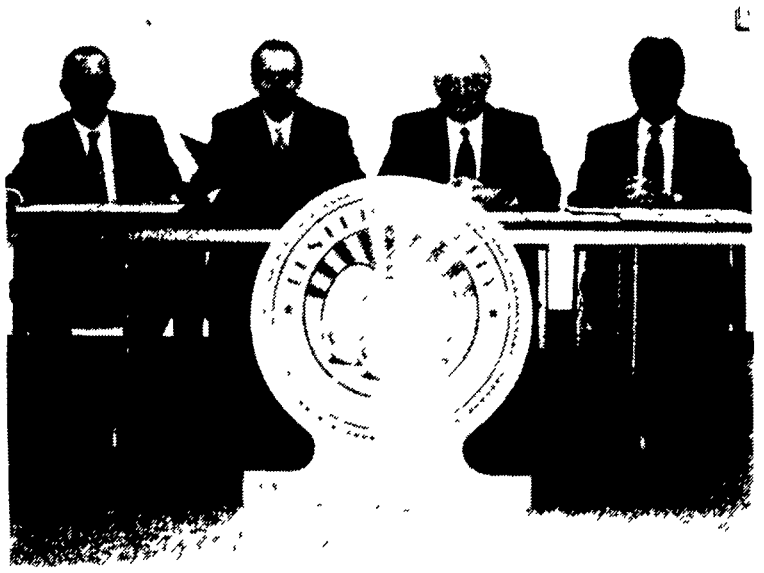
Ag Department Joins Food Safety Partnership

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently signed an agreement authorizing the Agriculture Department to work cooperatively with other state and federal agencies and private industry to prevent food-borne illness in Pennsylvania eggs caused by salmonella enteriditis (S.E.).

"The Department of Agriculture is committed to ensuring food safety in Pennsylvania and welcomes an opportunity to work more closely with partners in government and the private sector to maximize our efforts," said Secretary Hayes.

Secretary Hayes signed a memorandum of understanding with representatives of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Pennsylvania Department of Health and PennAg Industries of Ephrata, Lancaster County.

The historic agreement calls for the parties to increase communication, planning, training efforts in order to reduce the risk of SE in Pennsylvania eggs.



Representative of various state and federal agencies and the egg industry hold copies of a partnership agreement they signed to work to prevent food-borne illness in Pennsylvania eggs caused by salmonella enteriditis. Participating in the signing, from left, are Thomas Gardine, Philadelphia District director, U.S. Food and Drug Administration; State Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr.; State Health Secretary Robert Zimmerman, and Jim Adams, chairman of PennAg Industries Poultry Council.

The Department of Agriculture currently provides oversight, technical advice and financial assistance to support the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP), a voluntary industry program that assures the commitment of producers to provide consumers with the highest quality eggs.

The Department of Agriculture conducts laboratory testing of eggs and environmental samples in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Animal Diagnostic Laboratories at Penn State University and the University of Pennsylvania New Bolton Center.

"Today's agreement, coupled with our ongoing success under PEQAP, make Pennsylvania a national leader in efforts to dramatically minimize contamination of chicken (shell) eggs," said Secretary Hayes.

Farm Festival Planned July 10 At Roth Farm

NORTH WALES (Montgomery Co.) — A day of family fun is planned for the Roth Farm Festival Saturday, July 10, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Roth Farm of Delaware Valley College. The entrance to the festival grounds is on Rt. 63 in North Wales, just west of the Rt. 202 intersection. Rain date is Sunday, July 11.

"The festival will provide activities and displays that present a positive image of farming and rural homemaking, past and present," said Dr. Jim Diamond, interim associate dean for agricultural and environmental sciences at Delaware Valley College. "We invite all neighbors in the surrounding communities to come and have fun and learn about our agricultural heritage and where our food comes from today."

Planned events and displays will include tours of the Roth Living Farm Museum adjacent to the festival grounds; sheep shearing; a threshing demonstration; folk craft demonstrations; antique tractor; car, and motorcycle displays; rides in a tethered hot-air balloon; beekeeping exhibit; displays by local communities and historical societies; and more. Activities specifically for children include tractor- and horse-drawn hay rides, pony rides, a petting zoo, face painting, sand art, "make it and take it" crafts, and 4-H demonstrations.

Refreshments will be sold on the grounds. A donation of $5 per car will be collected upon entry to the parking area. Proceeds benefit the guardianship of the Roth Farm and the Roth Living Farm Museum.

The museum's mission is to provide educational programming that portrays early-American agriculture to school children, organized groups, and the general public. For more information, call (215) 699-3994.

Is your TMR Mixer limiting your ability to reduce feed costs?

The NDE Vertical Mixer cuts and blends whatever you may have available: round bale silage, dry hay bales of any size, cotton seed, distillers grain, cannery by-products, etc. A TRUE TMR not only gives your cows exactly what they need to reach top production, but also allows you to purchase feed stuffs economically, and mix them into a palatable, easily digestible, readily eaten feed.

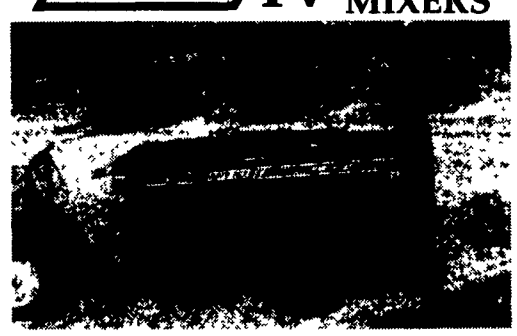
ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS



With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

Today's Most Advanced Disc Mower Conditioner GEHL Model 2365

10' Cut In Stock For Immediate Delivery

Also Model 2345 9 Foot Cut In Stock

Long hood for less wind turbulence for cleaner cutting in thin crop stands.

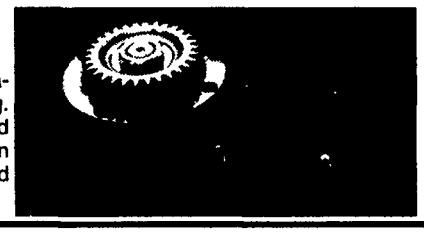
A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.

Rugged high-speed cutting discs, spinning at 3,000 rpm, easily slice through down and tangled crops or dense wet undergrowth to deliver a clean cut.

The cut crop is delivered to Gehl's specially designed intermeshing rubber conditioning rolls for thorough, yet gentle crop conditioning. They'll condition your crop for fast drying.

ONLY FROM GEHL

The gear driven cutterbar (outlined in white) is protected. Gehl shields the cutterbar from rocks or other field obstructions with full-width skid shoes



Easily replaceable disc drive assemblies. Drive stations can be removed individually for quick servicing. Bearings are sealed in grease. The patented Protectadrive™ system protects the cutterbar gear train from damage in the event of disc contact with major field obstacles.

FINANCING Pay no interest until September, 2000 when you purchase a reconditioned Case-IH combine from Hoober *

WARRANTY Hoober offers a 2-year, 50/50 parts powertrain warranty on all reconditioned Case-IH combines

HOOBER UPTIME SERVICE Hoober's reputation for outstanding service is well-known. What you may not know is that before you purchase any reconditioned Case-IH combine from Hoober, it has already passed 234 separate checkpoints . . . and many combines receive 18 additional modifications for peak performance in Mid-Atlantic field conditions. But service goes beyond the sale. If you have a problem with your combine in the field, Hoober's trained technicians will come to you and fix it fast. And Hoober's Uptime Service will keep your reconditioned combine running strong year after year... just ask our customers!

*Followed by 7.9% APR for a maximum of 60 months. Offer expires 7/27/99. See a Hoober combine specialist for all the details.

"I am 100% for Hoober Uptime Service. We have been doing Uptime Service on our Axial-Flow combines since the program was started in 1981. I wouldn't be without it. It is money well spent."

Mel Lapp
(Case-IH 2188 Combine)
Cochranville, PA

"I feel Hoober Uptime Service is definitely worthwhile. Hoober's technicians know what they're looking at. I had no trouble last year on my combine or cornhead. I would recommend it to anyone."

Frank Hartung
Pottstown, PA

"I get Hoober Uptime Service done every year. I haven't had any major breakdowns on my 1660 combine since I bought it in 1991. How much money does Uptime Service save me? I'll never know! It never broke! Uptime Service is like insurance... it pays to have it."

Dave Bibus
(Case-IH 1660 Combine)
Wrightstown, NJ

"Hoober Uptime Service works great for us. Hoober technicians know what they are doing, and they repair it quick. Come harvest season, my combine is ready to go."

Tom Stoneback
Quakertown, PA

CLAAS Country
Meeting all your harvesting needs!

Chopping quality is extremely important for silage and also digestion of the feed. Sharp knives and a precisely adjusted shearbar guarantee a clean cut and even crop flow. Four intake and precompression rollers – two upper and two lower rollers – compress the crop densely and transport it to the chopping cylinder. The latest generation of metal detectors is located in the lower front roller. The gearbox provides for 6 different chop lengths. The changeover between two lengths in each range can be done at the touch of a button. The impressive CLAAS chopping cylinder on all JAGUAR models is a full 29.5" wide with 24 knives in V-formation gives 28,800 cuts per minute. The shearbar is adjusted to the knives without tools. The result is ease of maintenance, with contact adjustment and a power saving cut, plus excellent forage quality.

The high quality of corn forage produced by the JAGUAR is derived from the CLAAS corn cracker. Two saw toothed rollers run at different speeds with 20% difference to open up virtually every kernel. This means good quality silage that is easily digested.

GEHL

All-New & Expanded!

35 Series Features Include:

- Reliable air-cooled Deutz diesel engines
- Powerview® boom for better visibility
- All-Tach™ attachment system – now compatible with more attachments
- Easy roll-back cab for easy servicability
- Hydraloc® system locks loader hydraulics and drive for added safety
- A variety of models with horsepower ranging from 44 to 80 and SAE lift capacities from 1425 to 2600 pounds

Gehl "35 Series" Skid Loaders

For over 25 years, Gehl skid loaders have proven their worth in a variety of tough applications. And now the all-new "35 Series" is even tougher than ever. Four different models – all with increased lift and unsurpassed visibility – offer the latest in break-through design. Reliable, easy to maintain and very user-friendly, Gehl's "35 Series" skid loaders are the unit of choice for performance and quality.

Cut Your Fields Down To Size!

Gehl swing-frames give you the capacity and maneuverability of a self-propelled mower conditioner at a pull-type price...plus the advantages of high-speed disc cutting technology

- Nine disc cutterbar delivers 11-foot 7-inch cut.
- Wide conditioning rolls for uniform, fast drying
- Full-width skid shoes protect the cutterbar
- Simple drive system for more reliability
- Change from windrow to swath in seconds - without tools.

NEW! New Holland TND/TNS Tractors 42 to 62 PTO hp

TND/TND tractors have the features customers say they need. These tractors outperform and outmaneuver all others in the three-cylinder class. Plus they're loaded with comfort and convenience usually found on much bigger tractors.

Exclusive SuperSteer™ FWD axle makes TNS tractors the most maneuverable all purpose tractors available.

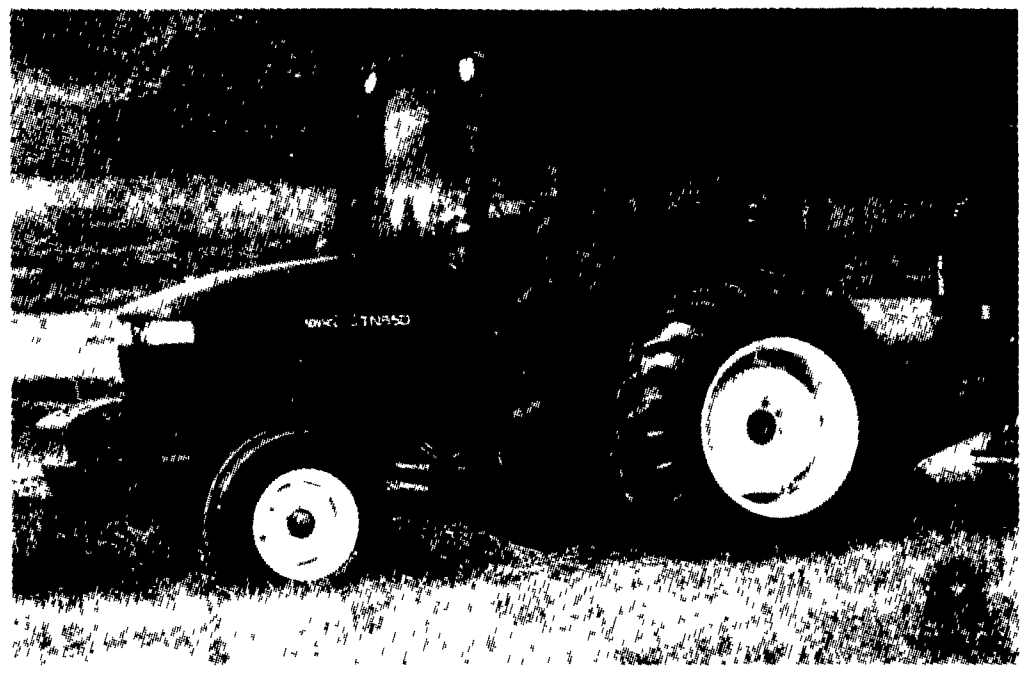
Exclusive Traction Management System (TNS tractors only) automatically engages FWD when and only when you need it.

Four wheel differential lock is electro-hydraulically engaged on TNS tractors for maximum power to ground performance.

Comfortable cab is suspended and pressurized, shielding the operator from vibration, noise and dirt. Heater and A/C, two doors, tilt/telescoping steering, front and rear washers and wipers, and a best-in-class lighting package are standard. Excellent visibility and an overall height as low as 85.1" lets you go places competitive cab tractors can't.



Boomer™ has tightest turnaround

Cut the wheel on a Boomer compact tractor and BOOM... it turns on a dime, up to 50% less than other compacts.

- With Supersteer™ enjoy greater maneuverability
- Sensitrack™ clutch senses turns and is easy on turf
- Innovative styling means high visibility and easy of operation
- Comfort-Plus™ deck applies ergonomic design for greater operator comfort

See Boomer now!

NEW HOLLAND

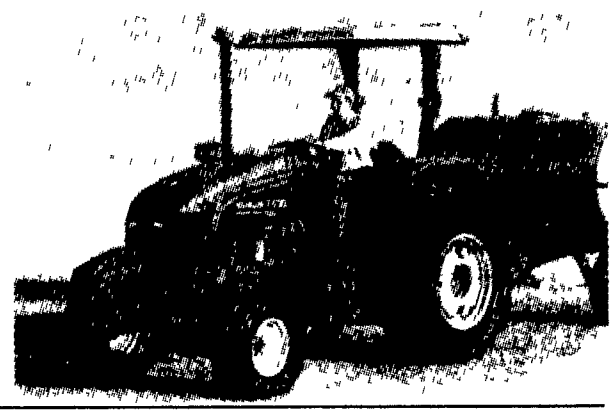
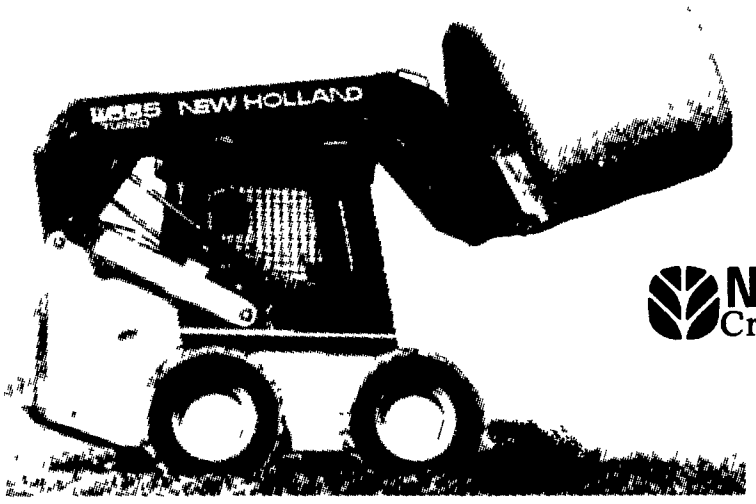
New Holland 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors feature a 16x16 Pulse Command™ transmission with push-button power shifting within each of four speed groups. Speeds are evenly spaced 18% apart, with nine speeds in the usual two- to seven-mph working range. Plenty of gear overlap makes range shifting unnecessary most of the time.

The shuttle lets you pull out from a dead stop or change direction without clutching. An optional, electro-hydraulically engaged creeper is also available.

NEW HOLLAND





Any job, any time, anywhere

Hard work demands productive, dependable equipment, like the New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader. Super Boom has unbeatable stability and visibility, faster travel speeds, superior dump height and reach, greater bucket and lift capacity and more attachments than anyone

Stop in today and see what Super Boom can do for you.

Crop Field Day June 17

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — The Penn-Jersey Extension Partnership is conducting a Crop Field Day June 17, from 10:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. in Belvidere, N.J., eight miles northeast of Easton, Pa.

Agricultural specialists and agents from Rutgers and Penn State will present information and hands-on evaluations of corn, soybeans, and forage stands to improve yields, control weeds, analyze soil fertility, and increase profitability.

Speakers include Dr. Jeremy Singer, forage specialist, Rutgers University; Dr. Dennis Calvin, entomologist, Penn State; Dr. Brad Majek, weed specialist, Rutgers University; Dr. Greg Roth, corn specialist, Penn State; Dr. Doug Beegle, soil specialist, Penn State; Dr. Elwood Hatley, soybean specialist, Penn State; Northampton County Agent Greg Solt; Warren County Agent Everett Chamberlain; and Hunterdon County Agent Robert Mickel.

Topics include: evaluating alfalfa and grass; evaluating your weed control program and management of escaped weeds; identifying insects that reduce yields and stand vitality; corn evaluation and tips to increase yield; soil fertility and health for maximum yield; soybean stand evaluation; sprayer calibration; yield estimate; and PSNT/scouting.

A $5 registration includes morning coffee, lunch, handouts, and a Corn-Soybean Field Guide. Bilyk Farms, the site of the Field Day, is located at the junction of Rt. 519 and Brass Castle Road in Belvidere, N.J.

From Pennsylvania, take Rt. 22 east to Phillipsburg, N.J., take Rt. 519 north for nine miles or take Rt. 80 east to Rt. 46 east to Rt. 519 south. Travel approximately two miles.

From N.J. take Rt. 31 north to Rt. 46 west to Rt. 519 south. Travel approximately two miles.

To register by phone or for a flyer, contact one of the following offices: Northampton County Cooperative Extension at (610) 746-1970, Hunterdon County Cooperative Extension at (908) 788-1339, or Warren County Cooperative Extension at (908) 475-6503.

DIGGING DOWN? POWER UP!

Kubota introduces the KX-Series mini-compact excavators from 22.2 HP to 42 7 HP, featuring Kubota's "Power Up" hydraulic system that increases digging performance and traveling speed.

Whatever your construction needs, we have the right excavator for you The KX-41 and KX-71 come with a two speed swing system that improves operator feel in delicate digging areas, while the KX-101 and KX-151 are equipped with the "TPSS" two pattern selection system that lets the operator choose the most comfortable operating pattern

If you require an excavator that delivers superior performance and digging capabilities, work a Kubota KX Excavator and "Power Up".

Model	HP	Digging Depth	Operating Weight
KX-41	22.2	6'9 1" -7'11.3"	3,615 lbs
KX-71	32.2	8'9.1" - 10'2"	6,415 lbs
KX-101	36.6	10'1.3" - 12'5"	8,115 lbs.
KX-151	42.7	12'0 3" - 12'8"	12,025 lbs

Kubota.

Prices Starting As Low As $356.00 per month.

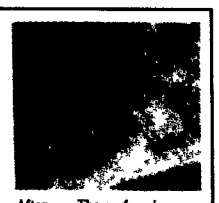
WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

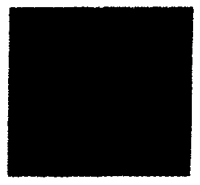
Before The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed



After The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

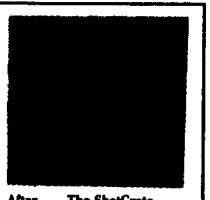
Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the stave's are completely worn away



After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure.

EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last

Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

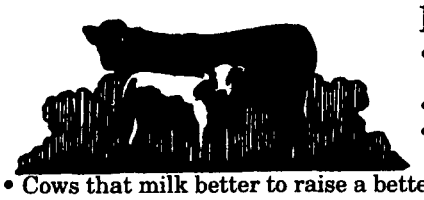
Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef



- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

EBY is the leading manufacturer of aluminum bodies and trailers for agri-transportation. Our products are designed for superior strength, reduced weight for greater payload capacity, minimum maintenance and higher resale value. In addition to premium standard features, we offer full custom options built to your specs.

EBY's complete line includes models for every requirement:

- Gooseneck Trailers- lengths 14' - 32'; widths 7', 7'6", 8' and 8'6"
- Bumper Hitch Trailers- lengths 12' - 18'
- Grain Bodies- lengths to 24', plus landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'
- Flatbed Bodies- lengths to 32' in 5 widths
- Landscape Bodies- lengths to 12'

For quality equipment and customer service that works as hard as you do, nobody offers more than EBY.

The Complete Line of Eager Beaver Trailers

There are few things in life that are this dependable. Although many look-a-likes are on the road today, no other trailer company provides the latest technology and more innovations, than Eager Beaver. 100% sealed modular wiring harness, Roto-Rings® and one-piece mainframes are standard features on tagalongs and detachable lowboys.

For over 50 years, Eager Beaver has been manufacturing high quality construction equipment trailers from 5-70 ton capacity. We use only the highest quality components on the market to ensure a safer, more reliable and dependable trailer. Just as important, our network of dealers throughout North America provide security that we're always near when you need us!

PURINA DAIRY HERD PROFILE

Daryl Keener, Purina farm consultant with Hess Mills discuss their feeding program with Jonathan and Jolene Martin. With large capacity and dairyness the Tina cow peaked at 145 pounds of milk per day. A stablemate Ellie also peaked at 145 pounds of milk and is projected at 35,610m and well over 1,043f and 868p.

Wheatland Dairy Farm located just west of Churchtown along Rt. 23 has been in the Martin Family since 1858. Representing the sixth generation on the farm, Jonathan and Jolene Martin milk 50 to 55 Holsteins in a conventional tie-stall barn. The rolling herd average is 21, 397m 829f 683p. This is noteworthy because back in November 1998, only six months ago, the herd average was only 18,267m. That's when the Martins switched to Purina feeds. The immediate noticeable increase in production and herd health has them completely satisfied with their present feeding program.

"We could not have been nearly as successful in farming if the cows would not milk more than they did six months ago," Jonathan said. "I had to do something to get more milk out of the cows."

That something was found in the Purina Proteus custom blend in the TMR mixer with corn silage, haylage, high-moisture corn and a little dry alfalfa hay. In addition Purina's Freshener Pak helped bring the cows into production with better body condition and minimal freshening problems. A higher forage diet is part of Purina's nutritional recommendations and no BST is used. Even with the higher milk production, a 3.8 percent butterfat test has been maintained since the Martins began to use Purina feeds.

"We had heard from some neighbors that Purina was doing a good job," Jonathan said. "And our veterinarian had a good word for the herd health he found in other Purina herds. So we decided to try Purina and we have not been disappointed.

"I like the detail in their nutrition program. Their feed consultants want to work for you. If you have a problem, they seem to be able to find a solution that works and continues to work. And along with the higher production, herd health especially at freshening, and better conception rates, we are paying out less for feed than we were."

"That's why we recommend Purina. They have worked for us."
